To the future of the University of Toronto — to the men and women who are yet to make history within these walls—we dedicate this book, in the confident hope that the years to come may prove even richer in achievement than those of the century which we now celebrate.

IN this year of grace, 1927, the University of Toronto will celebrate the hundredth anniversary of the granting of the Royal Charter to King's College, its predecessor. It is necessary, however, to go still further back to find in the formation of the Province of Upper Canada, the germ of origin from which this great Confederacy of Colleges sprang. In the Constitutional Act of 1791, (George III, 31) under which the Provinces of Upper and Lower Canada were separated and the former placed under British Civil and Criminal Law, provision was made that a portion of the Crown Lands should be set apart for educational purposes.

Before being appointed first Governor of Upper Canada, Lieutenant-Colonel John Graves Simcoe had, in a letter to Sir Joseph Banks, the President of the Royal Society, outlined his views in regard to what should be done to establish a British Colony in this, then an unbroken wilderness. In his scheme he included "a college of a higher class." After his appointment and during his tenure of office he kept this object in view so that shortly after his return to England an address of the Legislature was presented to the King asking "that his Majesty would be graciously pleased to direct his Government in this Province to appropriate a certain portion of the waste lands of the Crown as a fund for the establishment and support of a respectable Grammar School for each district thereof; and also a College or University for the instruction of youth in the different branches of liberal knowledge."

The British Government readily consented to this request and appointed a Committee to report upon it and recommend how best it could be met. They recommended in 1798 that a grant of over five hundred thousand acres, valued then at an average price of about ninepence an acre, would be necessary to provide a fund which would be sufficient for the endowment of the proposed University and Grammar Schools. They also recommended that the said University should be at York (Toronto) and that one-half of the lands set apart should be used for its support. It was soon found, however, that such a fund would be entirely inadequate, and further proceedings were postponed until an increase in population rendered the lands more valuable.

A first step was taken when in 1807 Grammar Schools were founded in four Districts of the Province. Then came the war, 1812-1815, when men's minds were occupied with more momentous matters. But in the interim there had arrived in York a personage who was destined to play an important part in the educational, religious and political life of the Province. John Strachan, born in Aberdeen in 1779, was induced in 1799 to come to Canada to take a position in connection with Governor Simcoe's scheme of education. On his arrival in Kingston he found that the original plan had been abandoned, and he was seriously considering returning to Scotland when he was prevailed upon to remain as a tutor to the Cartwright family at Kingston. While thus employed he studied for Holy Orders, was ordained in 1803, and on being appointed to the Mission of Cornwall he founded there a school for boys and young men, which became famous in the Province. In 1812 he was appointed Rector of York and while on his way thither war was declared between Britain and the United States. After the war he became an Executive Councillor and in addition to his many duties, Headmaster of the famous Blue School or York Grammar School.

Appointed in 1823 Superintendent of Education and finding in Lieutenant-Governor Sir Peregrine Maitland, a warm supporter of the cause of high learning, he set about to revive the idea of a University. On the appeal of the Governor the British Government agreed to exchange a portion of the original grant of wild lands for more productive property and on March 15, 1827, His Majesty King George IV, was "pleased to grant a Royal Charter by Letters Patent under the Great Seal, establishing at or near the Town of York, in the Province of Upper Canada, one College, with the style and privileges of a University for the education and instruction of youth in Arts and Faculties, to continue for ever, to be called King's College." This Charter, while the most liberal that up to that time had been granted by the British Crown, was not pleasing to the majority of the inhabitants of this Province. It required that the Chancellor, the President and the members of the College Council be members of the Church of England, it placed the supreme control of the University under the Bishop of Quebec as Visitor and it made the Archdeacon of York (Dr. Strachan) the President ex-officio. Dr. Strachan was blamed for the exclusive nature of the Charter and even to-day there are writers who place on his shoulders the blame for nearly all the trouble that followed, overlooking the fact that he protested to the Colonial Secretary at the time and that if his advice had been followed, many of the objectionable features of the Charter would have been eliminated. But having obtained this gift from the Crown, which on the whole was of great benefit to the Province, he felt it his duty to support loyally all the conditions there laid down. The storm that resulted both in Parliament and out was so great that the establishment of the University was delayed for fifteen years. However, a Council was appointed in the meantime with a President, Registrar and Bursar to realize upon the sale of the Crown Lands and thus secure a permanent income. Among the first acts of the Council was the purchase of a site, viz., 164 acres of "eligible land," the north halves of three farm or Park lots lying far to the north-west of the town and two avenues of approach "through the adjacent farms." The sum paid for this magnificent property, viz. £4,210 currency or $16,840 was a wise investment and showed not only foresight on the part of the Council but a breadth of vision not generally found in those days. It is a matter of regret that thirty years later so much of this property was alienated for park and building purposes, the Queen's Park being leased to the City for a period of nine hundred and ninety-nine years, and building lots leased for varying periods which prevented their use for university purposes.

After ten years of strife the Charter was amended by the Act of 1837, which made the judges of the Court of King's Bench the Visitors in lieu of the Lord Bishop of Quebec and making it non-essential that the President should be the holder of an ecclesiastical office nor the members of the council adherents of the Church of England.

The University Council, urged by the indefatigable President, Dr. Strachan, immediately proceeded with their plans for opening classes and for erecting buildings, which were abruptly suspended on account of the breaking out of the rebellion. With the appointment of Sir Charles Bagot as Governor-General, however, a fresh impetus was given to the project and almost his first official act was the laying of the Corner Stone of King's College, with great ceremony, on 23rd April, 1842.

This building was on the site of the present Parliament Buildings, the imposing University Avenue having been laid out some years before to provide a fitting approach thereto. But only the east wing was built and before that was finished the Government had decided that the whole project was too expensive. As a result of the Act of Union of 1841, the Parliament Buildings on Front Street, between Simcoe and John Streets, had been vacated, and these naturally presented themselves as having ample accommodation for the College. Consequently they were fitted up and here on June 8th, 1843, the first matriculation of students took place. There were twenty-six of them, the majority of whom afterwards became famous in the life of the Province. On the 8th and 9th of June the public inaugural lectures were given in the east hall by the professors on the staff.

Six months later a Medical Faculty was formed and on January 15, 1844, the first lectures were given in the west hall of the Parliament Buildings. Two students were matriculated, W. M. Lyons and James H. Richardson, the latter destined to become one of the University's most distinguished graduates.

The amendment to the original Charter and the opening of the College unfortunately did not allay the strife and controversy of the previous fifteen years. It was still regarded as too exclusively Church of England in character and the fact that its endowment was derived entirely from public funds was an additional grievance. The two sides were championed by Dr., now Bishop Strachan, and the Hon. Robert Baldwin. Between 1843 and 1849 no less than four bills were introduced in Parliament in an endeavor to solve the university problem. Finally as a result of the elections of 1849 and the return of Hon. Robert Baldwin to power, the cause of state control of the University and its secularization triumphed, and the name of King's College was replaced by that of the University of Toronto. In 1853 a further act abolished the Faculties of Medicine and Law and separated the University from the College, giving to the former the duties of designing the courses of study, holding examinations and granting degrees, and to the college the duties of instruction and discipline.

But still the University had no permanent place of abode. With the return of Parliament to Toronto in 1849, as a result of the riots over the Rebellion Losses Bill in Montreal, the University had to vacate the Parliament Buildings in Front Street. The original King's College building, which, in the interim had been used by the Government for a lunatic asylum, was now used for college purposes while the building afterwards called Moss Hall was fitted up for the Medical School

Again in 1852-3 Parliament moved to Quebec and back to the buildings on Front Street went the University to be again turned out when Parliament returned to Toronto in 1856. This last move, however, was but for a brief space, for a friend of the University had arisen in the meantime in the person of Sir Edmund Walker Head, Governor-General of Canada (1854-1861), a man of scholarly attainments and cultivated taste. His warm personal interest in education aided the Chancellor, William Hume Blake, in bringing about the erection of the handsome building now known as University College. While the Government had in 1853 confiscated the King's College site and building, the Governor-in-Council in 1856 deeded back to the University all the property lying west of the College (University) Avenue and voted £75,000 for buildings and £2,000 for a Library and Museum. Steps were immediately taken for the erection of the buildings and the Senate sent Mr. F. W. Cumberland, an architect of great ability and wide experience, to England to make a special study of University and other buildings. Plans were prepared and approved and very quietly and without ceremony on the morning of October 4th, 1856, the foundation stone was laid. To realize what the vicinity of the University was like in those days, it is interesting to quote what Sir Daniel Wilson said in an article written for "The Varsity" in 1890.

"Here then, in the bush, and far away as it then seemed from the young city that had laid its own foundations at the mouth of the Don and was then but slowly extending westward and northward, the members of the building committee met one morning in October, 1856, and laid the first stone under the south-east corner of the new building. It would not have been wise—perhaps not even safe—at that date to lay the foundation stone of the new building with pomp and parade, such as had been enacted in the University park on St. George's Day, 1842, when Sir Charles Bagot laid the corner stone of King's College. In truth the great majority of the citizens remained in ignorance of the fact that somewhere to the north of them in the uncleared bush, a building was in progress which was destined to be the pride of Toronto. The spot was so inaccessible that the first work of the contractors was to clear a road and build a wooden bridge across the ravine at the very point where the Volunteer's monument now stands."

Two years later His Excellency placed the coping stone on the turret of the great tower, depositing under it a bottle with coins and documents, and a year later, on October 4th, 1859, the magnificent building was opened for lectures and the new era might be said to have begun.

For nearly thirty-five years the constitution of the University remained unchanged, but in 1887 an act was passed to secure a more uniform standard by the union of the various denominational universities of the Province, the establishment of a Faculty of Medicine and provision for the federation of Colleges such as Trinity, Victoria and St. Michael's, Knox and Wycliffe with the University.

Of some of these colleges special mention should be made. When by virtue of the University Act of 1849, King's College was secularized and religious teaching abolished, Bishop Strachan with the support of Sir John Beverley Robinson and many other eminent churchmen "sought to establish a university in which secular education should be built up upon the foundation of religious faith." Disappointed and beaten by the secularization of King's College, the Bishop at the age of 71 years, set out for England to get assistance to build another university and to secure a Royal Charter for it. He succeeded and the corner stone of Trinity College was laid on the 30th April, 1851. On the 15th January, 1852, the college was opened, and on the 16th July of the same year the charter with the power to confer degrees was granted. Over a year previous to this, however, a Medical Faculty had been organized and instruction commenced in a small building on the west side of Spadina Avenue, on November 7th, 1850. The bitterness that existed seventy-five years ago has been ameliorated, time has obliterated many of the differences and it can safely be stated that in the coming together of Toronto and Trinity, first by federation in 1904 and more recently by actual removal to Queen's Park, in 1925, the ideals of its founder have been realized in a way undreamed of then.

UNIVERSITY COLLEGE UNDER CONSTRUCTION, 1857-8

The founding of Victoria College dates from about the year 1830 when the Methodist Church established at Cobourg the Upper Canada Academy. On October 12th, 1836, a Royal Charter was granted mainly as the result of the untiring efforts of Dr. Egerton Ryerson. In 1841 the Parliament of Canada changed the name to "Victoria College with the power to confer degrees of Bachelor, Master and Doctor of the various Arts and Faculties." From 1854 to 1887 the Toronto School of Medicine was affiliated with Victoria as its Faculty of Medicine and for many years carried on its work in the little village of Yorkville. Under the Federation Act of 1887 Victoria surrendered its University powers and on October 1, 1892, removed from Cobourg and entered into possession of its new buildings in Queen's Park.

Knox College was founded in 1844, its first classes being held on Front Street near the present Queen's Hotel. It was incorporated in 1858, given power to grant degrees in Theology in 1880, in 1885 was affiliated with the University of Toronto, and federated in 1890.

Wycliffe College dates from 1877 and is this year celebrating its semi-centenary. Under the name of the Protestant Episcopal Divinity School it opened its classes in the school house of St. James' Cathedral. In 1882 it moved to a small building just north of where the Chemistry and Mining Building now stands and in 1891 to its present site on Hoskin Avenue. In 1885 it was affiliated with, and in 1890 federated to the University.

St. Michael's College was established in 1852 by the Basilian Fathers in a small house on Queen Street, its classes afterwards being transferred to St. Michael's Palace on Church Street. It was incorporated in 1854 and shortly afterwards the first buildings were erected on its present site. In 1881 the College was affiliated with the University of Toronto and in 1910 became a federated college under the act of 1887.

The Faculty of Medicine may be said to date from the year 1843 when the King's College Council established six professorships and appointed six well-known physicians to fill the positions. Classes were opened on January 15, 1844, with two matriculants and a few occasional students in a small building adjacent to the Parliament Buildings on Front Street. Five years later there were about twenty students and a building afterwards known as Moss Hall was erected on the site of the present Biological Building. In 1853 the Medical Faculty was abolished and medical teaching was conducted by other colleges or schools until 1887 when the staff of the Toronto School of Medicine became the Faculty of Medicine in the University of Toronto. In 1903 the Trinity Medical School was amalgamated with it and shortly afterwards, viz., on October 1, 1903, the present Medical Building was opened.

The Faculty of Applied Science can trace its origin back to the year 1877, fifty years ago—when the Ontario Government erected a building on the south side of the University lawn, now known as the Engineering Building. It was added to in 1885. The development in technical education was so rapid that within fifteen years more accommodation was necessary. The Chemistry and Mining Building in 1905 and the additions thereto with the more recent buildings of the Mechanical and the Electrical Buildings have provided facilities for practically all branches of technical education.

The Royal College of Dental Surgeons, incorporated in 1868 and commencing instruction in 1875, affiliated with the University in 1888 and became the Faculty of Dentistry in 1925. The Ontario Agricultural College was affiliated in 1887 and the Ontario College of Pharmacy in 1891 and the Toronto Conservatory of Music in 1896.

Athletics have played an important part in University life since the earliest days. A Cricket Club was formed as far back as 1877 and a Rugby Club the same year. Early pictures show how the grass had to be mowed to provide a proper playing field. Before that however, the "Games," as the Track and Field events were called, were the great annual event and were held on the lawn. In 1881, through the energy of Professor Loudon, afterwards President, a room in Moss Hall was fitted up as a gymnasium and used until its demolition in 1888. In 1885 there was a Baseball Club, in 1890 the Lacrosse Club was formed and in 1891 the Hockey Club. In 1891 the Literary Society appointed a Gymnasium Committee and securing the co-operation of the University authorities undertook the raising of funds for a gymnasium. The building was completed in 1892 on the same site as the present Gymnasium, and at the same time the Athletic Association was formed under a constitution, which with some amendments has controlled athletics down to the present. In 1894 the Tennis Club, the Gymnasium Club and the Fencing Club were founded, while Association Football flourished in all the affiliated Colleges. In the same year the Gymnasium Building was enlarged to accommodate the Student's Union, and an Instructor in Athletics was engaged. In 1907 a permanent Physical Director was appointed in the person of Dr. James W. Barton under whom all branches of athletics were rapidly developed. In 1911 the Massey Foundation offered to erect a building to house all the students' athletic and social activities. Ground was broken in 1911, but owing to the breaking out of the Great War completion was delayed. On Armistice Day, 1919, Hart House was officially opened by the Duke of Devonshire, and this magnificent gift combining both beauty of architecture and the maximum of utility was placed at the disposal of the student body.

A few brief comparisons will give an idea of the remarkable growth of our University. When the site was purchased in the year following the granting of the Charter in 1827, it was described as "the northern halves of three farms"—the town with a population of barely 1,800 then being entirely south of Lot (Queen) Street and east of Yonge Street. When the foundation stone of King's College was laid in 1842 the northern boundary was given as the line of the present Dundas Street and the population of the city was 15,000. When the present University College building was completed in 1859 the northern boundary of the city was Bloor Street and the population 42,000; but there was much vacant land and all around the University were fields and commons. When the present Chancellor, Sir Wm. Mulock, was a student in the early sixties, a favorite pastime of the men in residence was to indulge in rifle practice from the residence windows towards the vacant fields where St. George Street now is. When the disastrous fire of February 14, 1890, occurred and over half the University building was gutted, the only other buildings on the grounds were the School of Science, Wycliffe College on College Street and the Observatory Buildings, where Convocation Hall now stands, part of the present Biological Building and the old building called Moss Hall, which after many vicissitudes had been turned over to the undergraduate body for a student's union. Here The Varsity saw the light in 1880, here the University College Literary and Scientific Society flourished, here the Y.M.C.A. held its meetings for a time, here the elections were held and here in the basement the first gymnastic apparatus was set up. When the building was demolished in 1888 to make way for the Biological Building, The Varsity of that day said "Moss Hall has been swept away and Science has again shouldered Literature to the wall."

Since that time the grounds have rapidly filled up. The library was completed in 1892 and enlarged in 1910, the Biological Building west wing in 1889, east wing 1892, the first gymnasium in 1892 and added to for the students union in 1894, Victoria College, 1892, the Chemical Building, 1895, Wycliffe College, 1891, with additions in 1902, Medical Building, 1902, the Chemistry and Mining Building, 1905, Convocation Hall, 1907, Physics Building, 1907, Household Science Building, 1912 (the gift of Mrs. Massey Treble), Annesley Hall (Victoria College Women's Residence), 1903, University College Women's Residence (Queen's Hall), 1904, the three men's Residences, 1908, Mechanical Building, 1909, the Faculty (now College) of Education Buildings 1910, the Central Heating and Lighting plant 1911, Knox College 1915, the Stadium 1911, with concrete additions in 1924, Hart House commenced in 1911, the completion of which was delayed on account of the World War until 1919, the Electrical Building 1921, Anatomy Building 1922, Simcoe Hall, 1924, Trinity College, 1925, Forestry Building, 1925, Hockey Arena, 1926, Hygiene Building, 1927.

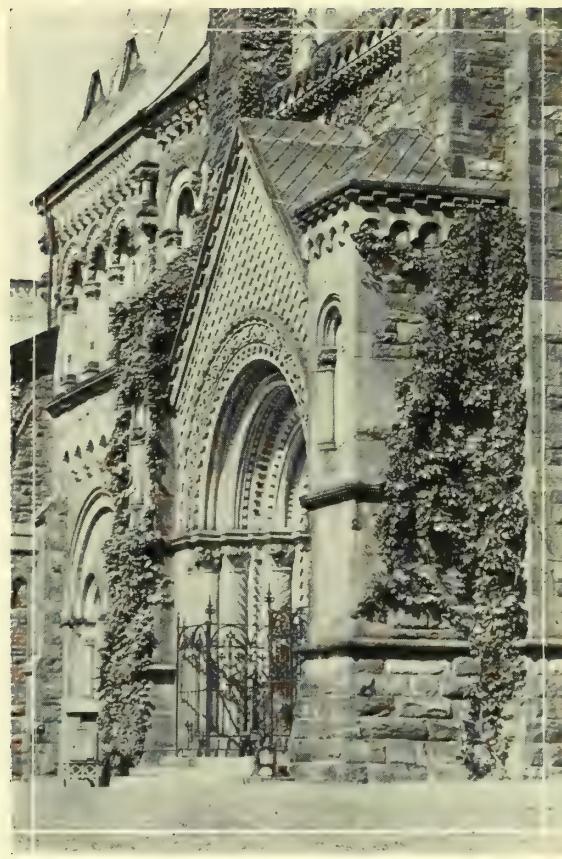

When King's College opened in 1843 there were twenty-six matriculated students; in 1859-60, the first session in the new University College building the attendance was 188. In 1866-67 the numbers were approximately 250. In 1886-87 the attendance in University College was 387 and in School of Practical Science 56, making a total of 442. In 1906-07 the total attendance in Arts, Medicine, Applied Science and Household Science was 3,038. In 1926-27 the attendance in all faculties and departments is placed at 5,003.

And let it not be forgotten that in this space of one hundred years the destinies of the University have been guided by the wise governance of its illustrious Presidents: Dr. John Strachan, from 1827-1849; Dr. John McCaul, 1849-1880; Sir Daniel Wilson, 1880-1892; Dr. James Loudon, 1892-1906; and Sir Robert Falconer since 1907. When one contemplates the past and looks towards the future, how true, comprehensive and prophetic is the motto

To the Graduating Classes of the Year 1927

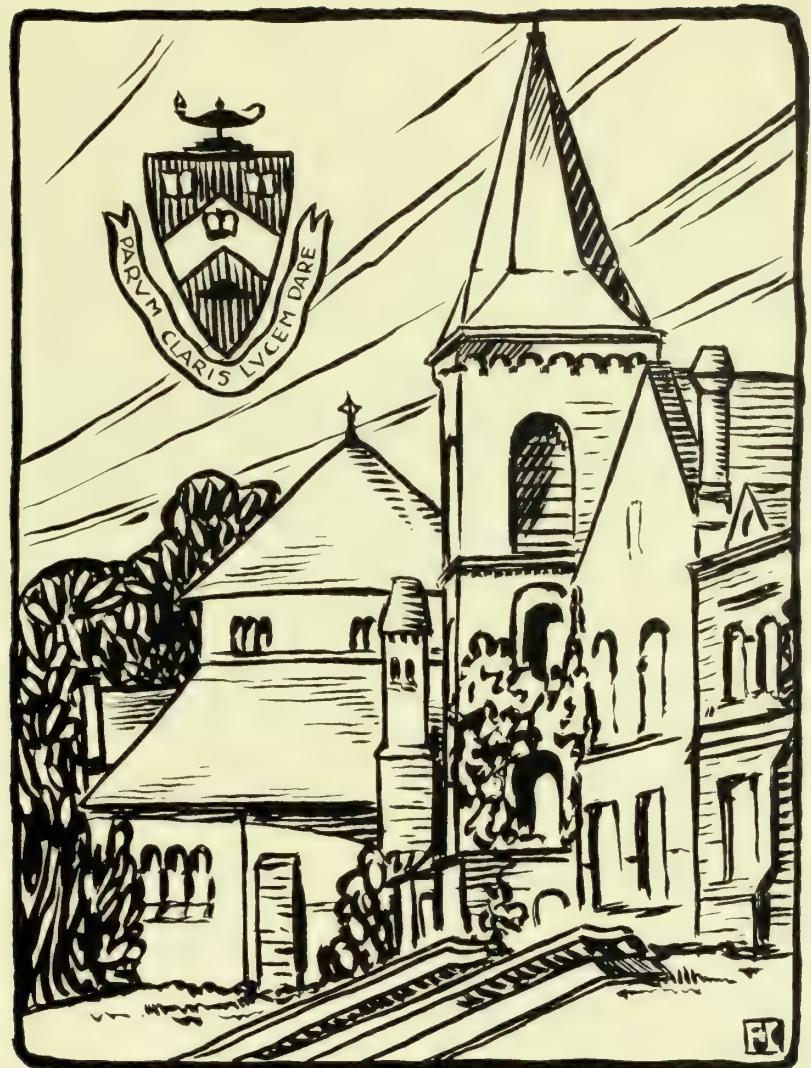

BY the time this issue of "Torontonensis" appears, one hundred years will have elapsed since King George IV. granted a Charter to King's College, Toronto. Though compassed about by many difficulties, the university gradually took its present character, and now holds a proud position in the academic world. This centenary of the granting of the charter will be celebrated in the first week of next October. I hope that many of those who are graduating will return and share in the event.

The years of your undergraduate course seem short as against a background of a century, but you have enjoyed the advantages of the university when they have been probably greater than in any like period in the past. You are members of a university with great traditions. Round it has gathered much of the history of this province. Through all its crises it has acquired new strength. The degrees of your "Alma Mater" are well known and carry respect everywhere. The oak has driven its roots deeper into the soil of the country as it has been swayed by strong winds; to-day its branches spread wide, new departments and faculties have been shooting forth, and to its shade there come every year increasing numbers of students from the province, from Canada, and from other countries. You are fortunate in the days you have spent here. I hope that you will be equally happy in the coming days of your life, and that in them you will have far more sunshine than cloudy weather.

Class of 2T7, University College

"You have not seen the last of my bonnets and me!"

T was in the fall of 1923 that we began. We were not—even then!—an extremely large class. It has been alleged against us that we were not, and are not, extremely clever as a whole, and that we do not possess many members outstanding in an athletic or an academic sense. Let people say what they say, we know that during our four years in these corridors we have done our bit in both spheres. Varsity championship teams in Rugby and Hockey have been more than a little strengthened by the presence on them of men from 2T7: while Track Meets and Assaults-at-Arms also supply evidence that our detractors are no less inaccurate than unkind. Nor have the women been backward, but have represented us particularly strongly on more than one team that has won distinction for the University. In Interfaculty sport, too, men and women alike have done their full share.

Academically speaking, we are not altogether “unhonoured,” though, perhaps, “unsung.” The University Calendar contains the record of a fair budget of scholarships won by 2T7. We have, it may also be said, given strong support to such cultural societies as the Players’ Guild.

As for journalistic pursuits, this year sees an attempt at establishing a U.C. Magazine, sponsored by some of us; both the Editor-in-Chief and the Women’s Editor of “The Varsity” come from our ranks; and the first Women’s Editor of Torontonensis is one of us.

But there is one distinction still that will always be ours. We are of the Class of the Hundredth Anniversary of the University of Toronto. Whatever we may be as scholars or athletes, we feel ourselves transfigured by the mellow, romantic light of those vanished years. As we step reluctantly, like many before us, from the portals of “the old grey tower,” this thought consoles us: we shall not be forgotten. We will always be the Old Hundredth.

Commerce and Finance 2T7

BEHOLD in this section, set aside for the graduating year in Commerce and Finance, a tribute to the industry and progressiveness of the classes of former years. The "Commerce Club" was formed seven years ago at the time of the inauguration of a new course in Commerce. Its aim has been to bring together the commerce students of all the colleges, to aid in shaping the course, and to voice student opinion. No further indication of the fulfilment of their hopes is needed than the present popularity of the course, notwithstanding the greater overhead costs and higher mortality rate than in other arts courses.

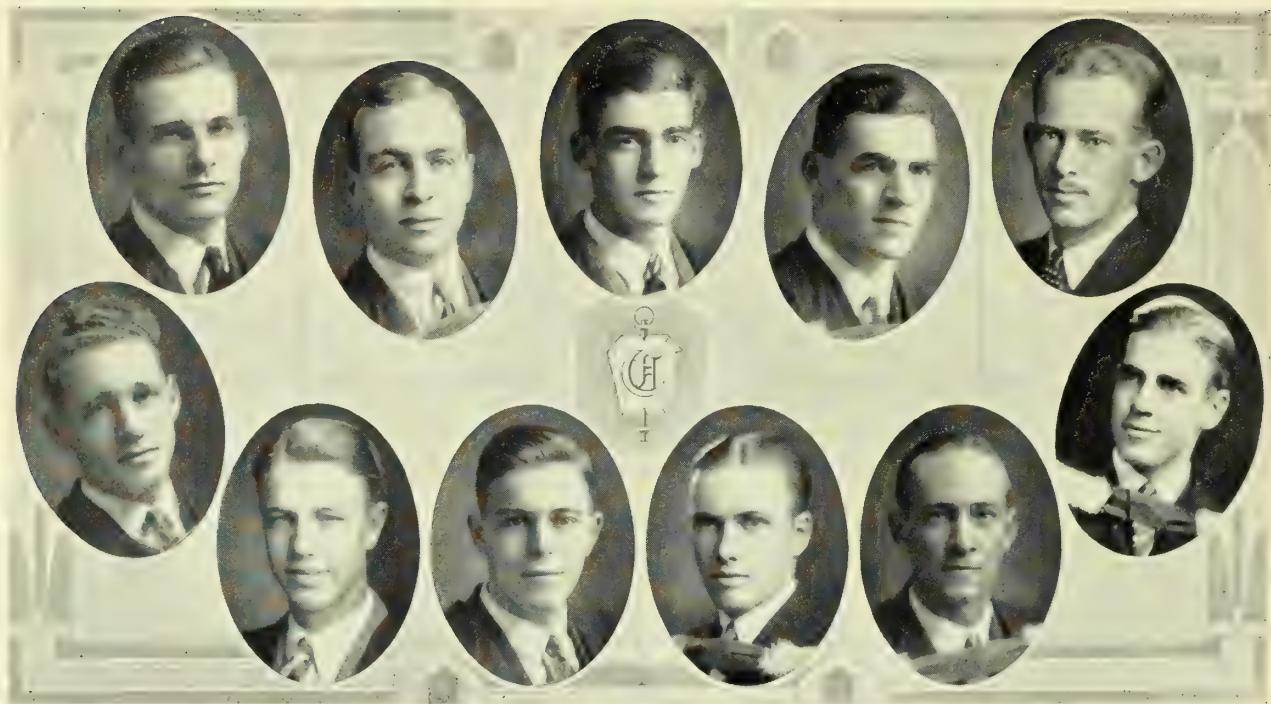

In the fall of '23 a group of seventy-five freshmen took their academic lives in their hands by enrolling in Commerce and Finance. Many fell prey to the hazards of Actuarial Science and Economic Geography in their first year. The survivors on returning, found themselves faced with a much longer trek to Hart House when headquarters were moved from 69 St. George Street to Baldwin House. Economic Theory and Actuarial Science took a heavy toll in second year. The Junior Year, although greatly bewildered by problems of foreign exchange and computation accredited itself very favourably. With the extinction of the old (B.A.) C. and F. course last session, and the reorganization in our own course which preceded it, now, those who remain in '27 constitute the first class to graduate in the consolidated C. and F. course leading to the B. Comm. degree.

The achievements of the class of '27 in athletics have been recorded elsewhere. Suffice it to remind the reader of such stalwarts as "Bill" Stollery, "Harry" Bales, "Frank" Hutchison, "Ken" Roos and "Fran" Lorenzen.

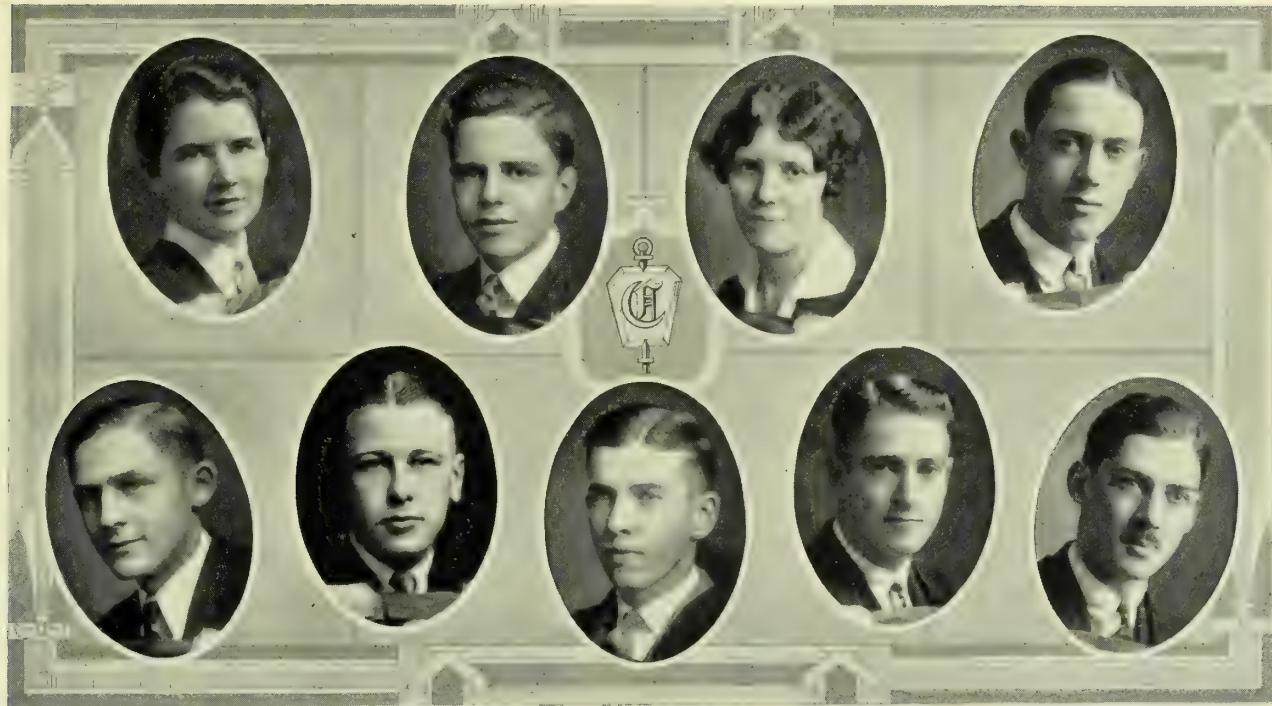

And now we stand on the threshold of the business world ready to become "applicants for the consular service, trade commissioners abroad, the foreign representation of Canadian firms, employment managers and statisticians in large business houses."

Victoria 2T7 Class History

"Farewell and be hanged! Friends must part."

ROM the moment they first climbed the steps of old Victoria, it was very evident to all that the class of 2T7 was: "The finest class to enter Vic. and bear the freshman name." Dignified Seniors were amazed; Juniors turned from sympathy to admiration; while even the hard-boiled Sophomores almost regretted that they had not delayed registration for a year.

A strong class spirit was discovered at their first class meeting and has steadily grown in the Bob practices, meetings and parties during their four years at college. They will never forget their first impressions of "The Bob," the one great annual function which is purely "Victorian"—floods of green light, a musical battle of parodies on well-known tunes, queer caricatures and amusing skits depicting the Freshmen—a thorough verbal initiation by the Bob Committee.

A year passed, and they too were conceited sophomores, hot on the trail of the poor little freshmen of 2T8. Capturing a lone first year man, they cast him adrift, penniless, in the wilds of Donlands—a regular kidnapping story. They dared to change the traditional Bob, instituting a minstrel show, applauded even by the victims. Then the 2T8 initiations! In command this time, they enjoyed the privilege of being the last class to conduct an all-night ceremony. Initiations have since disappeared from the campus, but they look back upon both occasions with pleasure and profit.

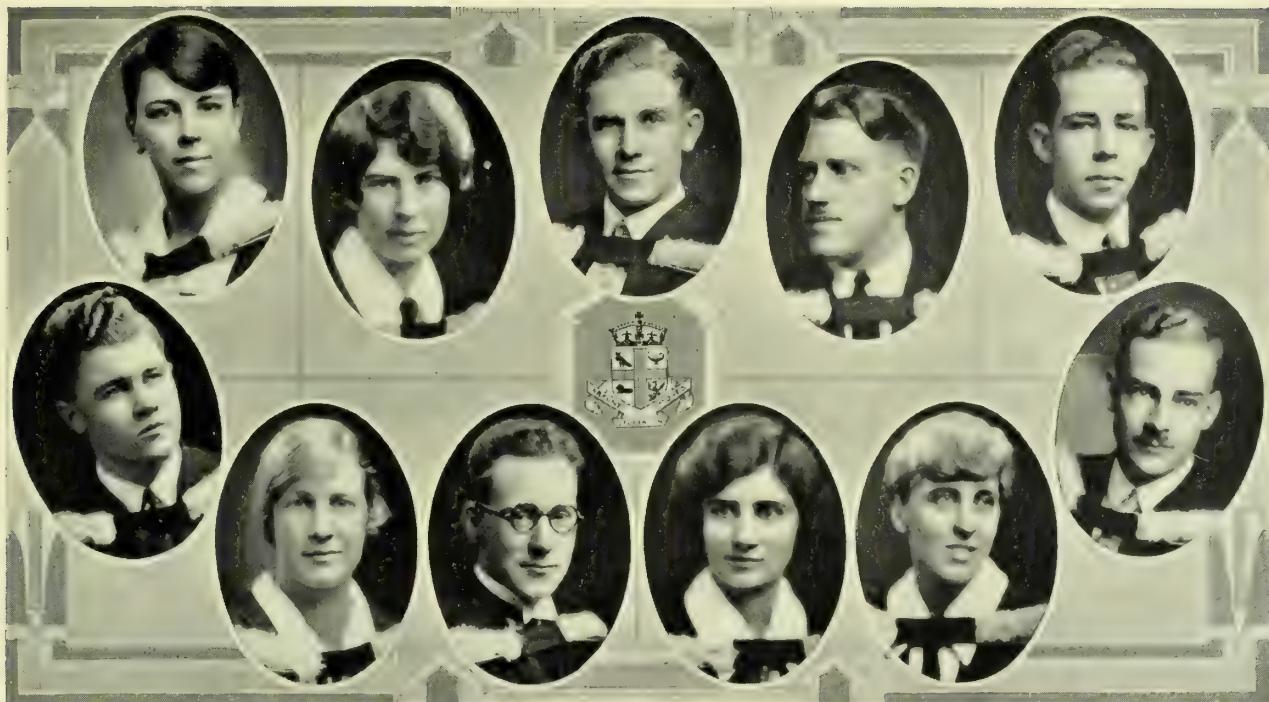

Vic. 2T7 has been most fortunate in its class functions, and each party has been more delightful than the last. Indeed it was not so much where they were or what they did, but rather the friendliness and co-operation among them, which really counted. With a strong class consciousness they were able to find common interests and pleasures—and joy was unconfined.

In Freshman days they held their first hike, to Hog's Hollow; and, grouped around a blazing camp-fire, celebrated hilariously their freedom from Sophomore domination. Obeying tradition the year decided against dancing, but that did not prevent a rollicking good time at Central Y, followed by a Leap Year Skating Party, and a dinner and theatre party during the winter term. But the Sophomores reversed their former decision, and after a hike to the banks of the Humber held two big class dances. Jupiter Pluvius frowned on the Juniors' hike, so they returned, damp but cheerful, and enjoyed their hot-dogs and coffee in Annesley tea-room. The 2T7 men were entertained by the women at a delightful dance in Wymilwood last March, and recently they were the hosts at a gay Masquerade in honor of the women.

Athletics must not be forgotten, for the 2T7 men have taken part in inter-faculty basketball, rugby and hockey, in the Mulock Cup and Jennings Cup teams; and the year has contributed its share of stars to the intercollegiate ranks. The girls have been prominent in interfaculty baseball, basketball and hockey, and, like the men, have won places on the intercollegiate teams.

In work as well as in sport 2T7 has maintained a high standard. Several members entered with scholarships, and Victoria Students have headed their courses from year to year. The freshman registration of one hundred and fifty-four has only decreased to one hundred and thirty in the fourth year; and with such a record the Centenary Graduating Class may confidently face the future.

To the graduating class of '27 the most precious reward of these four years of quickened life has been the satisfaction of work well-done, the joy of light-hearted play, and, best of all, the inexpressible treasure of friendships formed in the conflict of mind with mind and the satisfying comradeship of true and tried friends.

Meds 2T7 Class History

NINETEEN twenty-one! and Varsity! So Meds. 2T7 came into being —back in that gaunt age of ignorance and hope. Through the medium of sleek-haired Dave Pratt, of 2T6 fame, we were without delay commandeered into the Order of The Red Necks. With the help of a meeting brought about through the S.C.A., Ken Ferrie was elected President, and 2T7 began to stir with the anticipation of an oncoming initiation.

We met on Queen's Park Band Stand and into the mysteries of the night, scouts were sent, to determine the degree of malevolence apparent about the Old Gym. We finally marched boldly to our doom, and received, with all due ceremony, the benedictions literally poured upon us. 2T6 had an abundance of tanglefoot, but as there were no flies on us they had perforce to apply the mucilaginous material as pliant plasters, which later became dried and dreadful. Finally, in the amphitheatre, as true charioteers, we rose in rebellion against the taunts inscribed upon absorbent papyrus. We were speedily squelched by apples and 2T6 men from above.

With Xmas came the sudden realization that Dr. Bailey had condemned our rabbits; and that examinations were upon us. So we continued skipping English Expression, we fooled the doorkeeper of the Physics lecture room, and stayed home to study.

As the Spring of 1922 approached, we forgot the fears of examinations and even ceased sniffing at Walters and his gloves. The elections were upon us! Hot spit! Walker and Rusty Heffering were in the ring, and Joe Armstrong fearlessly dared anyone to referee. Such an election—such a campaign! There never was and never will be one just like that. The Year waxed wrathful. Civil war was rampant. There were meetings and dinners; secret conferences and public slanders; outward confidence and inward doubt. Election day was red hot. Rusty was elected! 2T7 relaxed and again we were friends.

For a time in the Spring of '22 School was boarded up following activities on the part of the lower three Medical Years. But the fight with School became a thing of the past; Lash Miller ceased winding stop watches; Dr. Bailey bade us desist from the pursuit of paramecium; and Doctor Burton played God Save the King. Our wretchedness increased until, with the crisis over, we awaited the dreaded results. Many strode on into Second Year, but many, alas, were not so fortunate.

The Autumn of 1922 passed quickly. In spite of definite restrictions, we initiated the Frosh, to our "shocking" delight, with great fervour and success, as well as with shingle stain of a potent order.

In 1923 Dr. Watt greeted us in the new Anatomy Building. There we fought a great fight, from which we emerged, thanks to Rusty's tact, with a love for the building, and an increased respect for Professor McMurrich. Examinations bore down upon us, but after one last all-night session with Organic Chemistry, most of us emerged triumphant.

In the Fall of 1923, with Hiker Rutherford as President, we again waged war upon text books, looking in vain for the signs of an easy year. Neurology early claimed our attention. We gave Dr. Linell his first impressions of Varsity Meds, and under our tutelage he verily "raised the tenor" of his lectures. Bio-chemistry afforded a pleasant relief from the ever present "pheeseologee". Bacteriology further stained our characters, and added one more lab book to the already threatening mass of unwritten labs.

And so we gradually evolved, until we reached the long looked for Clinical Years. Those of us who had Dr. Hepburn as clinician came to understand him, but alas for those who didn't! 'Twere well if they studied Gaelic for the final.

We became suspicious of "timbre," and percussion notes; and wasted much valuable time heatedly discussing Negative Pressure. Our eyes grew dim in Pathology; our taste buds numb in Pharmacology; and between Oskar and Velyien we were slowly ground into hopeless submission. Wally Dinwoody saw us over the rough spots. The year passed with the occasional dance, and terminated in the inevitable quizzes.

Fifth Year! 1925-26! Lectures! Notes! Lectures! We drifted from the shoals of Therapeutics to the labours of "OBS;" from edema to prophylaxis; from Jurisprudence to Medicine, flavoured with a little of Paediatrics. We at least learned matter of grave importance in the Hypnosis of Hens. In spite of the burden of unending lectures, and in spite of bitter complaints about Surgery forgotten, Blake Laidlaw saw to it that we enjoyed life. And Dad Linton as Treasurer was responsible for a marked improvement in our financial status. At the end of this year, we lost two class mates in Robinson and Willie McNicoll. Here is hoping that with improved health they may be able to continue their work later on.

With Bud Macklin as President, 2T7 entered its final year. A splendid dance and banquet have been made possible through our fat bank account.

In the Autumn of '26 we lost a sincere friend and counsellor, Dr. Gideon Silverthorne. The loss of his genial personality came as a distinct blow to each and every member of 2T7.

2T7 originally numbered 143. Our graduate strength is 113. As 29 of these have joined us from other years and other courses, our "mortality rate" has been 41 per cent. But all of us—even those who long ago left 2T7—would make mention of those courteous and gracious workers in the Secretary's Office. Miss Jones, Miss Russell and Miss Perry have, in their manifold ways of assisting us, won our most heartfelt appreciation.

So the stretch of years apparent in 1921 has melted away—and quickly. Mingled with the regret of breaking our friendships of six years is the eager expectancy of the newer fields of endeavour to which we pass. We go, without fear, not in ignorant arrogance, but with a desire to learn, with a hope for success, and with the wish that we may prove worthy of the teachers Varsity has given us.

Medical 2T7 "T" Holders

LES UREN—Les has been one of the most versatile athletes at Varsity during his six years in Medicine. While he particularly excels at swimming, he also performs on the rugby field, and on the basketball floor nearly as well. He has not confined his efforts altogether to active participation, having held important executive positions.

Danny Webster—Danny is very wee, but oh so mighty. He particularly excels at wrestling, having won his bout at the intercollegiate assault during the last three years. Interfaculty hockey and a member of the Senior Meds Mulock Cup Champs in 1925-26. Secretary of the Boxing, Wrestling and Fencing Club.

Evan Shute—Evan will long be remembered as one of Varsity's greatest boxers, twice winning the 175 lb. class in the assault. With this record behind him he turned his efforts to other fields, particularly wrestling and track. For the past two years he has been a member of the champion Intercollegiate track team.

Warnie Snyder—Warnie came to Varsity in 1920 and forthwith proceeded to be a star on the Dominion Championship Rugby Team. During his six years he has been the Varsity Ace, captain of the team in his fourth year, and again in his sixth year, when he led his team to the championship after one of the greatest years in intercollegiate rugby. A member of Canada's Olympic Rowing Crew.

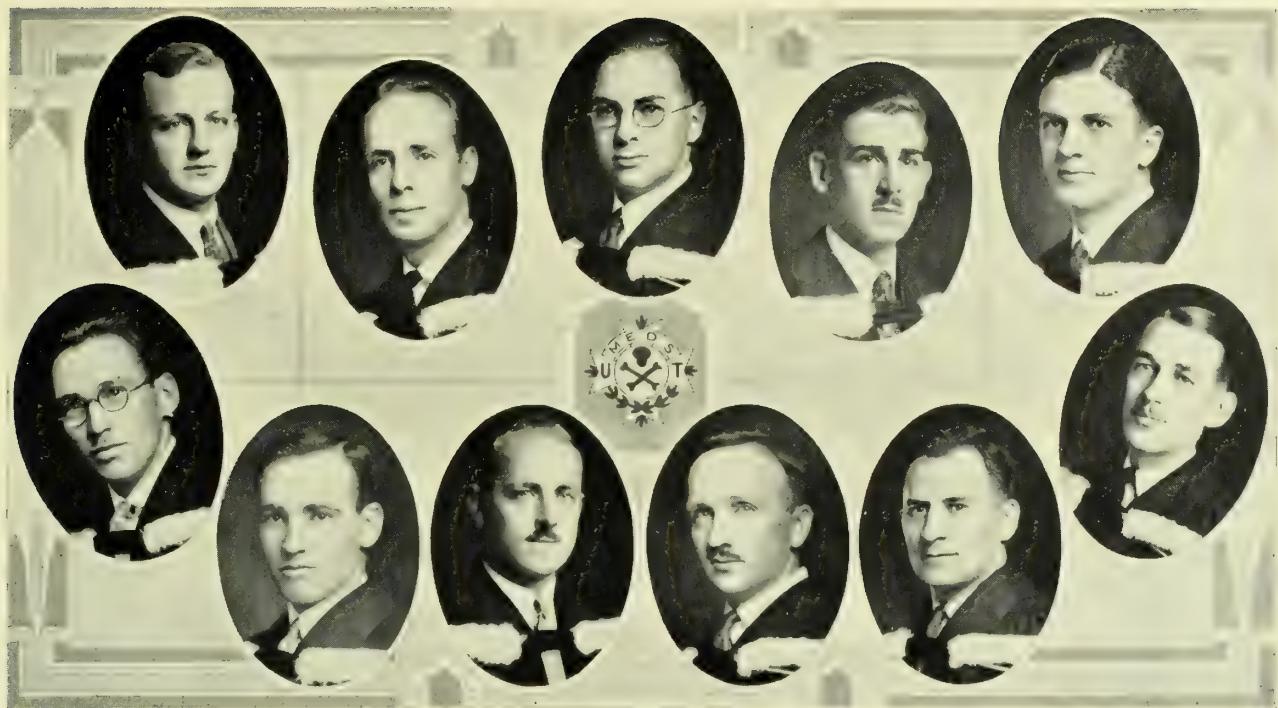

Ken Fidler—Ken hits them hard and often. Twice winner in the 158 lb. class, and right in line for another good year. Interfaculty hockey and rugby.

Ken. MacGibbon—Ken specializes in rugby. Quarterback on the Varsity senior team in 1924. Unfortunately injuries have kept Ken. out of rugby during the last two years. Interfaculty hockey.

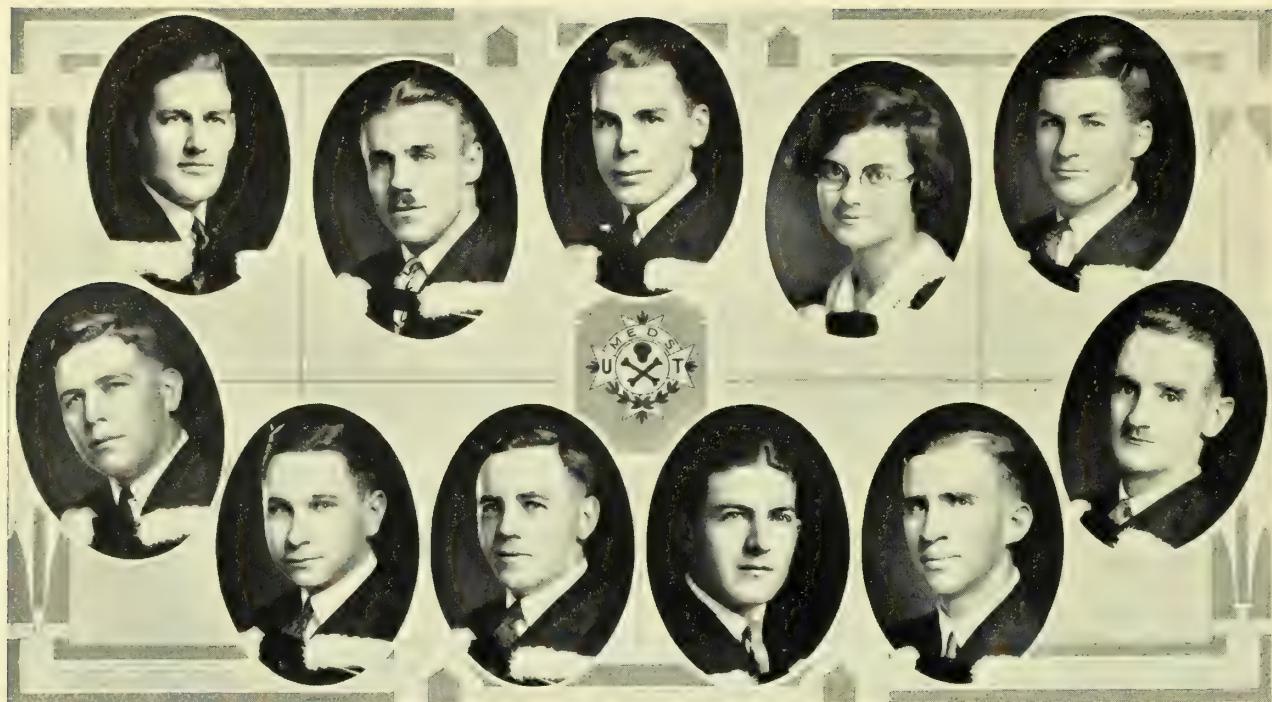

Marion Hilliard—Marion has been one of the outstanding among the women athletes at the University. While she particularly excels at hockey, she also takes part in tennis tournaments, and plays interfaculty basketball. Star left wing of the intercollegiate hockey team for the past five years.

Doc Marritt—Doc has been playing around at rugby for six years. A member of the intercollegiate squad since 1923, and this year a regular on the championship intercollegiate team. Interfaculty hockey. Vice-Pres. of the Rugby Club, and Pres. of Medical Athletics.

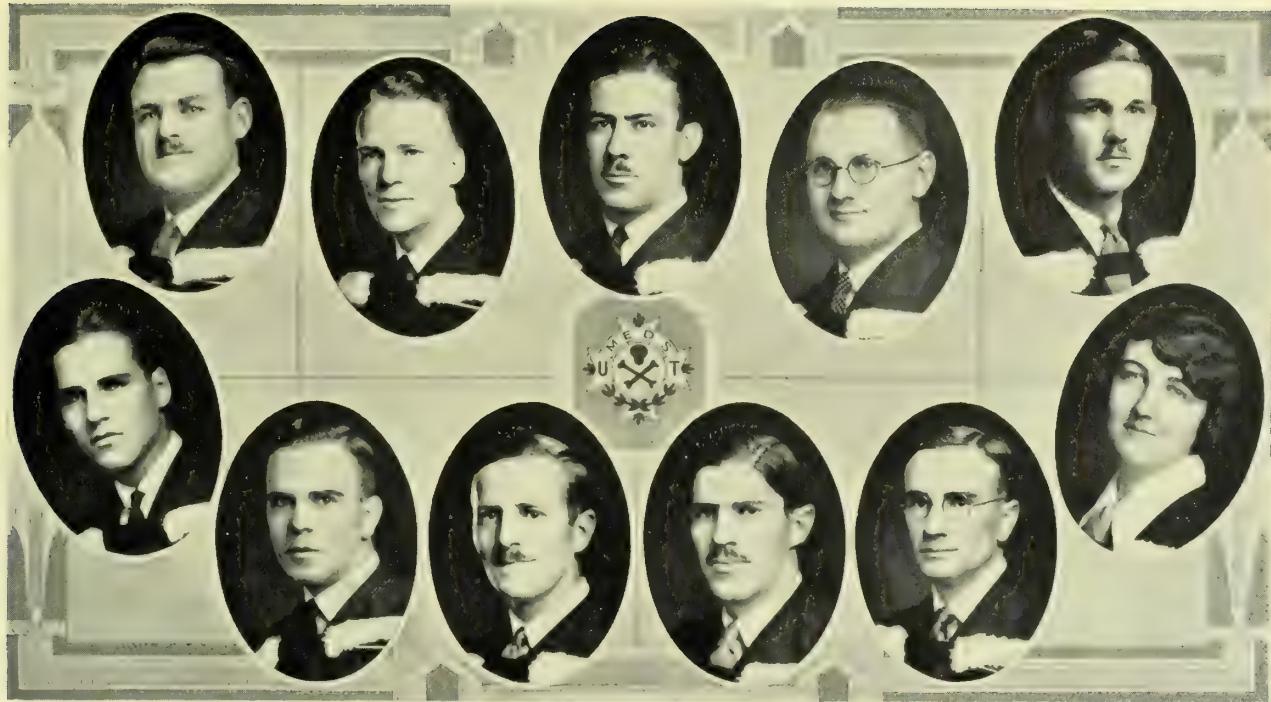

Chuck Potter—Chuck has been steadily rising in the basketball world of fame. He has been a member of the senior squad for the past two years.

History of the Class of 2T7 S.P.S.

HN 1923, one hundred and some, eager little students entered the old School Building to imbibe such knowledge as would transform them into that man of mystery, the engineer. They were shy little boys, too, as different from the lordly young men who have struggled through four years of study as the chrysalis is from the butterfly. Each year has seen changes in the structure of the class. Some have dropped behind to enrich the years following and to keep alive the spirit of 2T7 in School. Members of preceding years have joined us and have been welcomed into the bosom of the family.

Upon arrival, and finding ourselves leaderless, we promptly boosted T. B. Smith to the fore. After the first few days of uncertainty and bewilderment, we looked forward with mixed feelings of dread and anticipation to a certain night fixed by the haughty sophomores. And who will forget the line-up at the door of the "old gym" when the north wind, with a mean low temperature, didn't comfort us much with respect to our immediate fate. This fate was all that was required to let us indulge in a common desire for revenge to be gratified in about a year's time.

Our grudge against the Sophs had the point greatly blunted a few weeks later when we feasted in good fellowship at the Carls-Rite.

After a holiday sufficiently long to enable us to forget everthing that we had learned the first year, we came back with a vastly different feeling than when first we entered School. We returned with the anticipation of renewed friendships and the school took on a meaning unknown to us when we entered "a building" the first year.

The fortunes of the year were entrusted to the capable hands of Monty Laughlin.

To 2T7 goes the distinction of staging the last of "ye old time" initiations.

The Soph-Frosh Banquet, School Dinner, Junior School Dance and School Night were high marks in the social activities and all went smoothly and too swiftly until we crashed with more or less disastrous results into the Spring monster—exams.

Although we thought fit to choose Reg. Rochester for our leader in the third year enterprise, the powers that be didn't approve, so we decided that Al. Lee was the logical man.

Those who were keen on getting a ticket to the masquerade that year will remember the dim, weird light from the late harvest moon, and the half-frozen circle of enthusiasts playing cards by the light of the lamp in the grass plot between Convocation Hall and the School. But what man will say that the trivial sacrifice of arising at two o'clock in the morning was not amply repaid by the splendours of the masquerade.

The outstanding feature of our third year to all intents and purposes was work. But even under this serious handicap we managed to attend the Senior School Dance, School Dinner, School Night and a numerous variety of other social functions.

The final year found George DeLaplante at the helm and the year was crowded with an enjoyable mixture of work (?) and play. Of the many formulae and much knowledge that were required during the four years, one fact was indelibly impressed upon us which was the acceleration in the fleetness of time.

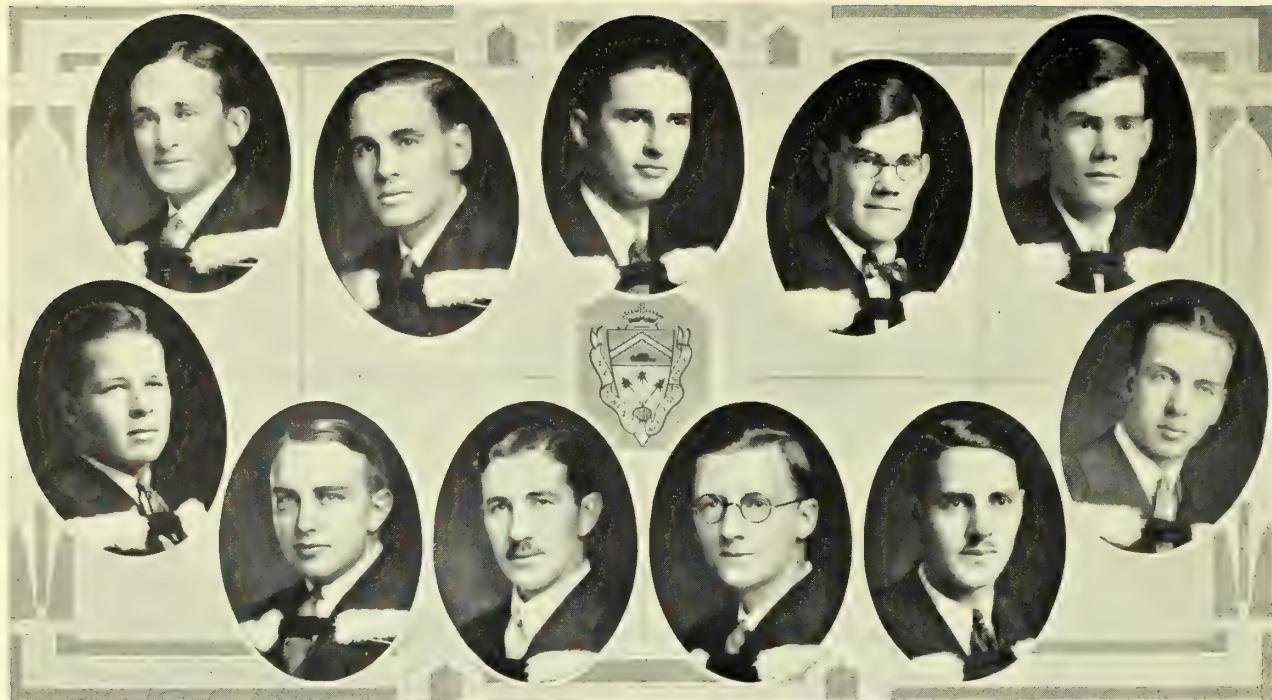

The Senior School Dance came up to the high standard of Science parties and credit is due to Al. Lee for a most successful School Dinner at the Carls-Rite. The School At-Home at the King Edward and the Graduation Dance at Ryan's Art Galleries will long stand out in the memory of those in attendance.

2T7 has its Athletics too. As we glance down the list of first colour holders we see fourteen names of our graduating class or 13.6 per cent of the year have attained this distinction. Many also have won their second colours, not to mention those who have confined their activities to Interfaculty sports. In the fall of '24 the Mulock Cup champions were mainly from this premier year, while again in the spring of '25 they were only defeated by our own Senior team in the Sifton Cup finals.

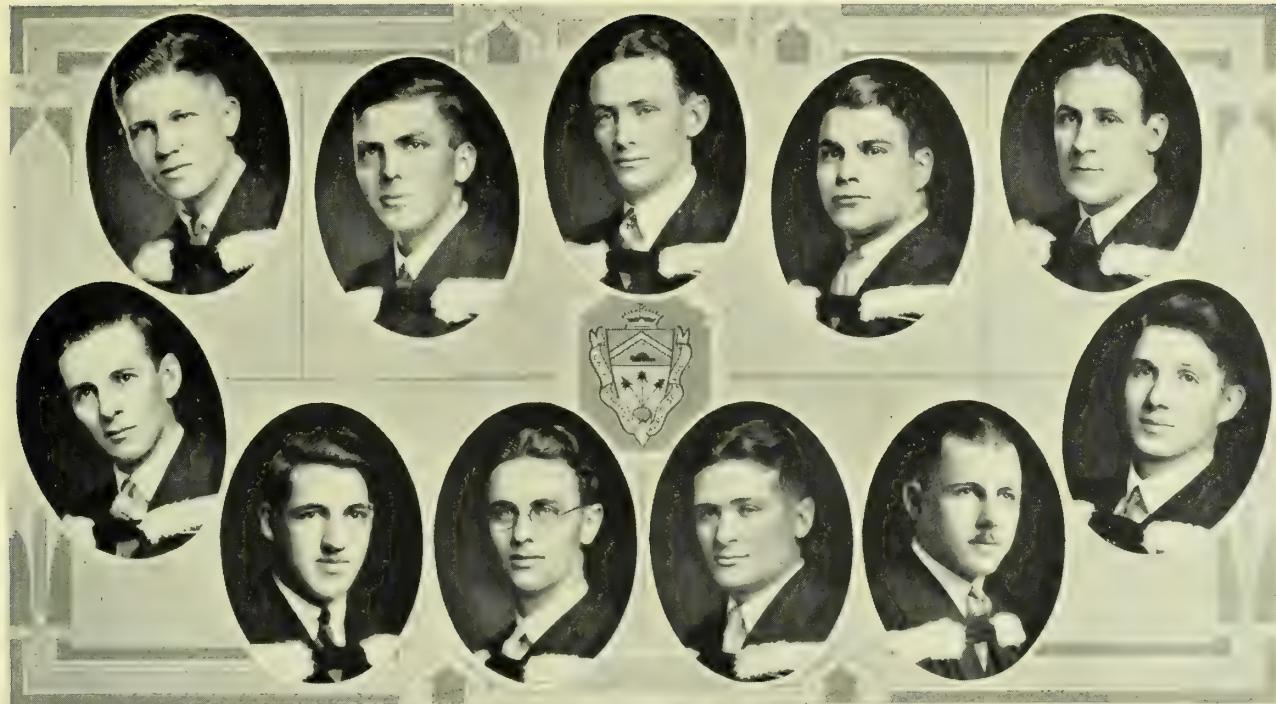

Under the able direction of Shortreed, Enouy and Lorenzen swimming in school has been put where it was a few years ago. Thompson, Sievert and Vernon have done wonders in the rowing club, "Spike" being a member of the Olympic team in 1924. Next year the rugby team will certainly miss Bruce, Carrick, Hargrave and Irwin, and we all are wondering who can become great enough to fill "Pug" Irwin's shoes—the best outside in Canadian football. The English Rugger will lose Lee and Morris, stalwarts for three years past; Charlie Parkinson our fencer, will probably go duelling in France and he certainly should win a blonde. Charlie Morrison, our lone graduating track man, has won his colours in each of his three years with the team and was a member of the relay team which broke the record, which had been standing for seventeen years, last fall. Since a freshman, Don McCrone has been flipping around in the gymnasium apparatus and anyone watching him for a few minutes will know how he won his "T."

To 2T7 goes the distinction of producing the first editor-in-chief of Torontonensis from school.

No wonder 2T7, with its scholarships, goodfellowship and athletic activities, has been one of the most colourful that the Little Old Red School House has had the pleasure of turning loose into the wonderful Old World.

Social Service 2T7

N impulse towards service—vague but persistent. Where seek an outlet? Perhaps in social service. Is the work interesting? Is it worth while? Does it offer fair remuneration as well as interest? Inquirers. A decision. Enrolments. The first day. A diverse group. Some fresh from school or college. Many experienced in various forms of work. Little beginnings in friendship.

Lectures, seemingly fragmentary. And field work. Visits to agencies—note book in hand. Visits to large families in small houses—note books abandoned and memory charged with names of ten children, domestic details, ages, personality. More lectures—not beginning to synthesize. Old traditions about broth and jelly and orphan asylums tottering. A new point of view emerging with its new methods of dealing with age-old problems. Neighborliness and sympathy assuming new meaning. A strange new state of interrogation. Why does unemployment persist? Why are farms untenanted and cities crowded? Why do police courts grind on and on? Some shocks and disillusionments offset by gleams of sincerity and courage and beauty found in unexpected places.

Pressure of work. Essays. The competition and, better still, the co-operation of class room life. Festivities too—the tailored hat and coat of field work usage gaily cast aside.

More lectures! More field work! An orderly medley of experiences clearing the vision, shaping purpose, developing tolerance—that rare blend of sympathy and understanding. And best of all a growing faith in human possibilities, in man's capacity to mould as well as to be moulded by his environment. This last the ultimate ground for optimism—the social worker's creed and charter.

New visions of the meaning of education—of science and art—of religion in its broadest and best sense. New interpretations of old needs and longings.

The two years ending. The big world outside the class room looming large. Social work a new profession slowly building up standards. Needing many recruits—young people—but not too young—with vividness of personality—with education, with high purpose. Many positions in Canada to choose from but how choose wisely? How find the right outlet? And how find courage for the delicate task of helping people out of trouble? Threads of education and experience gathered up and woven into the fabric of the new work—work so interesting and yet so intricate that one whispers beneath one's breath:

Oh give me sympathy and sense,
And help me keep my courage high.
Oh give me calm and confidence,
And please—a twinkle in my eye.

Department of University Extension

N the Second, Third and Fourth Years of the Teachers' Course there are enrolled at the present time some four hundred teachers who are proceeding to the degree of Bachelor of Arts but who are at the same time carrying on their teaching duties. Since 1920 one hundred and twenty-three teachers have graduated in this course. This year twenty of them are due to graduate. Photographs and biographies of some of them will be found on the pages devoted to Arts graduates.

The Teachers' Course is an adaption of the Pass Course, so arranged that it may be taken one subject at a time, if necessary. Most teachers take three subjects each year and so accomplish in five years the same amount of work as does the student in residence in three years.

Lectures in the Teachers' Course are given in Toronto in the late afternoons, on Friday evenings and on Saturday forenoons. In Hamilton four Arts classes are carried on, chiefly in the evenings. Teachers who do not live close enough to the University or to Hamilton to take advantage of these Teachers' Classes are given their lectures in the Summer Session but they are required to do a good deal of preparatory work by correspondence either before coming to the Summer Session or during the winter following it.

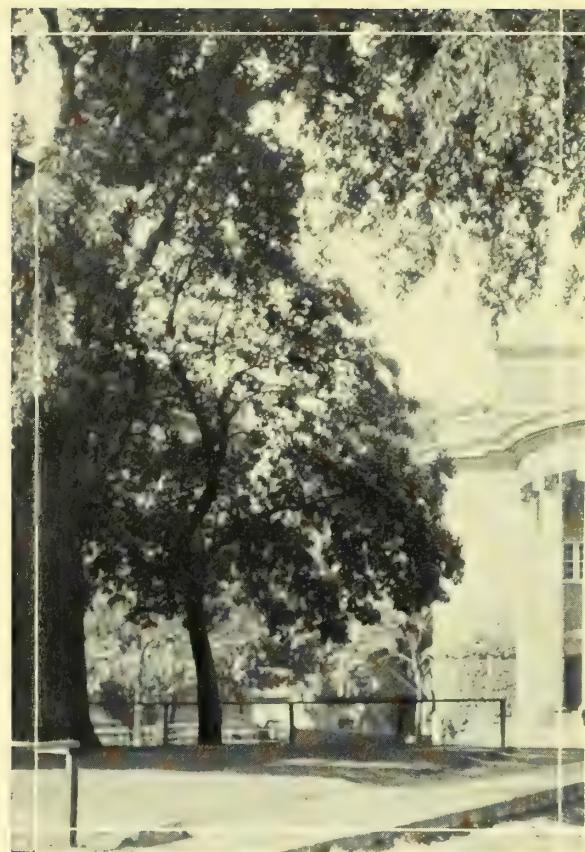

Under these arrangements any teacher in Ontario is able to proceed for a degree in Arts without giving up teaching.

The Teachers' Course has recently been made much more attractive because, on account of changes made by the Department of Education, one who graduates in the Teachers' Course may now, under certain conditions, proceed to a certificate of qualification as an Inspector of Public Schools or may take additional work at the University in order to secure a specialist's certificate for teaching purposes.

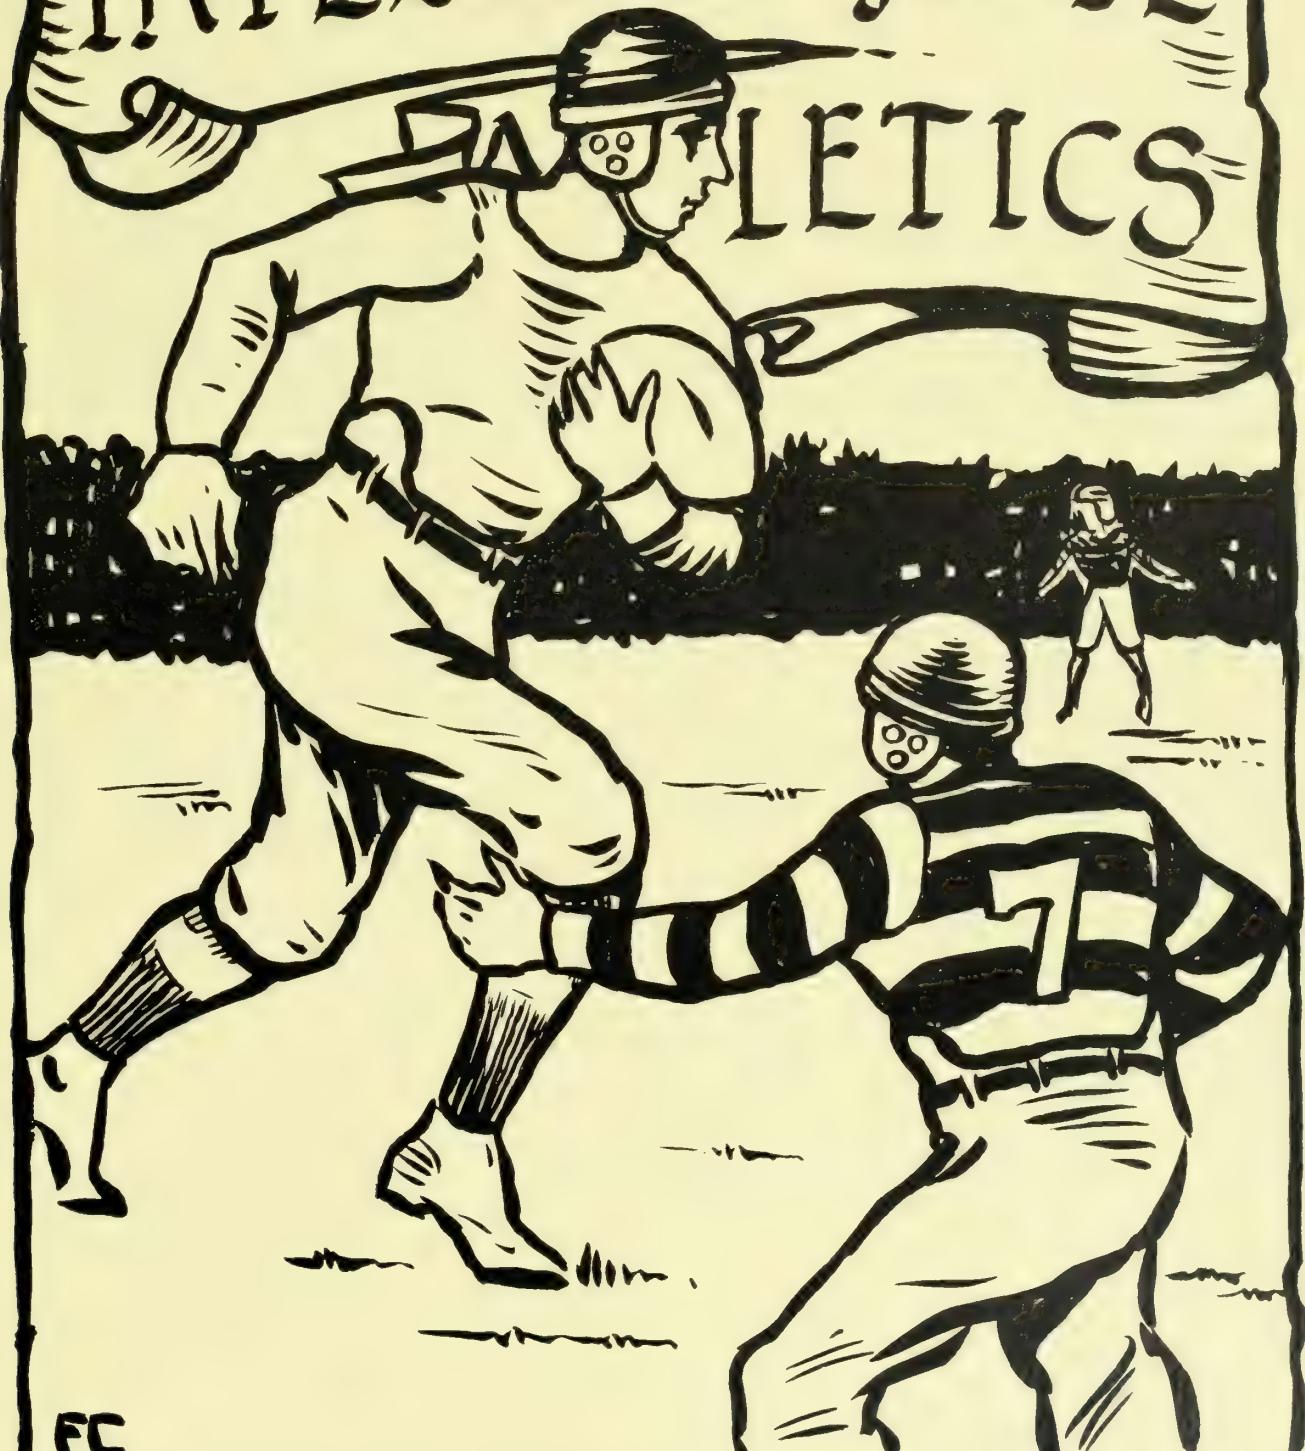

Students in the Teachers' Course are usually of mature age; they are ambitious; and they know how great the value of the degree will be to them. Consequently they are, for the most part, earnest and painstaking students who take a high standing at the University examinations.

The Department of University Extension conducts a great many other courses and classes for adults. In all of these there are this year approximately three thousand students, and Extension Lectures are delivered by members of the staff of the University each year to more than fourteen thousand people.

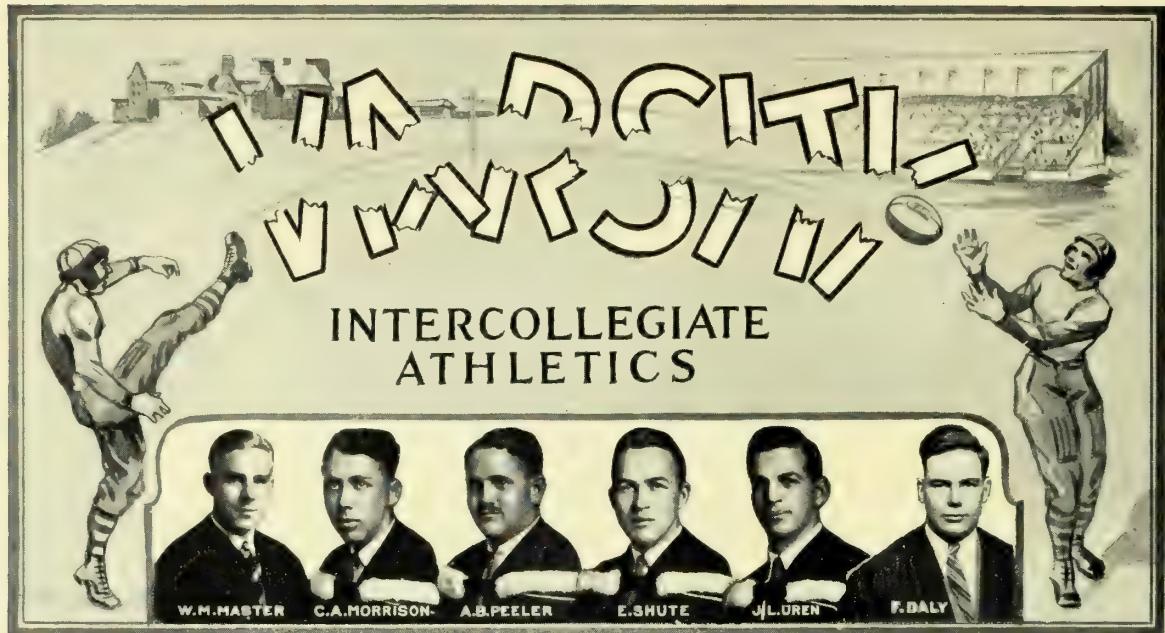

It is the function of the Department of University Extension to serve the public outside the walls of the University and this it is attempting to do for all sorts of occupational groups and for a great many different organizations.

INTERCOLLEGIATE ATHLETICS

FC

THE Canadian Intercollegiate athletic activities of the season 1926-27 have more than ever before brought, to the minds of sport followers, the fact that Canadian Universities are gradually evolving, on field and in the gymnasium, a series of competitions. These bid fair, for keenness of competition and high sportsmanship, to outdo such famous combinations in sporting circles as the Oxford-Cambridge matches or the Big Three activities in the United States. Not only are our Intercollegiate sports carried on with the same vim, but public interest runs higher here than in many places. Canadian Universities are comparatively young and the supporters of each sport are not entirely made up of graduates but attract other citizens who are primarily interested in the game. The crowds which turn out to College games testify to the splendid type of exhibition given by these teams.

The citizens of the United States tell of the annual Army-Navy rugby clash, or wax warm over the famous Big Three duels in the fall pastime. But Canada has had played for years a series of rugby games, which have now assumed, in the eyes of the students and public alike, an importance which quite equals that of other renowned sporting events taking place on this continent, or in the British Isles.

For many years preceding 1922 Queen's University was forced to take third place in the annual intercollegiate football series. It was through no lack of fighting spirit in that College that this was true, for her teams were always intent on forming the issue with all their vigour. But the material to be drawn on was limited while the other colleges with larger attendance could make a more careful selection of players.

But in 1922 events took a new turn. Queen's possessed the nucleus around which a great team was to form. In that year the Rugby title went to Kingston for the first time in eighteen years. The Queen's men repeated their victory four times in succession and on three occasions went on to win the Dominion championship in rugby, held in 1920 by Toronto.

During these four years the race for first place had become even more strenuous and filled with excitement. On several occasions it seemed that the Kingstonians' victorious march was to be halted, only to have victory wrested from the other colleges in the last moments of sparkling exhibitions of football. Toronto teams strove mightily to regain the honours held so often before 1922, and twice were on the road to success when one or other of the Queen's stars spoiled their fondest hopes.

The season of 1926 however has brought to Toronto the title so keenly sought after by her teams. The games of this series were, in the majority of cases, on a par, as regards brilliant playing, with the most memorable of rugby encounters. The colleges, after their regular games, were tied for first place. Toronto was drawn to meet McGill in Montreal and won this game in fine fashion. Then Queen's was played in Toronto. In spite of poor weather conditions the University stadium was filled and the spectators watched the Toronto team win back the title, absent for four years, in a closely played, hard fought game, which showed them to be one of the greatest teams Varsity has fielded.

In Track and Field sports Toronto retained the title won by her galaxy of stars in 1925. The next Olympic will no doubt see many of these men competing with the world's best at Amsterdam.

The Harriers of '26 captured the Intercollegiate trophy in this event against strong opposition. R.M.C. is represented in this sport as well as McGill and Queen's. Many sterling runners are therefore found in this race and Toronto men deserve much credit for their fine performance.

Varsity's senior hockey team of 1926 surpassed the records set by former great teams. Although they did not win the Allan cup from Port Arthur the hockey displayed in the closely played final games pointed to an even better season for Varsity in 1927. So far this has proven true, the Alumni team and Intercollegiate team both sweeping all opposition aside.

The boxers, wrestlers and fencers again vanquished their opponents from McGill and Queen's. With much new material and many veterans left, this team should win this year its fourth title in a row.

Basketball seems to attract the student body more each year and a championship for Toronto is looked for in 1927.

Although not so successful in rowing in '26 as in some former years a crew is already being picked for the next Olympic try-outs. With one Intercollegiate race now over it is certain that this sport will flourish in college circles.

Swimming and water polo are progressing at this University. The swimmers won the college title in 1926 while the poloists hope to accomplish that feat in 1927.

Tennis continues to interest additional students annually. Some of Varsity's players rank high among Canadian amateurs.

The Rugger team retained its '25 championship, but participated in some close games. More men than ever tried for places in '26.

Canada's National Game is well supported here and the '26 team kept up the splendid reputation of former squads in its trip to the States last spring.

Although McGill annexed the title for Intercollegiate soccer this season the trip across the border was a success once more and brought Varsity new victories.

University of Toronto Rugby Club

Senior Intercollegiate Champions, 1926

THE football programme of 1926 will linger in memory as having produced the most brilliant, impressive and satisfactory season that the students composing the present graduating classes of '27 experienced since their registration at the University; a season satisfactory not alone because the U. of T. Senior Intercollegiate team was, at length, successful in overthrowing Queen's, four consecutive times Intercollegiate Champions, to win the College title and then journey on to the Dominion rugby finals, but also because of the fine showings made by the three other University teams in the Senior O.R.F.U. and Intermediate and Junior Intercollegiate series.

After the closest race in the history of the Canadian College Union, a race in which McGill, Queen's and Varsity were, for the first time in the history of the Union, tied at the completion of the regular season, thus necessitating two extra games, Varsity finally won the title in impressive style. After failing to clinch the title in the regularly scheduled games by losing the final game on the programme to Queen's 3-1 in Kingston, the Varsity squad showed marked improvement in spirit and beat McGill handily a week later in the first of the play-off games in Montreal, and then proceeded to take the measure of the now confident Tricolour in a sudden death game in Toronto one week later.

The strenuous Intercollegiate season had had telling effects on many of the players and it was a wearied, crippled squad suffering from a super-abundance of football that faced the Ottawa Senators, Dominion Champions, at the U. of T.

Stadium in a game noteworthy for its unfit weather conditions and the strenuous and unfair tactics adopted by the Ottawa team, despite which handicaps brilliant football was provided throughout.

COACH MCPHERSON

A former Varsity player. His personality and sound rugby wisdom went far in bringing Toronto the Intercollegiate title.

Much of the success of the Senior Intercollegiate team must be attributed to the splendid coaching of "Ronnie" McPherson and "Les" Blackwell. Both had previously demonstrated their ability by winning Intercollegiate championships with the Blue and White Juniors in 1924 and 1925 respectively and, under them, the Seniors first showed that they would prove a team to be reckoned with when they defeated Camp Borden 21-5 in the first tilt of the season. Added importance was lent to the victory by the fact that the Flyers had already spent three weeks in preparation for the contest, while the ultimate Intercollegiate winners were with but one week of light signal drill behind them.

On the following Saturday the Blue opened the local season with the Toronto Argonauts in a battle for Inter-City supremacy, the game ending in a 5-5 tie.

The following Saturday the team left for Montreal to play the first game of the Intercollegiate football season and, with their followers quite confident of a Blue victory, great was the consternation thrown into the local camp when McGill emerged on the long end of a 7-3 score. This was the first time that McGill won an opening Intercollegiate game in some seven years, and might be attributed largely to overconfidence on the part of the local players as well as to the brilliant play of Ralph St. Germaine for the Red and White and the fine strategy of Shaughnessy.

On October 16 Varsity triumphed over Queen's in Toronto, a task that no other Intercollegiate team had been able to accomplish in five years, and this despite the fact that a surprise had been thrown into College circles by the return of "Red" Batstone, who had played two weeks previously for Argonauts against Varsity, to the Kingston University.

In the return McGill engagement here, Varsity secured ample revenge against the Montrealers and appeared to have the edge for the game against Queen's in Kingston when, as will be remembered, the hearts of the largest contingents of supporters that ever left Toronto for Kingston were wrent with anguish as Harry Batstone led his warriors to a 3-1 victory over the local entry.

Despite this unexpected reverse, the spirit of Captain Snyder's players improved tremendously and the Blue were easy winners in the replay games in Montreal and Toronto, both played under severe weather conditions and noteworthy for the sparkling play produced.

Warren Snyder, serving his second year as Captain and in his final year in Medicine, put in what was perhaps his best season at Varsity. He proved a brilliant field leader and, with the loyal united support of his team-mates, found himself on an Intercollegiate championship team for the second time, the only player on the present squad able to boast of such an accomplishment.

France Trimble, later elected Captain for 1927, proved himself a brilliant assistant on the backfield, while Jack Sinclair also proved himself a "Find" as a half-line player in his first season at Varsity.

The Blue showed a strong line with Howard Stollery and Harry Bales rounding out as two of the best middle wings that Varsity has ever had, the former, indeed, gaining the almost undisputed possession of the title of "the best middle wing in Canada." Bales was injured in the final game against Queen's and his absence from the line was noticeable in the final game against Ottawa. Don Carrick and "Doc" Marritt were conspicuous at inside, as was also "Bier" Rykert, who made a name for himself both as player and as manager of the squad.

After a weakness for several years at the outside wing positions, a Varsity player earned the cognomen of "the greatest outside wing in Canada," "Pug"

VARSITY-QUEEN'S GAME AT TORONTO

Irwin making himself an important factor in every Varsity game by his hard, deadly tackling, while Murray Snyder and Lou Carroll also stood out in this respect.

Despite the loss through graduation of many of their best players in the persons of Captain Warren Snyder, Pug Irwin, Howard Stollery, Harry Bales, Kennie Roos, Bill Hargraft, Frank Hutchison, Jess Carrick, Doc Marritt, Doug MacFayden and Hec. Creighton, Varsity has still many fine players left on the squad as a nucleus, while much promising material is available from the ranks of the three other Varsity teams. With a strong executive composed of H. E. Rykert, Al. Young and Freddie Dundas elected for next year, and with France Trimble as Captain, coaches McPherson and Blackwell should once more be able to round out a strong football aggregation in 1927.

SINCLAIR HEADS FOR THE QUEEN'S GOAL LINE

Senior O. R. F. U. Team, 1926

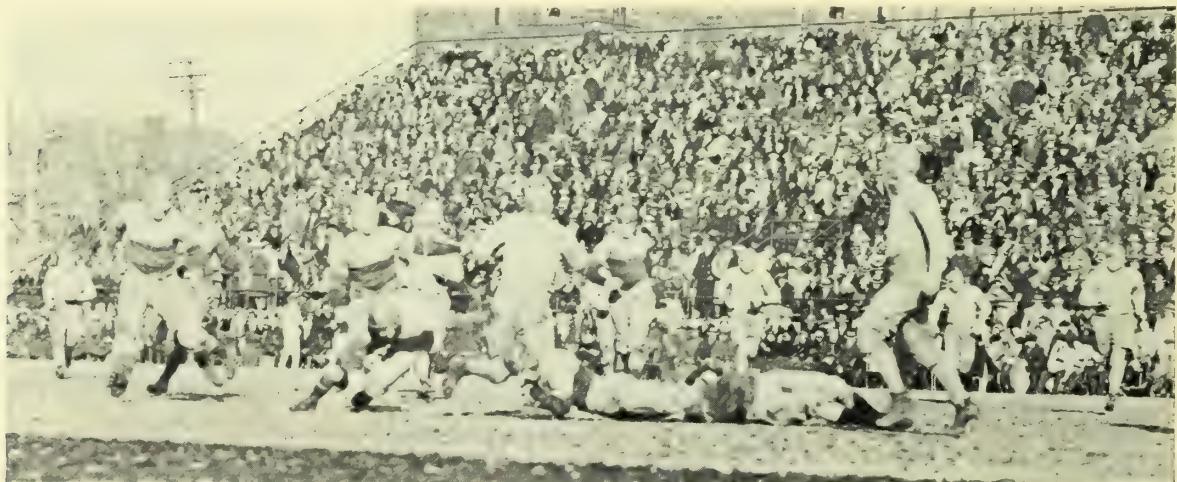

THE Orphans, Varsity's representatives in the Sr. O.R.F.U. series, enjoyed their most successful season this year, not solely in that they won more games than in any previous season but also because they displayed good football in every game and helped to develop some very promising men for future Intercollegiate teams. Practically every game was hard fought since the three other teams in the league presented heavier squads, well-trained and conditioned. The indomitable spirit of the team was manifested in every game and justified the loyal support given by their many followers.

The team was again coached by Les "Mike" Pearson, whose earnest efforts were mainly responsible for moulding together such a smart aggregation from the rather doubtful material that he appeared to have early in the season.

On the field the play was ably directed by the Captain and Quarterback Geordie Beal. The squad was well-balanced and strong in all departments but more particularly in their tackling and in their half-line offensive play. It was seldom that their heavier opponents gained much ground through the sturdy Varsity linemen.

It was very gratifying to the team to see Jack Sinclair and Jess Carrick go up to the Intercollegiate team from the O.R.F.U. and play major roles in bringing the championship to Toronto.

The following men were granted their first "T": Beal, Burns, Smith, Woods, Stewart and Gray, the remainder getting their second colours.

QUEEN'S MEN HARD AFTER SINCLAIR

The Varsity Intermediate Rugby Team

THE Intermediate Rugby Team has "plodded" through another season. "Plodded" is right, because it is heartbreaking for the men to lose game after game. At the beginning of the season the Intermediates were out practising for two weeks without a coach, and when Ken. McGibbon and Millar Stewart were appointed they found a hard task in front of them. There were thirty men out and these had to be trained and coached in a new set of signals. Naturally it meant hard work, but manager Trev. Moore and Captain Bill Monkhouse had the fellows out from 3.30 to 6 p.m. every day.

By the time of the first game against O.A.C. at Guelph on October the eleventh, coach Ken. McGibbon was able to round the team into fairly decent shape. Bill Monkhouse was elected captain, and with five or six of last year's Junior Champions as a nucleus of a well balanced team, the initial encounter of the season was faced.

The half line of Park, Farmer, Mooney, Monkhouse and Harley proved themselves the equal of any in the group in a game which turned out to be one of the best of the season. The score a minute before full time was 2-2 but in the dying seconds of the game, O.A.C. managed to nose Varsity out by one point due mainly to the good work of Wilson, who is considered one of the best kicking halves in the game to-day.

During the week intervening between the next game, the team had several hard work-outs with the Juniors, finding little difficulty in coming out on the long end of the score. The loss of Harley to the O.R.F.U. team, and the withdrawal of Farmer for a time owing to injuries was a sad blow.

Although they were beaten in the next game by University of Western Ontario, they put up a game fight against a team which went right to the Intermediate Intercollegiate finals.

It is a peculiar fact that the Intermediates are the least looked-after team in the University. The Juniors have had three championships in the past three years, whilst the O.R.F.U. and Intercollegiate teams are of course more important. Let us hope that next year the Varsity Intermediates will bring the championship to the University of Toronto, for although we were not represented by a winning team in the Intermediate Series this year, it was a team that fought hard all the time and did their best to play the game.

VARSITY-QUEEN'S GAME, KINGSTON

Varsity Junior Champions

NE more season has passed and the good Blue Juniors are again Inter-collegiate Champions. This is their third championship in as many years. The hopes fostered by such an array of promising material, seen, as one surveyed well on to forty stalwarts performing conditioning exercises on the back campus last September were indeed realized.

This year's team differed from those of other years in that it was limited to freshmen only. Les. Blackwell originated this idea of a Freshman team, and it proved to be just what was needed to bring out new men. Never before in the history of the Rugby Club, did the first year men turn out in such large numbers.

The Juniors went through their group consisting of Varsity, St. Michael's, and McMaster in short order, outclassing all local opposition by a large margin in every game. Their large scores were mainly due to the great broken field running of their half line. Hallam, Kirpatrick and Westwood being exceptionally good.

After winning their group the Juniors played off with O.A.C. for the Championship of the Western section. They easily eliminated the Farmers as was expected by their supporters.

After a rest of several weeks, they travelled down to Kingston to meet the Royal Military College Seconds, the first game of the home and home series for the championship being played in that town. For the first time during the season the Blue Juniors met a team worthy of their steel. The game that ensued was a battle from beginning to end. Varsity managed to nose out the Cadets by a slight margin, and they were able to retain this margin in an equally interesting return game played in Toronto the week following.

Not content with winning the Junior Intercollegiate Championship they challenged M.A.A.A. Juniors for the Canadian Title. This game was played in Montreal and proved to be the game of the season. Both teams were at the top of their form and in spite of averse weather conditions very few fumbles were made by the halves. Both teams battled tooth and nail, little difference being evinced by either team. M.A.A.A. Juniors broke up a tie and won the game and the Championship by three points with a drop kick in the last five minutes of play.

The team was exceedingly fortunate in having Jimmie Douglas as coach, for it was by virtue of his efforts that the team was able to finish the season so well, and play such excellent rugby throughout. His work and that of Manager Hugh Jones was greatly appreciated by the team.

Intercollegiate Champions, 1926

HONE of the most overwhelming triumphs in the long history of inter-collegiate track the powerful team of the University of Toronto won the championship for the second successive year. The team scores reveal Toronto's decided superiority: Toronto 78, McGill 32, Queen's 16. However the victory was not a surprise as Varsity's team was a galaxy of stars. The field events, formerly a vulnerable point in the team, were bolstered up by the acquisition of two scholastic champions, Shanacy and Finlayson, who accounted for three intercollegiate championships between them.

In the sprints Russell again showed his consistent winning form and started the day by decisive victories in both the 100 and 220. His time in the 100 was 10 seconds flat, equalling the record of Coach Frank Halbus. It is significant to notice that several of the timers caught Russell a shade under 10 seconds. The same thing happened in the interfaculty meet. But in both cases the timers didn't feel justified in allowing him 9 4-5 secs. C. A. Morrison ran a brilliant race to finish a good second. Morrison's interfaculty time was 10 1-5.

The time of Russell's 220 was 22 2-5, likewise a remarkable performance as it is only 1-5 sec. from the record. Adams, a freshman member of the team, and Canadian Interscholastic champion in the 100 and 220, finished on Russell's heels to take second place.

Christie, one of the most colourful runners on the team, and a member of the Canadian Olympic Team 1924, galloped home to an easy win in his specialty, the quarter mile. It was Christie's third consecutive intercollegiate championship in this event. His time was 51 flat although in the interfaculty meet he ran the distance in 50 3-5. Christie is the present holder of the Canadian record for 400 metres.

RUSSELL

R. M. Mitchell, the fastest miler in Canada, and a certain member of the 1928 Olympic team, equalled the Intercollegiate record of 1.59 2-5 in the half-mile in a brilliant run against Bobby Thompson of Queen's and Rubin of McGill. Mitchell then went out to win the mile in 4.34 2-5, staving off a spurt by Rubin, former Canadian Champion, to win with ease. It is interesting to note that Mitchell ran a mile in 4.25 in 1925.

The three mile run presented the most thrilling race of the meet. From the start it evolved itself into a fight between Graham and Mitchell, Varsity's crack distance men, and Trenouth of Queen's. Graham lead for the greater part of the distance but in the latter stages of the race the lead frequently alternated. With less than 200 yards to go Graham succumbed to the terrific pace. Bill Mitchell immediately jumped into the lead but Trenouth overtook him in the stretch in one of the most thrilling finishes ever seen. Trenouth won by a foot in the astounding time of 15.12 3-5, breaking the intercollegiate record by over 30 seconds. All three runners were well under the record. It was easily the feature event of the day and Graham and Mitchell deserve great credit for their plucky fight in the long grind.

GRAHAM

Mackenzie surprised the crowd by defeating Sparrow, the former Canadian Hurdle champion, in the 120 yd. High Hurdles. The time, 16 2-5, equalled the record. The 220 hurdles went to McGill with Mackenzie second and Sparrow third.

Shanacy, the sensational Midland High School athlete, competing for Varsity as a freshman, amazed the crowd with a magnificent leap of 5 ft. 11 $\frac{3}{4}$ inches in the high jump, breaking the old record of 5 ft. 8 7-8 inches handily. Shanacy eliminated all the other competitors without even taking off his sweat-shirt. He undoubtedly won recognition as a most promising Olympic prospect along with Varsity's other leading champions, Russell, Christie, R. M. Mitchell. Shanacy also won the broad jump doing 21 ft. 1 $\frac{1}{4}$ inches with Mackenzie second.

Varsity placed one, two in the pole-vault, Davenport winning at 11 ft. 6 3-8 inches. Hugh Crawford, the pole-vault champion of Alberta, who had defeated Davenport in the interfaculty meet, was second.

Finlayson, another of Varsity's outstanding freshmen, accounted for the discus, while E. Shute and F. McTaggart scored points in the shot-put and javelin.

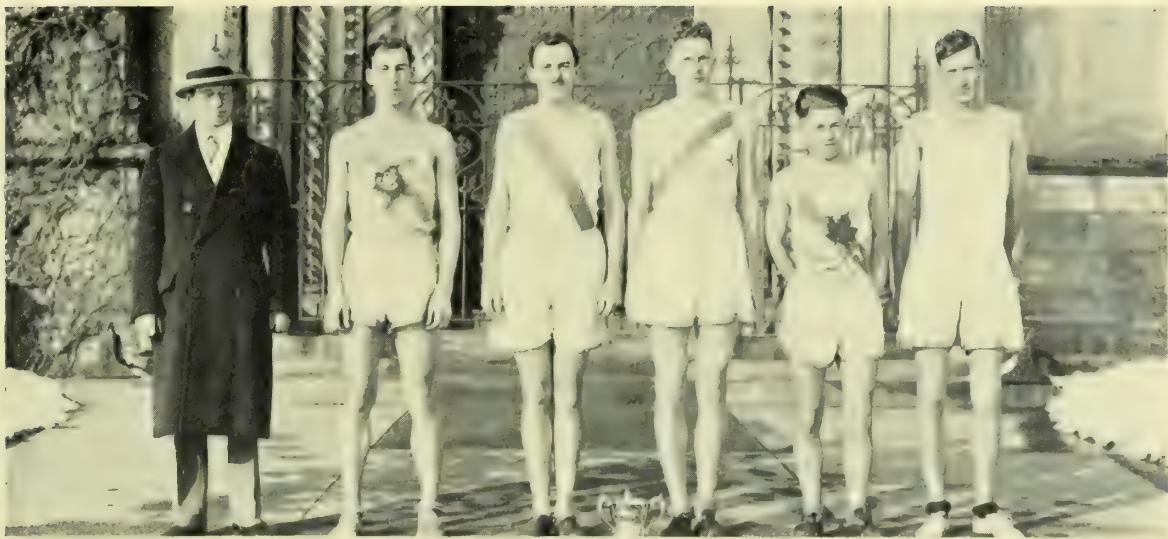

MORRISON

At half-time in the Varsity-Queen's game Varsity's team composed of Russell, Mitchell, Morrison and Christie won the Inter-collegiate relay in the record time of 3 mins. 24 4-5 secs. The old record of 3 mins. 28 3-5 was made in 1909 by L. J. Sebert, R. B. Chandler, L. A. Wright, and F. Halbus of Varsity.

THE Interfaculty Harrier Meet was held this year over the new course starting from the Avenue Road gate of Upper Canada College. Seventy-two runners faced the starter for the $5\frac{1}{2}$ mile jaunt, and weather conditions were ideal. The fast pace set by Wally Graham of Knox soon strung out the less ambitious contestants and at the two mile turn, Graham, M. Mitchell of Meds, W. Mitchell of Knox, and Crozier of U.C., were well in advance of the rest of the pack. After crossing marshlands, fields, woods and a water-jump the runners reached Forest Hill Road for the return run.

Wally Graham won the individual title for the third year in succession in the fast time of 30 mins. 40 secs. The first ten men to finish were: Graham, Knox; Mitchell, Meds; Mitchell, Knox; Crozier, U.C.; Banks, Ferguson, Dempsey, Cowan, O.A.C.; Baldwin, Trin.; Torrance, Meds. As O.A.C. men do not run in the Intercollegiate Meet, Baldwin was the fifth member of the team to journey to Kingston.

Varsity's team, the strongest in recent years, won the Canadian Intercollegiate Harrier Championship in competition with Queen's, McGill, and the Royal Military College. The Varsity men placed as follows: R. M. Mitchell, first; J. W. Graham, third; W. H. Mitchell, fourth, and Crozier, seventh.

Mo. Mitchell was met with great applause by the large crowd which gathered at the finish of the 5 mile run which Mo. ran in record-breaking time. It was a great surprise to the Queen's supporters to see Trenouth, the Intercollegiate three-mile record holder, defeated, but Mitchell was in rare form and quite invincible on this memorable occasion. The other men on the Varsity team ran well, and had the championship in hand from the start of the race. The standing this year was much better than last year despite the fact that Varsity also won the Intercollegiate title in 1924 at Montreal.

Swimming and Water Polo

GUNDY

THE Varsity swimmers started the 1925-26 season with high hopes of winning both the Inter-collegiate Swimming and Water Polo honours. The team of the previous year had been strengthened by the presence of several new stars, especially Nimmo and Goss of School.

The men worked strenuously and swam many miles in preparation for the meet at Montreal. The Club fully expected to come home loaded down with silverware. However their hopes were only partially realized, for the Polo team was out-wrestled by the heavier McGill men and lost 4 to 1. The swimming team came through in fine style to win handily 42 to 27. In this meet Fran Lorenzen broke the 100 yards breast stroke record, doing the distance in one minute and twenty seconds.

The Varsity Poloists had another opportunity to win the trophy at the return game in Toronto two weeks later. They outswam the McGill men in Toronto's big pool, winning 3 to 1—barely enough to give them the title.

The men who composed the swimming team were: Captain, Les. Uren, F. Lorenzen, Goss, Nimmo, Thompson, Derbyshire, Latchford, Gundy, Van Valkenburg, Shortreed.

The Poloists were Captain, F. Lorenzen, T. Lorenzen, J. Hart, Shortreed, Tilley, Flummerfelt, Hethrington, Spence, Ennouy.

The season of 1926-27 saw the boys keener than ever to annex further honours. The Swimming Club was fortunate in securing Mr. Roy Lowndes and Mr. Les Blackwell to coach the swimming and water polo teams respectively. The swimmers were at work from the opening of College. The season's activities were the most ambitious yet planned by the Swimming Club. At the end of the fall term a combined team of Varsity and McGill swimmers met Yale, Brown, and Syracuse. The swimmers representing Toronto were: F. Lorenzen, Leo Latchford, J. Goss, H. Nimmo, R. Thompson. The Canadians won one and lost two of the meets, making some excellent times, and benefited greatly by the varied experiences met with.

University of Toronto Hockey Club

Senior Intercollegiate Champions, 1926

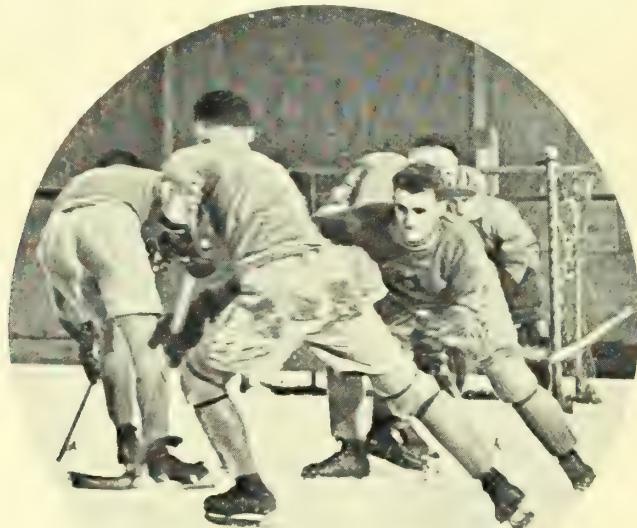

HOCKEY at the University of Toronto has in the past enjoyed many successful seasons and has an envious reputation of championship teams. The beginnings of hockey at the University are rather obscure. However the records of the O.H.A. show that Varsity had a team in the senior series during the year 1891-92, the second year of the association's existence. Since then Varsity has had teams in the Senior, Intermediate, and Junior O.H.A. and has won championships in the Senior and Junior series. The Intercollegiate Hockey Union was formed in 1903, and it is in this league that Varsity has been notably distinguished. U. of T. teams have won twelve of the twenty series played, and the Queen's Cup emblematic of the Senior Intercollegiate championship has been held by Toronto since 1915. Varsity has also held the Intermediate and Junior Intercollegiate championships, but in recent years teams have only been entered in these series intermittently.

During the campaign of 1925-26 the U. of T. Hockey Club was represented in the Intercollegiate by one of the strongest University teams that has ever played the game. Most of the players from the previous year's Allan Cup finalists returned to the University, and the ability and co-ordination of the team was shown in the pre-season exhibition series played in Boston. Varsity defeated some of the most powerful teams in American college hockey, including Boston College, Boston University, Harvard and Dartmouth. After returning to Canada, Toronto again captured the C.I.H.U. Senior championship. The Dartmouth University team were declared American Intercollegiate champions and a game was played with them in Madison Square Gardens, New York, for the Walker Cup representative of the International Intercollegiate championship. Toronto won the game 6-1, and so added another handsome trophy to the collection in Hart House. It remains to be seen whether this cup will be with us for another year. The winning of the Canadian Intercollegiate series eight successive times, and the victories over American teams, have added prestige to the name of Toronto 'Varsity in the Eastern U.S.A. and all over Canada.

The U. of T. team as representatives of the C.I.H.U. challenged for the Allan Cup after winning the International Intercollegiate. They were first drawn against the powerful Peterborough team, champions of the Senior O.H.A. and victors over the champions of Quebec. This team was the favoured selection for the Allan Cup in Eastern Canada but they met a sturdy barrier in the shape of the Toronto team. Varsity won both games 7-1, 7-1, taking the round by 14-2 and thus eliminating their most serious opposition in the East. The games were lightning fast with brilliant plays by both teams, but Peterborough tired badly due to their strenuous season in the O.H.A. The next team in the path to the Allan Cup was the Ottawa Gunners. Varsity disposed of them in two ragged games which were marred by the "shinny" tactics of the Ottawa team. The most deplorable results of this series were that Low Hudson, Varsity Captain, broke a bone in his hand and Jack Porter the big defense man was stricken with influenza. This was most unfortunate in view of the proximity of the Allan Cup Finals.

Varsity were again opposed to Port Arthur, the team that had beaten them for the Allan Cup in 1924-25. Port Arthur won the first game 1-0 in Montreal. The second game was staged in Montreal too, and Varsity were the winners by 3-1 after overtime had been played. The teams then moved to Toronto to play the third and deciding game. After a bitter struggle and after playing half an hour overtime the game resulted in a tie. Port Arthur won the fourth game after twenty minutes overtime, but not until Varsity's weakened team had succumbed to the strain through lack of substitutes. In spite of the fact that Varsity failed to win the cup the series was so evenly contested and the team played so splendidly that the pill was not too hard to swallow. Varsity won great admiration in staging such a mighty struggle in the greatest Championship series ever played in Canada.

The Senior Intercollegiate team of 1927 is beginning to take a definite form as the new year is opening. The results of the American trip at Christmas showed marked improvement in the team. After beating Princeton 5-4, Varsity succumbed to the attacks of the strong Harvard team 4-3. Toronto won the next game with Boston College 4-1, a most interesting result in that Varsity stepped on the ice in borrowed sweaters, skates, etc. It is said to be the only known occasion on which the University of Toronto was represented by a yellow-clad team. The last game of the tour was a return engagement with Harvard in which the result was a 1-1 tie. Varsity were extremely unfortunate not to win this game, and were unable to play overtime because they had to catch a train for Toronto. The conclusions which can be based on the tour are that the team is improving greatly and will make a strong bid for Varsity's ninth successive Canadian Intercollegiate title.

The Intermediate team has been entered in the O.H.A. and may be entered in the Intercollegiate as well. So far they have not lost a game in spite of the fact that they are grouped with three strong teams. With good coaching and a little conditioning they should have a very successful season.

The Junior O.H.A. team is in a very enviable position in the "Big Four" Toronto group, but their most formidable foes, the Marlboros, have not lost a game. The Juniors are determined to beat them however, and it is not at all improbable that they will do so.

FOURTH team is playing this year for Varsity and by its showing so far in the 1926-27 season is the greatest team seen in Toronto in many years. Most of the 1926 Intercollegiate team are playing on this team which is entered in the Senior O.H.A. series. The object of these men is to win the Allan cup this year and represent Canada at the 1928 Olympiad in Amsterdam. This would be a fitting climax to the career of such an exceptional team.

The players composing the Alumni team are all stars in their playing positions and also stars collectively. Their passing, back-checking and cleverness on attack or defense is well nigh perfect due to the excellent coaching they have received during the past few seasons.

Perhaps the most spectacular player is "Red"

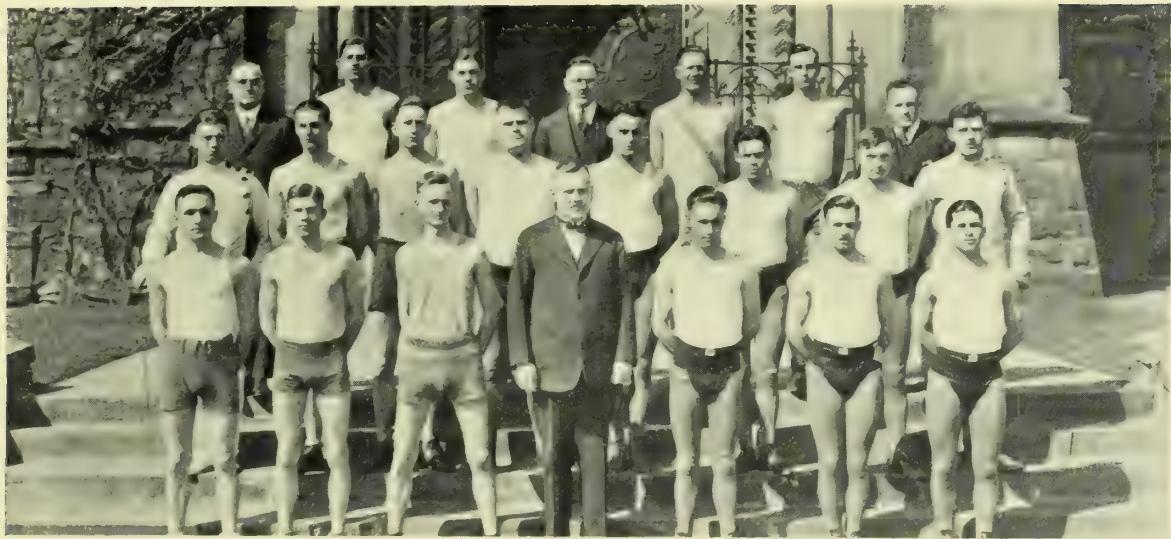

Trottier, better than ever, is one of Canada's best players. Ross Taylor, the other defense man, helps make the most impregnable defense in the O.H.A. The backbone of the squad is found in the nets. Here Sullivan is playing, if possible, a better game than ever.

He still plays his tricky, valuable game at wing. Sullivan is playing, if possible, a better game than ever.

With four teams playing the game and the new arena fully equipped, Varsity is enjoying the best season of hockey in her history.

Intercollegiate Champions, 1925-6

UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO'S 1926 squad of boxers, wrestlers and fencers, for the third time in succession, won the Intercollegiate meet in these sports. The margin was rather slight but the Toronto wins were all decisive in character and some of the loses were not overly deserved. Competition was keen, the final bouts in the 160 pound, 175 pound and the heavyweight boxing providing as fine a brand of both hitting and boxing ability as seen anywhere.

The Toronto men displayed their usual fitness for the event and the new men on the team bore evidence by their displays of resourcefullness and general knowledge of their respective sports, of the great advantages gained in meets earlier in the season with the Ontario College of Agriculture and with West Point, the United States Army Academy.

Of the above contests, Toronto won the former readily since some of the new men having tried out in both boxing and wrestling, proved to surpass in ability the ordinary run of embryo ring and mat experts. At West Point, boxers did not do so well but again the new men showed to advantage, Beare and Hills winning their first Intercollegiate bouts in a handy manner. Carrick won his second fight with an Army boxer by his clever boxing and hard punching. The wrestlers faced high-class opposition in the West Point grapplers and succumbed in all but one bout which was drawn by Thompson.

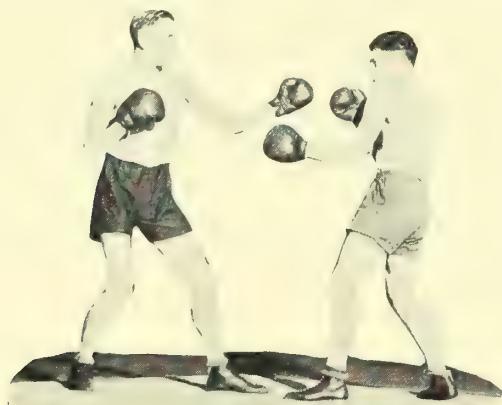

In the two weeks left before the Interfaculty Assault-at-Arms, strenuous training was gone through by team men and aspirants alike. As the team for the Intercollegiate meet is chosen from the winners of these bouts—excepting by special Intercollegiate agreement winners from the Ontario College of Agri-contest for places than seen in previous assaults. And in this there was no disappointment. The welterweight boxers especially were out in large numbers and the preliminary bouts in this class resulted in several knockouts and other bouts which were very closely contested.

The champions in the other classes of both boxing and wrestling met warm opposition. The finals furnished two excellent boxing matches, namely Joe Mahon vs. W. H. Hill, and Howard vs. Loscombe. In the former the men boxed at 175 pounds, Mahon an old standby of Varsity's who has been intercollegiate heavy and light-heavyweight champion for three years, and Hills an aggressive, hard-hitter but not so experienced with ring ways. These two thrilled the crowd, with clever boxing by Joe Mahon and really hard punching by Hill, varied with an occasional fast mix in which the honors were about even. Mahon finally secured a very close decision after 4 rounds. The finalists in the welterweight class, full of fight after their three or four odd preliminaries, boxed and battled through 4 rounds before Loscombe was judged superior to the man who kept him off the team which went to West Point. It was very unfortunate that Loscombe was unable, because of illness, to go to the Intercollegiate matches a fortnight later.

culture are excluded—the boxing, wrestling and fencing rooms were filled to capacity during these days. Coach Frank Carol and manager Les Black drilled the tentative boxing members of the team in the finer points of their sport, while coach Martin endeavoured to lead the wrestlers into the depths of the grappler's science. Many aspirants for places on the team turned out each night and worked eagerly, looking forward to their coming chance of toppling the champion of their class.

The vim shown in this interval of preparation promised an even fiercer

FIDLER

In wrestling, the men from the Ontario College of Agriculture won enough bouts to enable the Guelph team to nose Meds. out for the boxing, wrestling and fencing Interfaculty title. Their wrestlers always give Toronto men strenuous opposition and have held the whip-hand in this branch of athletics for some years past.

At the Intercollegiate Assault in Kingston the team, by score, just managed to retain the title for Toronto. But the bouts lost were all close and one sure decision was lost when Rawson, the 145 pound wrestler, having won his preliminary handily, was injured internally and badly handicapped after making a fine showing earlier in his final bout. The boxers in the final bouts all made a good showing, R. M. Robertson, 112 pound boxer, losing only by a close margin after an extra round while Jackie Beare was merely shaded in his encounter. Carrick, and Ken Fidler gave their opponents heavy punishment, Fidler's bout being replete with narrow escapes by his opponent from a knockout. Only the size and condition of Don Carrick's man prevented a speedy termination to the heavyweight bout. Cy Robertson after winning his preliminary bout by a technical knock-out found himself in for a strenuous three rounds with his McGill opponent, but won on points handily. Queen's won their only final bout at wrestling when Cornell defeated Hill. Varsity wrestlers won four matches and McGill three. Webster and Wright showed to best advantage for Toronto, both winning by falls. Danny Webster by winning at 123 pounds has now successively been champion in each of the lighter weights. Sparling and Thompson, the other grapplers to win, had stern opposition. Sparling especially deserves credit as he was giving away some pounds in weight to his opponent but through tenacity and clever mat-work overcame this disadvantage. The two fencers, although not winning the team honours, ranked second and third respectively.

WRIGHT AND SHUTE

Toronto included W. H. Hills as a substitute for the McGill boxer who won the Intercollegiate light-heavyweight title but this only made up, to a certain extent, for the last moment loss of Ken Fidler the 160 pound champion, through illness.

The wrestlers in the afternoon, put up a strong fight against the Navy men but lost in every division. The midshipmen were wonderfully well coached and in perfect condition. The boxing tourney always a much-looked-forward-to event at Annapolis resulted in some spirited efforts by Canadian men to stave off the Navy men's attacks, and in only one win—but a pretty one. This came at the close of the programme when Donald Carrick gave away forty pounds to his heavyweight opponent but in an extra round succeeded in decisively outpointing him. Leuty, the Navy man and captain of their rugby team, packed a terrific punch and was possessed of much strength, but Don clearly outboxed him for three rounds and in the extra session ordered by the judges, shot both hands to the now tired American's face and body to win the contest beyond a doubt.

Although the Canadian team has won few bouts since the days of Les Black and Goldie Gray, famous Toronto boxers, the Naval Academy name the date set for these contests Canadian day. It speaks well for these sports in Canada that visitors to the Academy consider this a feature day and the midshipmen expend extra time in training for the event in order to meet the opposition furnished by the Canadian Colleges.

NUNNS

and Nunns and Gunn were victorious over Martin and the doubles.

As the result of their showing in the tournament, Nunns, Salmond, Gunn, Martin and Pyne were chosen to represent the University in the Intercollegiate Tennis Tournament in which Varsity was the host. In this meet the Varsity team, though young and inexperienced, managed to give McGill—the eventual winner—great opposition for the honours of first place by having one member in the final of the singles and one team in the semi-final of the doubles.

One noticeable feature in University tennis during the last few years has been the continual improvement in the standard of play. Until quite recently not only Varsity players but Canadian University players as a whole have been placed well down on the Canadian ranking list. At the present time however they are amongst the best Canada has to offer. Last year two members of the Varsity team won the Ontario Doubles Championship, and one of them won the Ontario Singles Championship. In consequence of his match playing ability the Ontario Champion was chosen to play on the Canadian Davis Cup team—the highest honour that can be bestowed upon a Canadian tennis player.

Following the matches between Varsity-McGill and Oxford-Cambridge at Toronto in 1925 in which the combined Varsity-McGill team defeated the Oxford-Cambridge team by four matches to two, an attempt was made to arrange matches with some of the leading Universities in the United States. This project was abandoned because the proposed schedule clashed with the leading Canadian Tournaments.

The Interfaculty Tennis Tournament was played this year as in former years at the beginning of October on the courts of the Toronto Lawn Tennis Club. The tournament was a success as usual, and the increasingly large entry, coupled with the fact that students were in most cases compelled to forego lectures in order to play in the tournament, goes to prove that tennis is one of the most popular games in the University, and that it is destined to become even more so as time advances.

The semi-finalists were, in the singles, K. Salmond, D. Gunn, W. Martin, and G. Nunns; in the doubles, D. Farquharson and K. Salmond, W. Martin and J. McCallum, E. Pyne and R. Magee, G. Nunns and D. Gunn. Nunns won the singles event by defeating Salmond in the final,

Basketball, 1926

Though unsuccessful in repeating their success of the 1925 season, when they won the Intercollegiate title, still, the Varsity senior basketball team made a highly creditable showing, during the 1926 season.

After returning from an instructive Christmas tour through the Eastern States, they started out on the grind for the Intercollegiate championship, prepared for sturdy opposition. Led by their brilliant captain, W. A. "Biff" Potter, the Blue and White made things decidedly interesting for the other contenders but were nosed out of the championship only after several thrilling battles had been staged. Those comprising last year's team were Bell, H. Burgess and R. L. Currie, guards, G. O. Hutchison and C. A. Maguire, centre; W. A. Potter, A. G. Smith and C. W. Potter, forwards. Of these, Bell, Burgess, Maquire and Smith were numbered among the 1926 graduates. Their places are being taken by F. H. Gaudin, J. R. McGillivray and G. L. Lewis, who have moved up from intermediate ranks, and by H. A. Sniderman, a new comer to Varsity and a member of last year's Broadview Senior team.

These additions to the team, and the remaining veterans, have been moulded into a formidable aggregation by coach J. E. McCutcheon of the Physical Training staff, who took a special course in basketball coaching at Youngstown, Ohio, last summer.

After several weeks of intensive training, the team left early in January for the 1927 invasion of the Eastern States. Nine games with New York and Buffalo teams were played. Although none too fortunate in winning games, the team was highly successful in gaining experience which will prove of real value during the Intercollegiate season.

G. O. Hutchison, the outstanding centre, has been elected captain of the 1927 team. The forwards will be W. A. Potter, H. A. Sniderman, C. W. Potter and F. H. Gaudin, while J. R. McGillivray, G. L. Lewis and R. L. Currie will form a strong defence.

Dr. Lorne Denton, who managed last year's team, is officiating in the same capacity this season. Arthur H. Walker has been appointed assistant manager.

SENIOR CREW

Rowing

WITH the brightest prospects in many years the rowing club began its training season on the machines in Hart House January 7th. A goodly number of aspirants turned out and practised faithfully during the winter months. This year it was particularly late before the bay was free from ice to allow a trial spin in the workboats, and by then the original number had been thinned down by careful training to enough men from which to build three crews, a 150 pound crew, and a Junior and Senior heavyweight crew. Throughout the summer the weather displayed a most deplorable lack of consideration for good rowing. Rain and wind put sweaters at a premium and made consistent training very difficult.

But by Dominion Day the crews were in good shape for the first test of skill with outside crews. The honors in the first race of the season went to the 150 pound Varsity crew stroked by Stuart Thorn when they pulled away a good two lengths from the Argos over a three-quarter mile course. The Juniors were not so fortunate and redoubtable "Red" Hand of Argos chalked up a win over the Varsity crew stroked by another red head, George Duff. A third Varsity crew, twelve men in a workboat, stroked by George Stuart, and with Bob Hunter coxing, policed the course and lead the cheering in every event.

It was a good start, and all three crews settled down with high hopes to a month's hard rowing preparatory to the big races at the Henley. The jaunts down the short course were deserted for long grinds down to the end of the ship canal, and dashes over the island course from Ward's to Hanlan's points. But the bad weather continued, and when a fair day dawned, there was a feeling of apprehension abroad.

Finally Regatta week rolled around and on Monday morning the Club departed in full force for St Catharines. Win or lose every man considers it the best week in the year. Nothing to do but eat, sleep and row races, with due celebrations after it is all over. Once again the 150 pound crew started the ball rolling. Sharp at 2.20 Thursday afternoon they backed up to the starting line alongside Ottawa and Lachine. For three-quarters of a mile it was a good race with Varsity hopes running high till one of those accidents that may happen to the best of oarsmen came our way. A sliding seat parted company with its slide and in the few seconds ensuing confusion Ottawa and Lachine established a commanding lead which could not be overcome.

The Juniors were the next to hear the delightful guttural of the starter's voice, "Pull up a bit Varsity" "Easy there—!" "Hold her there—hold on—!" A nice race to watch but—! came out with the long end of the stick.

The following day the Seniors were sent down against Lachine in the heats for the Senior Championship. "Kid" Weber was stroking and had a beautiful crew behind him but once again Lachine were so thoughtless as to swoop in ahead, though not without extending themselves to the limit. But the Varsity spirit did not leave the Club even if Lady Luck did and the new men were most successfully initiated into the Ancient and Honourable Order of convivial "Varsity" Oarsmen, with Mort Robertson as Grand Master. There were one or two little mishaps—"Gummy" Rochester lost a suit of pyjamas and "Scotty" Bruce bought a horse and wagon against his better judgment, but such things will happen.

But behind it all stood "Tommy" Loudon the coach, to whom is due all credit for the high name the Club holds in rowing circles. For seven months of the year he spends day after day coaching and for all time he is the moving spirit behind the Club. Too much praise cannot be awarded him for his efforts.

Following the Henley as many of the 150 pound crew as were in the city kept together and with coaching from older members of the Club entered two regattas at Barrie and the Canadian National Exhibition. They were a good crew but were beaten out in both instances.

When the fall term opened training was started again for the first Inter-collegiate rowing race between McGill and Varsity. Two crews turned out and one cold afternoon the heavy crew stroked by "Scotty" Bruce won the honour of representing the University by defeating the lighter crew. The weather at Lachine was anything but ideal for good rowing, and the choppy water on the open course bothered our crew. But McGill turned out a very smart aggregation and won the race handily. Great credit is due them in this initial venture, but they must go the limit to keep their laurels at the Henley next summer.

From^o the point of view of winning races it was not a successful season, but many valuable lessons were learned and there is no doubt that Varsity will step back into her old place of unqualified leadership in a very short time.

THE 150 POUND CREW AT THE HENLEY

English Rugby Club

HE Intercollegiate Championship was not decided this year. Very shortly after the commencement of the Fall term, the recruits and regulars of the 1926-27 English Rugby Team were to be seen training, on the campus. It was soon evident that a large number of the last year's team had graduated, but any lack from this experience was more than made up by a spirit of enthusiasm. The task of choosing a team was a difficult one, when a team of sixteen had to be chosen from a roster of thirty, with every man giving his best.

The first game, which was one of the two games for the Intercollegiate title, was played against McGill, in Montreal. This was a defeat for Varsity. Many excuses can be made, but it may be sufficient to say that the game was played on a field deep in mud. The final score after the grime had cleared was 6-3.

The next game which was played at our Stadium, was also against McGill. A different story is told here. The playing conditions were ideal, and the score was 8-5, Varsity emerging the victor, this left the teams tied on the round.

The next Saturday afternoon saw the team play for the Ontario Championship, against the Toronto British Rugby Club. This game was played on the campus of Upper Canada College, and resulted in a win for the "Blue" after a very close game.

The team made its final appearance on the Back Campus, in a return game with the Toronto British, when an even greater score was made by us.

This short record shows that English Rugby is in a healthy state. The enthusiasm which has been put into this game by those who graduate should be carried on; if the new men play up, a very rosy picture is the prospect for English Rugby as an Intercollegiate sport.

In the British Isles this sport is becoming so popular in the colleges that it almost equals in favour the older games of Cricket and Soccer. The game originated in the early days of the English public schools, at Rugby. As more public schools sprang up the game of Rugger spread throughout the country, finally invaded university circles and has been an important sporting feature at Oxford and Cambridge especially for a long time.

Early English settlers brought the game to Canada and here it has been growing steadily ever since. The game flourishes best in the Eastern provinces and west of the Rockies, for in these districts weather conditions approximate in some degree the less rigid climate of England. In spite of shorter seasons in Ontario and Quebec the game of Rugger has a great future and promises to thrive in the Intercollegiate series.

Lacrosse

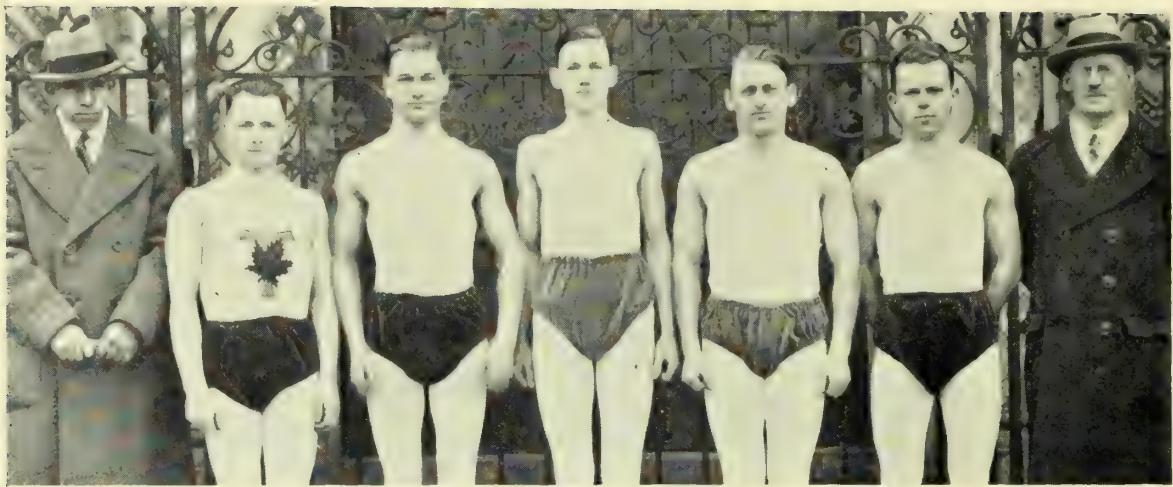

THE annual lacrosse tour usually commences immediately after the final examinations in May and extends into June. The 1926 schedule, however, only included two games, both in New York. The first game was against Yale, with the mythical International Intercollegiate Championship at stake. The game was financed by Mr. Tex Rickard, the most eminent sports' promoter in America. It was played at Baker Field, the Columbia University Stadium, and was surprisingly well patronized.

Varsity, without any substitutes, won the game by the score of 8 to 6. The next game was against the Crescent Athletic Club, one of the strongest aggregation in the States. The game was played at the Crescent A. C. Country Club, and before members of the Club only. Twenty minutes overtime failed to break the 4-4 tie, and Varsity can claim the honor of being the only team in 1926 to not suffer defeat at the hands of the Crescents.

The week in New York was most enjoyably spent as guests of the Canadian Club at the Belmont Hotel, and of the Crescent A. C. at their country club in Brooklyn.

The 1927 itnery looks to be the most promising in the history of lacrosse, and will probably include Army-Navy, Princeton, Syracuse, Hopkins, Maryland and the Crescent A.C. of New York. The team is almost intact from last year, and many new men at the University will make the "old timers" hustle to retain their positions.

1926 line up: McVittie, Doucette, Beatty, Blair, Sparks, McNeil, Hull, Graham (captain), Carroll, Smart, Douglas, Wallace.

University of Toronto Gymnastic Club

Intercollegiate Champions 1925-26

THE University Gymnastic Club of last year is responsible in no small measure for the popularity that this sport is enjoying around Varsity at the present time. The Club captured the intercollegiate gymnastic championship from McGill University at Montreal thereby adding to Varsity's list of conquests. Last year's team consisted of the following men: F. Adams, Meds. (vi); J. A. Williamson, S.P.S. (ii); D. R. Gunn, Meds. (ii); R. Lymburner, Meds. (iv); D. G. McCrone, S.P.S. (iii); E. Chorolsky, S.P.S. (iv).

Of these six men Adams and Chorolsky have graduated, while McCrone was unfortunate in sustaining a broken arm. That leaves only three veterans for this year's team. McCrone and Lymburner won their first colours last year and Adams and Chorolsky are "T" holders from previous years.

The 1926-27 team consists of the three veterans from the previous year plus the veteran I. Mix who is back attending the College of Education, and two newcomers, D. A. Campbell, Dents. (i), and G. Hyslop, S.P.S. (i). The team is captained by R. Lymburner and is managed by J. A. Williamson. The meet this year is to be in Toronto and prospects are bright for a win for Varsity.

The Intercollegiate Gymnastic Union has been organized for the past six years with Toronto and McGill competing. The championship has been equally divided, both teams winning three times. Until this year no trophy has been presented but this year a handsome trophy is being donated by a gentleman from McGill and interest, it is hoped, will be greatly stimulated by this generous gift.

Each year an Interfaculty competition is staged by the University Club and material is developed for the higher series. The club has had a silver cup presented for this competition by the Harold A. Wilson Co. of Toronto. Competition is becoming more keen with each advancing season and the time is not far distant when gymnastics will come in for that share of interest which they so justly deserve.

The 1926 Soccer Season

THE Intercollegiate Soccer season opened on October 16 with Varsity playing the first game at Montreal. Varsity lost the toss and McGill, kicking with a strong wind behind them, pressed the Varsity goal, but due to the good work of the backs no score was registered. In the second half the play was very even and each goalie was called upon to make some nice saves. The game finally ended a scoreless tie.

On October 23, R.M.C. came to Toronto to play the second game of the series.

Varsity proved to be much superior from the kick off and pressed the R.M.C. goal continually. However, due to inaccurate shooting by the Varsity forwards they were unable to account for more than one goal and the game ended with the score 1-0 in favour of Toronto.

On October 30 Montreal played at R.M.C. and won 4-2. This really left McGill and Varsity tied for the championship, thereby necessitating a play-off. However it was decided to give the decision to McGill because they had scored the most goals in the series, although Toronto had no score against them all season.

The soccer team left on November 5 for their annual tour of the States, playing their first game at State College November 6. The United States inter-collegiate rules provided for the use of substitutes throughout the entire game and this fact was a considerable handicap to the Canadian team as they carried only one extra man.

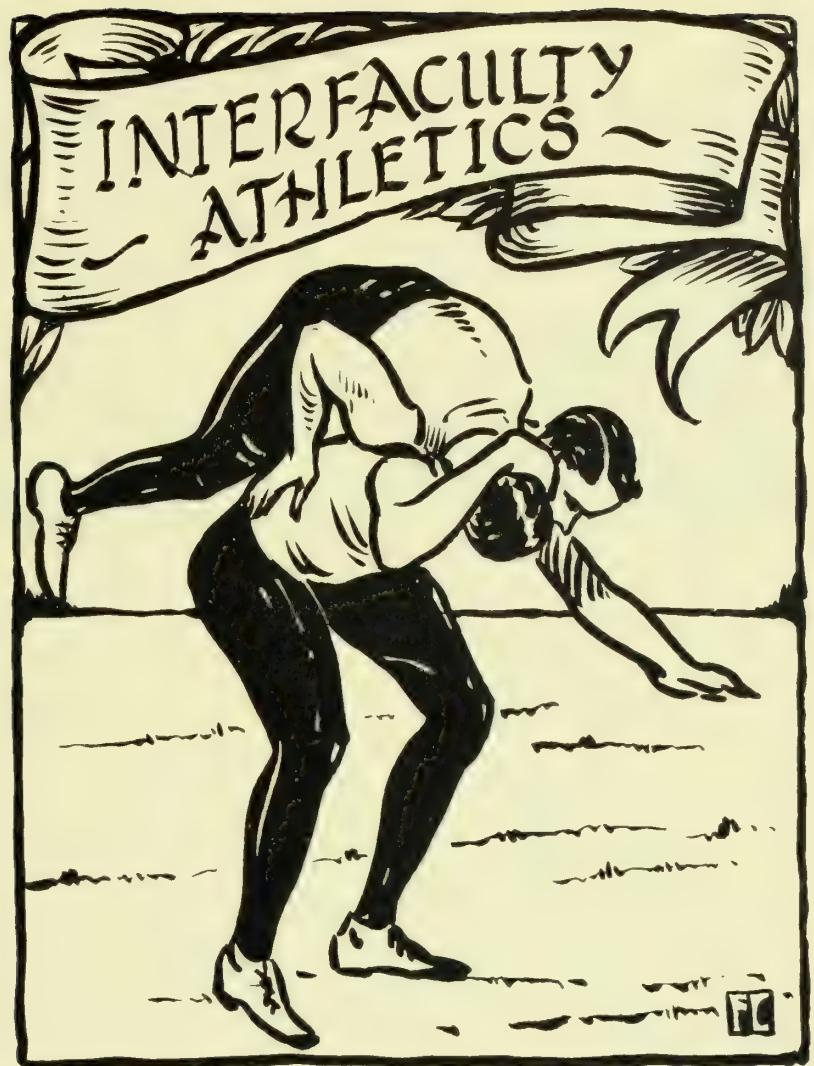

The first game was a very strenuous one from start to finish. The State team scored two before the visitors got under way, but before the end of the game the score was tied, and even after ten minutes overtime neither team could score. In the overtime period Davidson and Smith, two of Toronto's star players, were injured.

The second game was played at Swarthmore which ended 1-0 in favour of the U.S. team. Varsity seemed to have the better of the play but were outlucked around the enemy's goal.

On November 9 the Varsity team played the third game of the tour at Haverford on a very wet, muddy field, and after keeping on the long end of the score for three quarters of the game they weakened due to injuries and were beaten 3-1. The last quarter of the game was played with two men short. Downing starred in this game.

The final game at Syracuse was played during a snow storm and the team, showing the old Varsity spirit, won by a 2-1 score.

W. R. THOMPSON—Ross is an outstanding Intercollegiate swimmer. He was a member of the Canadian Intercollegiate team that visited Yale, Brown and Syracuse in 1926. He won his "T" in 1926, his second year.

F. E. D. WALLACE—Frank has played British rugby for the past four years and was on the track team in 1923-24. He takes an active part in Interfaculty sport as well.

J. F. Woods—John is both a football player and an oarsman. He played Intermediate and O.R.F.U. rugby for five years, and rowed for Varsity on the 1925 Junior crew.

University College Athletic Committee

INTERFACULTY Athletics in University College are directly supported by the University College Literary and Athletic Society. They are controlled and organized by the Athletic Committee which is composed of the Presidents of all organized clubs in the College, with the Athletic Director as Chairman and President of the 'Lit' as an ex-officio member. The various clubs are responsible to this Committee for the development of the particular sport they govern.

The year's activities in sport culminate in the Annual Athletic Dinner which is held early in March. At this function the championship teams are presented with the trophies which they have won, and the Athletic Shield is presented to the class winning the inter-year championship.

University College Track Team

UNIVERSITY College has always been well represented in track and field athletics both in Interfaculty and Intercollegiate competition. During the past season her athletes have proven quite conclusively that she ranks among the leaders in this branch of sport. Last fall at the annual Interfaculty games she made a determined effort to carry away the honors, but at the end of the afternoon's programme, six points stood between her and the championship which was won by the faculty of Medicine. Through this good showing and because of the ability of her athletes, University College was able to place six of her men on the team of eighteen that comprise this year's Intercollegiate champions.

The track team of this College was materially strengthened last fall by the arrival at Varsity of several freshmen stars. Since their arrival these men have proven their ability not only in College athletics but in Intercollegiate competition as well. Perhaps the most outstanding of these is Harry Shanacy of Midland, whose all-round ability in field events and especially as a high jumper has excited much interest at recent College meets. Bill Finlayson also from Midland and Ralph Adams of Hamilton have both proven their value as point winners for their College and University. Dennis another freshman has done well in the pole vault and high jump. Fred McTaggart of rugby fame has acquired great ability in the javelin throw, taking second place in the Intercollegiate meet. Christie, Crozier and Mabee, all of whom have been on the team in past years, continue to be consistent point winners in the interfaculty games. This year's relay team consisting of Adams, Finlayson, Mabee and Christie, stand out as one of the strongest that University College has seen for some time.

Surely with such a fine collection of athletes with which to mould a team, this college will be able to achieve new honors on track and field in the very near future.

U. C. Swimming

FOR the year 1926-27 the Fitzgerald Cup for Interfaculty Swimming will rest on the same shelf it has now occupied for the past four years. U. C. got the jump on their rivals at the start, netting 11 points to School's 5. The winning team U.C. I. of Lorenzen, Dale, Boddy and Latchford made a new interfaculty record 1.49.4. The outstanding swimmer for U.C. was Fran Lorenzen, who won first place in the 50 yds. free style and again broke the tape in the 100 yards breast. In this race he broke a record and defeated Thwaites School by 1-5 of a sec., time 1.21 2-5.

Leo Latchford won the 100 yds. free from Johnny Goss of School. His time was only 1-5 of a second slower than the record. He came second to Johnny Goss in the 200 free—Johnny setting a new record, in fact he broke Latchford's record by 2 full sec., time 2.18 3-5.

The remainder of the U.C. teams were not idle. Slowly and surely these swimmers added to U.C. points. Keast took second in the diving, Curtis took second in the plunge, Thompson took third in 100 free, and Boddy, a newcomer to the pool, took third in the 200 yrd. free.

U.C. has at present the largest number of swimmers of any one faculty on the Intercollegiate Swimming Team—Lorenzen, Thompson, Curtis, Keast and Latchford. Of the new men Irvine, Boddy and Abernethy should catch a place.

While the College loses Lorenzen this year, we feel that there will be found someone who shall try to fill in his shoes.

Lorenzon, Thompson and Latchford recently partook in meets at Yale, Brown and Syracuse with a fair amount of success. Fran distinguished himself by setting a record for the breast stroke 100 yds. in the pool at Brown. The time of 1.16.4 is a new record for Brown. Good work, Fran.

Victoria College Athletic Union

N executive consisting of five officers elected by the male student body and the captains of the various teams, controls all athletics at Victoria College. Sports are very highly developed and have great scope. This is chiefly due to the abundant funds provided by "Little Vic Rink" which is operated by the V.C.A.U., and each year provides a large surplus. In this way College teams are able to make out-of-town trips, and athletics are made much more interesting than they otherwise would be.

In addition to presenting strong teams in every field of Interfaculty competition, Victoria College always manages to place a few men on Varsity teams, thus combining University and College spirit. But the athletic programme is even better developed than this, for Inter-house and Inter-year sports are very highly organized, and provide keen competition. In this way every student is given a chance to have his fun, and the whole organization provides a ladder to highest achievement.

Victoria College Soccer Team

THE Soccer team of Victoria for 1926 have reasons for pride in their play and especially in the spirit of sportsmanship displayed. Handicapped because at least five of last year's players were not available, the team with new material developed into a formidable aggregation. During practices so many responded with enthusiasm to the lure of the game that the coach, manager and captain had plenty of good material. Credit is due to Professor Sissons for his valuable training. Under his coaching and with the ardent enthusiasm of the manager and the captain, a fine team was developed. There was almost perfect co-operation in the team and every practice and game was a pleasure. The team played to win in a fair and sportsman-like manner. Next year all the players expect to return and again seek a position on the team. Strengthened with experience and training and with new players Soccer will have a banner year coming. In Victoria Athletics the Soccerites take their place in upholding the highest ideals to develop the noblest and strongest in the players.

VICTORIA COLLEGE MULOCK CUP SEMI-FINALISTS

Rugby --- Victoria College

RUGBY is the most important sport at Victoria College and it was very fitting that this fall the team, although it did not win the Mulock Cup, played a fine brand of rugby that enabled them to win their group and to reach the semi-finals. The record for the fall is seven games won and two lost. In the Mulock Cup games Victoria outscored her opponents by about 80 to 25.

Vic. was grouped with her old rivals Trinity and Senior U.C. The first game with Trinity was lost 10 to 9 but the second game more than evened up the count for Trinity was beaten 19 to 1. This necessitated a play-off between the two teams for group honours and after a very close game Vic. beat Trinity 5 to 3 and won the group for the first time in three years. The next game was also very close, but Dents won it 9 to 7.

Three exhibition games were played: with the old boys, with Jarvis Collegiate and Albert College. The old-boys game was marked by the wonderful basketball exhibition given by the old boys in the way they passed the ball around. The game with Albert College was the first game ever played between the two Colleges and we hope it will become an annual custom. All the three exhibition games were won by Vic.

One of the most significant features about rugby this fall was the good time which every man who turned out for rugby had. Another was the large number of first and second year men who made the team. The chief reason the team did as well as it did is because of the coach, Mr. Wallace J. Sterling, who put an extraordinary amount of time and interest into coaching the team.

Rugby on the whole enjoyed a very fine season and we are hoping and predicting that Mulock Cup Champions for 1927 will be Victoria College.

Trinity College Amateur Athletic Association

HE affairs of the Trinity College Amateur Athletic Association are managed by an Executive of eleven members elected annually by the student body. Through its Executive, the Association combines and controls all the Athletic Clubs of the College. During the current year the Association is actively engaged in rugby, soccer, track, tennis, wrestling, boxing, hockey, basketball, indoor baseball and cricket.

The programme undertaken by the Executive in 1926 has resulted in the completion of arrangements for a full size football field to be constructed this spring, on property to the rear of the college. The cost of the project is being jointly borne by "The Lands Finance and Executive Committee" of Trinity College and by "The Trinity College Amateur Athletic Association."

Trinity has both before and since Federation with the University of Toronto felt it her duty to sponsor athletic activities mainly with a view toward developing a true sense of sportsmanship in every member of her clubs or association.

As Trinity College is called upon to fill her quota of athletic material for the various teams of the University of Toronto; her Amateur Athletic feels that it has justified its existence if the members supplied carry out in University Athletics the Trinity ideals of true sportsmanship.

St. Michael's College Athletic Directorate

THE administration of men's athletics in St. Michael's College is left entirely in the hands of an executive appointed annually. This cabinet consists of five undergraduate officials composed of a representative from each of the four years and a president chosen from fourth year. The Executive this year have tried to stimulate interest in sport in those who have never taken any part hitherto. In doing this, it has had two purposes in view. First and foremost, to aid the individual in developing himself physically, and giving his mind recreation. Naturally out of this will come a desire to make higher, and better teams, and so material will be obtained and developed for the interfaculty series.

Under the able tutelage of the coaches, and due to the initiative of their managers, practically every college team reached an enviable position in its quest for honours. Perhaps the most important factor in this success was the large number of players that were induced to turn out for the various teams. This gave the coaches plenty of good material to work with, and those who did not catch a place have learned enough to enable them to fill the breaches next year.

To promote goodwill and good sportsmanship; to play the game in a manner beyond reproach, in victory or defeat, that every man may learn the great lesson taught in sport—that is, and always shall be, our ideal.

Medical Athletic Association

THE administration of interfaculty and inter-year athletics is left entirely to the executive, which is elected annually by a full vote of the undergraduates. One representative is elected from each year, the President from the sixth year, the Vice-Pres. from the fifth year, and the Sec.-Treas. from the fourth year. In addition to the above representatives the executive appoint a quartermaster, who is a voting member. The executive deeply regretted the retirement of Les Mullen, who left late in the fall due to illness. We appreciated his valuable work in looking after the field day, and Interfaculty Rugby.

This year the executive appointed one man to look after each sport. We appreciated the valuable aid given by the following men:

SOCER—H. E. Edwards.

SWIMMING AND WATER POLO—H. Hethrington.

BOXING, WRESTLING AND FENCING—H. Hills.

INDOOR BASEBALL—E. Moore.

The main object of the society is to encourage as large a number as possible to take part in athletic sport, not only for their own amusement, but also to develop healthy and vigorous bodies, so that they may better carry on their life work. Of almost equal importance is the assistance and co-operation with the University of Toronto Athletic Association. If we have accomplished the above, we will consider that our work has been well done.

Due to the heavy course and lack of time, it seems almost impossible at times to complete inter-year schedules. This year the executive has made a greater effort than ever along these lines. The Medical Field Day and Assault at Arms have already been completed. Competition and attendance in both show a decided improvement over the last two years. At the time of going to press inter-year hockey, basketball and indoor baseball schedules are being completed.

First "T" Holders in Medicine 1926-27

MEDS still continue to be outstanding in intercollegiate athletics. During the past year we have had men upholding the honour of the University in every branch of athletics. Graduation reduced our numbers by twenty last year, but even with this loss we find that about one-third of the first colours held in the University have been granted to Meds. Although most of "T" holders are men in the upper years, yet quite a number are from the junior years, and the large number taking part in intermediate and junior athletics give promise that the enviable record will be upheld for many years to come.

It would be almost impossible to pick out a small group of the most outstanding athletes. Many of the above have represented Varsity in more than one line of sport, and nearly all have long records in interfaculty competition. However it would seem quite fitting that special mention should be made of one who has been outstanding all during his course. In graduation this year 'Warnie' Snyder leaves behind a record in athletics that is not likely to be equalled for many years. Warnie has represented Varsity in two major sports, rugby and rowing. He has been the mainstay of the Varsity Senior Rugby team during his six years in Medicine, captain in his fourth and sixth year, and considered by Frank Shaughnessy to be Canada's greatest halfback. He was a member of the Varsity Rowing Crew at the Olympic games in 1924. His many friends among the undergraduates in Medicine wish him every possible success in the practice of medicine.

Although many hours have been given over to sport, and many a lecture missed, the tradition of Medicine has been upheld in sport by these men, and Medicine will always honour them.

“M” Holders

HE “M” is the crest awarded to undergraduates in Medicine. It is indicative of the highest proficiency in interfaculty sport. It is awarded to those who are “T” holders, to those who have played on championship interfaculty teams, to those who have for three years played on interfaculty teams, or to those who in the opinion of the Medical Athletic Society are entitled to recognition because of outstanding ability in sport.

Interfaculty competition in sport is one of the best forms possible in our University life. It gives everyone so inclined a chance to get out and “play their game.” It is a means of development for their minds as well as their bodies. It provides good comradery and it fosters the growth of lasting friendships, all of which help greatly in the education of any man. For years interfaculty teams have been the training ground for intercollegiate teams, and it is exceptional to have a man play on the first team who had not for a year at least played for his faculty.

Interfaculty sport is sport in its finest form, free from the influences sometimes attributed to other sports. It is instrumental in building and maintaining a proper faculty spirit which in its place is greatly to be desired.

Every undergraduate in Medicine is given a chance and we hope in the future even more men will take advantage of this opportunity and turn out to keep Medicine in the high place that it has constantly occupied.

T. Torrance, R. M. Mitchell, G. D. Wilson, H. Crawford, V. E. Burn, J. Wright, E. V. Shute, H. D. Marritt.

Medical Track Team

THE fifth annual Medical track meet was probably the most successful that has ever been held. 2T9 again captured the cup emblematic of the inter-year championship, Mo Mitchell, the individual champion, contributing twenty-three points. George Sparrow and Evan Shute in the order named were runners-up for the individual honours. The first year showed some very promising material.

For the second consecutive year Medicine won the interfaculty track meet. The win was more or less of a surprise for the Med. team was of unknown quality. Here again the freshmen did much to help out with the win. The interest shown by the lower year men gives promise of keeping Meds. a power in track athletics.

Meds were represented on the Intercollegiate team by five men: Shute, Crawford, Sparrow, Burn and Mitchell, all helping in the conclusive victory of the Toronto team. It seems as if Meds will be for some time in the future a source for Intercollegiate material.

Medical Swimming and Water Polo

AQUATICS in Medicine were not as successful this year as in former years. The Senior Water Polo team, champions of last year's interfaculty series, were greatly weakened through losses by graduation. Four of the team passed on and their places had to be filled by less experienced men from junior ranks. The junior team was absolutely green, no man having ever played before. But with coaching from some of the Intercollegiate team they fared not too badly in their section of the league.

The Senior team started off well and were unfortunate to meet the strong Senior U.C. team early in the series. However in the second game they defeated their more experienced opponents and won the senior section of the series. In the play-off with Jr. School they were less fortunate. The School team was young and strong and in J. Goss they possessed one of the trickiest players in the game. The Meds worked hard the first game but were unable to more than tie the Juniors, the score being 3-3. The second game was just as fiercely contested and when the spray settled the score was 3-0 favour of Jr. School, giving them the series by three goals.

The Senior team was captained this year by Perc. Williams who has played the game almost since the cradle. The members of the team were: W. Grieg, and A. Jones, defence; W. Duff, goal; Gundy, Hutner and A. Jones, forwards; Coutts, Logan and Johnston, spares; H. Hethrington acted as coach and manager and was ably assisted by A. R. Tilley, another member of the Varsity team.

The swimmers were not successful in lifting the Interfaculty championship but were not far behind the winners. Les Uren was the outstanding member of this team, his last appearance for Meds.

Every year sees Meds advancing in standing in Varsity Aquatics, and next year they should win both the Eckhardt and Fitzgerald Cups.

School Athletic Association

THE School Athletic Association controls all the teams representing this faculty in interfaculty competition. Within it Clubs, such as the Rugby Club, Hockey Club, Track Club, etc., are organized to look after each sport. The Executive of the Association controls all the finances. The records of Interfaculty Championships in past years, show that School wins a goodly share of them. This year we have already three to our credit, and the prospects seem hopeful for one or two more. In any case it will be a gain over last year when only two trophies rested with us at the end of the season.

As a result of the competition during the Fall term, we have these championships:

- Rowing.....No Cup
- Rugby.....Mulock Cup.
- Water Polo.....Eckardt Cup.

The Faculty letter "S" is granted by the Executive, according to the rules of the Association. Beginning this year, a certificate of a form similar to those given with first "T's" will be given to each man when he is awarded his letter.

School men also take a real part in Intercollegiate Athletics. This is shown by our list of twenty-four "T" holders, of whom fourteen are in the graduating class. These twenty-four represent practically every branch of Intercollegiate competition.

School "T" Holders

 CHOOL may be rather a small faculty, but for what she lacks in size, she makes up in enthusiasm. It has long been said that only men take Engineering and our list of "T" holders seems to verify this statement. Yes, "Schoolmen" work when they work and play when they play. With 24 men of 323 in possession of our University's highest athletic standing, and 25 per cent. of the total colour awards coming to "School" —who could ask for more? Fourteen of these "T" holders graduate this spring, but there is little doubt but their places will be ably filled by other Schoolmen. Come on ye Toke Oikes and "Though we be small let us be mighty."

Junior School Water Polo

FOR the first time in four years S.P.S. has had a champion water polo team and it is to be noted that the team was a junior one composed of first and second year men. This leads the School to believe that it will not be the last seen of the Eckhart Trophy, as they will be eligible next year in the senior group.

Many of the players showed that they will be playing Intercollegiate polo in the near future, John Goss being the sensation of the series as centre man. Goss is also the best swimmer in the University and holds the Durnan Cup for 1925-26. Harold Nimmo, Jack Thwaites and Stan Moore, with Goss, formed the forward line and combined well to give School the victory over Senior Meds in the finals. The defence was made up of Pot Grant, Dean Irwin and Doug McCarthy, Grant being the star defence man of the 1925 Junior team, and the others new to the game. All three played heady, close-checking games as can be judged by their victory over a Senior team of experienced players. Lorrie Bullen in goal was the deciding member of the strongest defence in Interfaculty polo for years.

Jr. School Rugby Team

REPEATING their win of two years ago, the Junior School team added another School of Science name-plate to the most famous old mug in Interfaculty competition—the Mulock Cup. In a season of a little better than average interfaculty rugby, they maintained the rather enviable record of defending their goal-line from a single touchdown. In the first place there was good material, and to spare, and the team was carried through the season at full strength. Another big factor must be mentioned, and that is that there was not a single serious injury sustained by the team.

Playing in a group with Junior Meds and Junior U.C. their record was good enough for the team to be considered as a serious contender for the Cup. Junior Meds were defeated 14-2 and 12-1 and an even break, with an 18-1 win and a 1-2 reverse, gained against Junior Arts.

In the playdowns Junior School was drawn first against Forestry and came through with a 14-0 win. The semi-final game pitted them against Pharmacy whom they proceeded to vanquish 15-0.

The final draw brought them against Dents, the latter having won their way that far by a close verdict over Victoria.

The dispute was staged on a mud-field and was a bitter struggle through four periods, each team alternately appearing to hold the advantage.

Victory came to the men from the little red school house in the third quarter when a kick to the deadline gave them the only score of the game. Certainly as close a finish as any championship game ever witnessed and the Dents are to be congratulated on their fine game.

The cup was presented to the team by Sir William Mulock at the annual School Dinner, and the coach, Bill Duncan, and the manager, Woody Woodside, were made presentations by the team for their faithful service.

S.P.S. Soccer

THE S.P.S. Soccer team this year had a fairly successful season after a somewhat disastrous start. The first game found them short of players and practice and they lost to Victoria by four goals. However they were at full strength for the return game a week later and won by the odd goal in five. Following this up by consecutive wins over Meds and Dents and also taking one game from Dents by default they drew the final game with Meds to win the group from Victoria by a single point.

The semi-final play-off found S.P.S. grouped with O.A.C. The first game played in Toronto, resulted in a hotly contested single goal victory for O.A.C. In the return game in Guelph, however, School faded badly and O.A.C. scored a well-earned victory by three clear goals, making it 4-0 on the round.

The outstanding player on the side was Jim Downing, who also played on the Intercollegiate team. Fast, tricky and aggressive, Downing was the best goal scorer on the forward line. Mention must also be made of John Howell whose sterling work in goal saved School on more than one occasion.

Graduation unfortunately removes six of the side but the remnant that is left should form a good nucleus around which to build up a really strong team for 1927. Such at least is the hope of those who remain.

School Rowing

THIS year as in others, School of Science developed a Rowing Crew which, competing against all the other faculties, had no particular difficulty in winning the preliminary heat and finally the Interfaculty championship for 1926-27, over the Interfaculty course from the foot of Church Street to the Rowing Club at John Street. It seems inevitable that School come out on top in this sport. Ever since the inception of Interfaculty competition they have produced a crew which has turned out to be second to none. This year the usual inclement weather conditions prevailed during the short time for training before the regatta, but despite the cold, icy days large number of would-be oarsmen turned out morning and evening eager to obtain a position on the crew in order to represent School. However, the prospects were not so bright until the Thursday before the race when the old boat began to run and the crew as a whole began to develop that smooth swing which is the real thrill in rowing. It was that which won the race on the following Saturday.

This supremacy in Interfaculty sport is only a suggestion of the part school-men play in Collegiate Rowing. Although the U. of T. Rowing Club is only in its infancy it has already made itself famous, and at all times School has done its utmost to further its success and bring honour and credit to Old Varsity.

Dental Athletic Association

HN the faculty of Dentistry the Athletic Association consists of presidents of every branch of sport. These are elected by the student body, and they in turn elect one of their number to be president of Athletics. The president of Athletics looks after the interests of all the sports in the faculty and represents the Association on the students' cabinet.

For our success in the field of sport during the season 1926-27, much credit is due the various presidents, particularly Jack Marshall for his efforts and success in handling the Dental Track meet; also Sutherland as manager of the Rugby team.

To Dr. Richardson as honorary president is due a word of thanks for his interest in the welfare of the boys both in College and on the field.

“T” Holders Dental Faculty

HERE are five “T” holders of the graduating class of which we are justly proud. Biff Potter and Geo. Hutchison from their first year have been the star-players of the intercollegiate basketball team. Having won the coveted “T” in their second year, they are most deserving of the highest honours. They play the game for the love of sport and have stood by their team throughout their College career.

Ralph Carrol won his “T” as a member of the intercollegiate rugby team of 1921. Ralph is also a hockey player of renown, and has played with the Dent interfaculty team for five years.

Frank Kohli and Benny Keifets are men of the mat. Frank is an intercollegiate champion and one of Varsity’s best wrestlers, having been captain of the intercollegiate team. His highest ambitions however were not attained as he received an injury while wrestling. Benny was twice an intercollegiate champion; having won his honours in the 110 class and 118 class.

“D” Holders

THESE are men of the fifth year, who during their college career have been awarded a faculty letter and crest. This award is made on recommendation of the students' cabinet. “D's” are given (1) to those men who are “T” holders; (2) to members of winning interfaculty teams; (3) to those who have been outstanding in athletics during their college course and merit such a reward.

Dental Rugby Team

NOT since 1918 have Dents entered such a strong team in the Mulock Cup Series. Due to the untiring efforts of Henry Hudson, a light, fast, hard-tackling squad was developed. The mere fact that they suffered but one defeat during the season and then only by a one to nothing score exemplifies the calibre of the team. Although defeated in the finals, all the regulars will be back next year intact and are already anticipating a championship.

Wycliffe College Athletic Association

THE Wycliffe College Athletic Association has just completed one of the most successful years in all its history. Although unfortunately many of the old faces were missing upon the resumption of work, which necessitated the withdrawal of the Rugby team from the Mulock cup series—a very lamentable occurrence as we should have had a team under normal conditions that would have done itself credit—yet in other realms of sport a splendid spirit was shown and there appeared a new enthusiasm among both playing and non-playing members.

Our great achievement was soccer. The result of years of hard practice has at last been seen, and this year the team went into the finals without the loss of a game, unfortunately only to be defeated in the final game. We hope for better luck next year.

It was our privilege to be able to supply the University soccer team with five players, each giving a very creditable exhibition.

At last we have attained an end for which we have been striving for years, compulsory physical training for all students during their first two years of residence. It is a wise move we hope, and we do not doubt but that the result will soon be witnessed in a higher physical standard, and a greater amount of enthusiasm.

We must remember that it is a time of preparation, as well physically as intellectually, and unless we learn the principle of fair play and sportsmanship, our College course will have failed in one of the most important lines, that of teaching a man that he must "Go straight and play the game," not only on the field but in every transaction in life.

Wycliffe College Soccer Team

THE Wycliffe College Soccer team this year has been worthy of the name, and is a team of which we are proud. Most of the men as they appear, played on last year's team, but among the faces is Bailey, a new comer from Cambridge who strengthened the left wing considerably. The efforts put forth in the games this year were really splendid, and especially commendable and brilliant was the work of Smyth and Cameron full-backs, Evans and English on the right wing, and Withers centre forward. The games played were not altogether defensive; some splendid attacks were made and goals resulted.

That the team played well is shown by the following resumé. In four group games Wycliffe emerged the victors, having scored five goals while holding opposing teams scoreless. The first semi-final brought the number of goals up to seven, with still none scored against them.

These victories brought the team against O.A.C. in early December, and after a two hour fight for the Interfaculty championship the game resulted in a scoreless draw.

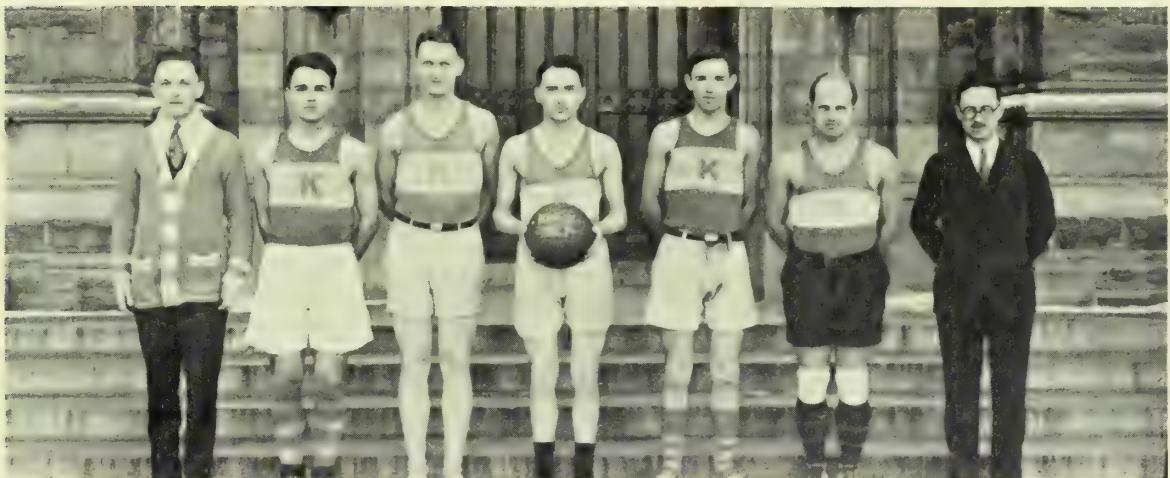

The final game was continued some days later and now we must see the end. In a foot of snow the Wycliffe team was finally defeated. It was a contest in which weight counted and O.A.C. proved that they had the tonnage.

WOMEN'S INTERCOLLEGIATE ATHLETICS

Women's Athletics

THE women's athletic affairs of the University have been successfully carried on by the Women's Directorate and Athletic Club executives. Directorate members for the year 1926-27 are: Dr. C. C. Benson President, Mrs. E. A. Linell, Vice-president, Miss A. E. M. Parkes, Secretary-Treasurer, Mrs. W. A. Kirkwood, Dr. Edith Gordon, Miss I. G. Coventry, Miss Margaret Thomas, Miss Mary Addison, Miss Eileen Ditchburn, Miss Phyllis Griffiths, Miss Marion Hilliard, and Miss Ruth Huggins. The Club presidents are: Baseball, Miss Ruth Huggins; Hockey, Miss Florence Allan; Baseball, Miss Phyllis Griffiths; Tennis, Miss Helen Craw; Swimming, Miss Dorothy Stone.

At the time of writing the Intercollegiate Basketball team is hard at work preparing for the tournament at Queen's February 24, 25 and 26. McGill's win last year has put the team on its toes and the prospects are bright for a return of the "Bronze Baby" to Toronto.

For the third year the team has been fortunate in retaining Mr. H. N. Crichton as coach, and Ruth Huggins makes a most efficient manager. Pat Wood and Evelyn Wilmott of last year's team are ineligible to play and Mary Addison has been unable to turn out through pressure of work, so that several places on the team are still uncertain. Phyllis Griffiths, last year's captain and guard, and Willene Wallace, jumping centre, with Edith Buchanan and Edith Blackwell, a U.C. freshman from Parkdale C. I., as forwards, are pretty sure of regular places, but a merry battle is being waged by Marion Forward and Emma Weir for the side-centre assignment, and by a number of players for the other positions.

Following last year's precedent, two games are to be played with Western, one in Hart House on February 12 and one in London on February 19. Queen's have also invited the Western team to be present at the Intercollegiate Meet and they will play the exhibition game there each night. It is unfortunate that the League has so far been unable to admit Western as a member, due to difficulties of finance and accommodation.

This year an innovation has been introduced in the form of a Second team to play in the Toronto Women's Basketball League in a group with Margaret Eaton School and Normal. The players have not as yet been chosen, but there is some very good material available and the team is fortunate in having as coach Miss Athol Wesley of the Toronto Ladies' Club who has been so successful in coaching the U. C. Baseball and Hockey teams.

The Intercollegiate Hockey team has also had to rebuild this year with Marion Hilliard, Eileen Ditchburn and Jessie Mooney as the only regulars left. The team is fortunate to have as coach Mr. W. P. Devins who is prevented through injury from playing Intercollegiate hockey this year, and as manager, Joyce Finlay of St. Hilda's who has looked after the interests of the team with the greatest efficiency. The generosity of the men's Athletic Directorate has made it possible to have regular practices at the new Arena at convenient hours and there is an improvement every time out. In an exhibition game with the strong Aura Lee team on Saturday, January 29th, the team, which had never played together before, was only defeated 2-0.

The first Intercollegiate game was played with Queen's in Kingston on Monday, February 7 and resulted in a win for Queen's by a score of 3-2. Varsity took a 2-1 lead into the second period but lack of experience told against them and Queen's tied it up in the second period and took the lead which gave them the game by one goal in the third. Marion Hilliard was the individual star for Toronto, scoring both goals, playing a strong game on the defence, and in her position as captain, generally steadyng the team.

The return game against Queen's will be played in Toronto on March 1, and the team has strong hopes of reversing the decision of the last game and bringing back to Toronto the most coveted Beattie-Ramsay cup.

The interfaculty series have all been most interesting and have provided several upsets. In tennis University College won out for the first time since 1913, although they had tied with St. Hilda's in 1918. The individual championship of the University went to Ann Connor, First Year U. C.

The indoor baseball series was run off rather earlier this year in order to avoid conflict with the basketball series. Every year there is an improvement in the type of game displayed and this year was no exception. University College, with Phyllis Griffiths as catcher, a freshman, Edith Blackwell, as pitcher, and several other stars in the line up, defeated their old rivals of Victoria in an exciting final series and will be the first holders of the new cup which is being donated.

The basketball again saw U. C. and Vic. in the finals, although on a different basis from former years. Each of these two colleges put in a Junior and a Senior team, the former entirely from the two lower and the latter from the two upper years. Although this made competition evener in the three groups, the Senior U. C. and Senior Vic. teams each won out, while the Juniors tied in their group. The playoff resulted in a win for Junior U. C., while Senior Vic. defeated Senior U. C. in the semi-finals in two hard-fought matches. Senior Vic. then proved conclusively that they had the strongest team in the University by defeating Junior U. C. in the finals by fairly large scores. So the tradition of "turn about" for the basketball championship between these two colleges has again been carried out.

The hockey is presenting one of the most interesting races and the best playing in years. Victoria, St. Hilda's and University College have all very strong teams, although St. Hilda's has just suffered the heavy loss of no less than three of their best players to the Intercollegiates, while Vic. has lost two. As two of these are freshmen as well as several of the Vic. interfaculty stars, the promise for the Senior team for the future is very cheery.

There has been a big revival of swimming interest all through the University this year, with Vic. and U. C. running off inter-year meets in their own colleges. The Interfaculty Meet will take place early in March. Evelyn Willmott, the individual champion, Catherine Scholes, Catherine Cringan, Margaret Fairbairn, Marion Laird, Dorothy Stone and several other outstanding swimmers are still at College as well as a great deal of new material, and an especially good meet is expected.

Women's Baseball Team University College

ONCE again the University College women's baseball team carried the Red and White colours to victory in the interfaculty league. For three consecutive years, under the coaching of Miss Athol Wesley, of the Toronto Ladies' Athletic Club, U.C. has won the championship, in every case defeating Victoria College in the play-offs. This year, five teams—St. Hilda's, St. Mike's, O.C.E., Vic. and U.C.—competed in one group, each team meeting the others in home-and-home games. U.C. and Vic. won all their games from the other teams, and won on their home floors from each other.

U.C. won the first game of the play-offs on its home floor, and upset expectations by again winning on the Vic. floor. Both the contests were hard-fought, but U.C. had the edge, largely owing to superiority at the bat. Each of the teams fielded well and the rival pitchers—Lorene Gibson, for Vic., and Edith Blackwell, for U.C.—pitched good ball.

Only five of last year's championship team were available, these being Pat Wood, Muriel Thompson, Helen McKinley, Phyllis Howard and Phyllis Griffiths. The addition of Edith Blackwell, Marian Henderson, Frances Dale and Evelyn Willmott, with Amy Essery as spare, gave U.C. a winning team. The material provided by the freshie year was exceptionally good.

The line-up was as follows: Phyllis Griffiths, catcher; Edith Blackwell, pitcher; Pat Wood, first base; Muriel Thompson, second base; Marian Henderson, third base; Phyllis Howard, shortstop; Frances Dale, Evelyn Willmott and Helen McKinley, outfielders.

Muriel Thompson and Phyllis Griffiths are the only players who will not be available next year, but prospects are bright for a fourth championship for U.C.

The success of the U.C. team during the last three years is due in great measure to the untiring efforts and capable coaching of Miss Athol Wesley. It is hoped that the team of 1927 will again have her as coach.

Women's Senior Basketball Team

University College

ALTHOUGH defeated in the interfaculty basketball play-off by Senior Vic., Senior U.C. women's team made a good showing in all its games, winning its group with ease from Meds. and McMaster. Under the able coaching of Mr. Arch. Bryce, a strong aggregation was built up, and the excellent team-play of the sextette may be attributed to his training.

After annexing the group title, Senior U.C. met Senior Vic. in two games at Lillian Massey and Hart House, points on the round counting. The Lillian Massey fixture, in which Vic. had a decided margin in shooting and passing, was productive of poor basketball, owing to the smallness of the floor. The second game, which was played in the large Hart House gym., was a fine exhibition of basketball, U.C. going down to defeat after a hard battle. The spectacular shooting of Edith Buchanan on the Vic. forward line was a big factor in the Scarlet and Gold's victory.

The Senior U.C. team line-up was: Willene Wallace (captain) and Constance Smith, forwards; Dorothy Page, centre; Emma Weir, side centre; Mildred Wilkins and Phyllis Griffiths, defence; Muriel Thompson, Frances Stinson, Jean Forster, Vera Harrison and Catherine Scholes, spares.

Of this year's team, five are in the graduating year—Dorothy Page, Phyllis Griffiths, Frances Stinson, Muriel Thompson and Vera Harrison—but their places will be well filled by players moving up from second to third year.

Women's Junior Basketball Team

University College

COMPOSED largely of first year women, the Junior U.C. women's basketball team went through to the finals in the interfaculty league, losing to the more experienced Senior Vic. team. The Red and White Juniors encountered some trouble in their group games, defeating O.C.E. without great difficulty, but dividing their games with Junior Vic. In the group play-off, however, the Junior U.C. aggregation played brilliant basketball and won easily.

Captained by Pat Wood, of intercollegiate fame, the team had a very strong forward line, Edith Blackwell proving a good partner for her captain. Marjorie Watson, centre, and Betty McDonald, side centre, were both very fast and fitted well into combination plays. The latter was particularly brilliant, her speed and heady playing making up for her lack of size. Phyllis Howard and Marian Henderson formed a good defence, and made an effective barrier against opposing forwards.

It was unfortunate that illness prevented Phyllis Howard from playing in the final games, and her absence weakened the team greatly. She had starred in every fixture in which she had played. Evelyn Willmott, last year's intercollegiate centre, who had not been playing basketball during the fall, was hurriedly pressed into service and she filled the new position well. However, these necessary last minute changes were largely responsible for Junior U.C.'s defeat.

Jean Hall was a capable sub. for forward and side centre, while Phyllis Ferguson substituted well on the defence line.

Women's Tennis Team

University College

UNIVERSITY College women began their 1926-27 athletics well by winning the interfaculty tennis championship with a very strong team. Six excellent players were chosen after a U.C. tournament, and they proved greatly superior to the teams from the other faculties. Three first year women—Ann Connor, Margaret Goldie and Mary Connolly—made the team, together with Ruth Higgins, Thelma Standeaven and Jean Kennedy, of third year. The team was as follows: No. 1, Ann Connor; No. 2, Margaret Goldie; No. 3, Ruth Higgins; No. 4, Mary Connolly; No. 5, Thelma Standeaven; No. 6, Jean Kennedy. It will be noted that the first and second players were both freshies.

The U.C. tournament, although delayed considerably by wet weather, was very successful, largely owing to the efforts of Jean Kennedy, the tennis curator. There was a large entry list, and many exciting games were played. The selection of the team was a difficult matter, as a number of strong players were discovered.

None of the team are in the graduating year and, as all of the players will probably again be available, it seems probable that U.C. will retain the championship.

The lack of courts for the use of U.C. women is a decided handicap, and it seems unfortunate that some provision cannot be made for them. The first games of the U.C. tournament were played on the university men's courts north of the Kappa house, but they became unplayable owing to so much wet weather, and the tournament was completed on the Rosedale Community Club courts.

University College Women's Hockey

COACHED by Miss Athol Wesley, the 1927 University College Women's Interfaculty hockey team was moulded into an unusually strong sextette, whose team play featured all the games. At the time of writing, the team was undefeated, having beaten Meds twice and O.C.E. once in group games. The forward line was composed of Bett Barr, Grace Martin, Wilma Speers and Betty Rous, while Evelyn Willmott and Violet Murphy formed a powerful defence. Phyllis Griffiths and Helen McKinley were the goal-keepers. The substitutes were chosen from Kathryn Bean, Betty Donaldson, Margaret Barton, Marian Henderson and Louise Tucker.

The centre position was well looked after by Bett Barr, the Aura Lee player, who is enrolled in occupational therapy. As she is not in a course proceeding to a degree and is therefore ineligible for intercollegiate sport she was given special permission by the Women's Athletic Directorate to play for both U. C. and her old team, Aura Lee. The other forwards were Grace Martin, Wilma Speers and Betty Rous, all of whom are good skaters and stickhandlers.

Ev Willmott and Vi Murphy were a tower of strength on the defence. They were hard to pass defensively, and very good on the offensive, both giving the opposing goal-keepers some anxious moments.

Phyllis Griffiths and Helen McKinley, the goal-keepers, were both new to the position, but improved rapidly under Miss Wesley's coaching.

The first game against Meds was played on very soft ice, U.C. winning by 1-0, Bett Barr getting the only goal of the game in the first period. Then, on fairly fast ice, the Red and White girls defeated the strong O.C.E. team by 3-0. The return game with Meds. resulted in a 2-0 win for U.C.

Margaret Malcomson was the very capable manager of the team.

Victoria College Women's Athletics

N 1905 the Victoria College Women's Athletic Club came into being. Previously women's athletics were controlled through the Athletic Union of Victoria College—now purely masculine. In 1905, however, unorganized athletics gave place to organized. The Victoria College Women's Athletic Club, being formed, hastened to join with St. Hildas' and University College in a League for the promotion of Intercollege sport, and intercourse. Victoria was the first to carry off an Intercollege trophy—the Tennis Cup presented by Mrs. Ramsey Wright. With the introduction of organized athletics, inter-year games, which had always been keen became more and more important. Inter-year matches in field and ice hockey, and in basketball, were played off, and in 1912 "V's" or "Shields" were first given—to be worn by players on a first or a championship inter-year team. In 1914 field hockey seems to have been dropped, but with the completion of the Lillian Massey Building, swimming took its place. Another sport, which we seldom connect with Inter-College or Interfaculty athletics, continued for some time—Paperchasing—and indeed, in 1914, there was on the Athletic Executive, "a Mistress of the Chase!"

In comparatively modern times—1923—baseball was started, and commencing with 1925, Victoria has entered two basketball teams in the Interfaculty Series. Finally this year we are putting forth two hockey teams.

This year Victoria has achieved a second place in the Tennis Tournament. In baseball she reached the finals, losing in the third game to University College. In basketball the Senior team won the championship, and the Junior team tied with U.C. Juniors for their group, but were defeated in the play-off. Inter-year competition has also been encouraged. A trophy is being presented to the year which shall acquire the maximum number of points in inter-year contests—tennis by the players on the team, basketball, baseball, and hockey by inter-year games, and swimming by an inter-year meet.

In fine, the aim of athletics at Vic., as long as there have been athletics at our college, has been to include every girl, to play the game for the sake of the game, and for the sake of Vic.

The Joint Executive Students' Administrative Councils

IN 1919, when the Men's and Women's Council first saw the light and decided that co-operation was an essential in a co-educational institution of the size of the University of Toronto, a formal and wordy "agreement" was drawn up which was to live for one year as an experiment. Joint financial responsibility was about the only thing which the famous "agreement" achieved, but two years later a full-blown constitution and genuine co-operation between men and women came into being.

The Joint Executive, as well as assuming responsibility for the publishing of "The Varsity," "Torontonensis" and the "Students' Handbook," has since become a real force in student life. The amount of work which is accomplished grows in quantity and importance each year.

The 1926-27 has been a particularly full year for the Joint Executive. Changes in the methods of directing publications and in the financial policy of the Executive have necessitated endless committees and reports. The Executive meetings have frequently extended far into the night.

A burden of debt accumulated since the war years was laid upon the shoulders of the incoming executive. The appeal made concerning this debt to the Board of Governors, by the 1925-26 Executive, while productive of real assistance both financial and advisory, undoubtedly increased the feeling of responsibility and consequent labours of this year's executive.

The Joint Executive has taken a very active part in the proposals made by various Canadian University student bodies, following the visit of the Imperial Debaters, that some form of closer co-operation between student bodies in Eastern, Central and Western Canada should be developed. Three representatives were sent to a Conference called at McGill University to investigate and report to the student bodies upon the formation of a National Federation of Canadian University Students.

The Students' Administrative Council

OUT of the mists of a century of student life and learning the Students' Administrative Council emerged in 1914, after having spent eight years in the chrysalis state of a Students' Parliament. At first the centre of oratorical display, now the administrator of student affairs, the Council is the official spokesman, through their elected representatives for the men students at the University of Toronto.

Each year in the history of the Council has been marked by the assumption of added responsibility until to-day a body of thirty-six representatives, it is directly responsible for the promotion of inter-university debating, the enforcing of student discipline, consideration and protection of all student interests and the supervision of Rooters' Club activities.

During 1926-27 the Student' Administrative Council has supervised the inauguration of the University of Toronto Students' Band. It has experimented with new regulations governing the Rooters' Club membership. Its representatives on the Special Joint Committee of the Caput and Students Administrative Councils have had to consider the applications of the colleges and faculties for special reception ceremonies to members of the first year. Finally, it has co-operated with the Athletic Association in the interests of students securing tickets to the final rugby games.

In preparation for the celebration of the centenary of the University of Toronto, at the request of the Chairman of the centenary committee, the Students' Administrative Council has appointed representatives to each sub-committee charged with supervision of the various phases of the celebration.

Women Students' Administrative Council

NTIL the War, the women of the University had always carried on all activities except interfaculty athletics entirely in the individual colleges and faculties. The war years, however, made apparent the need for some central body which could discuss and organize affairs of interest to University women as a whole. After a year of planning and contriving, the Women Students' Administrative Council was brought into being in the Spring of 1916, with the Presidency in University College.

The Council is composed of representatives from the women undergraduates' societies of all colleges and faculties. There are seventeen seats on the Council, each college or faculty having representation more or less according to size. The presidents of the undergraduate societies in University College, Victoria College, Trinity College, St. Michael's College, and the Faculty of Medicine, with the General Secretary-Treasurer, who is a graduate appointed by the Board of Governors, make up the Executive, and are the women members of the Joint Executive.

The offices rotate among the Colleges each year, Miss Luella Scott, U.C. '27, being this year's President, and Miss Mary Howard, Vic. '27, the Vice-President.

The Council is responsible for various undertakings. A free book exchange, through which hundreds of books pass yearly, is maintained, and tickets for the women's sections at games, debates and various other events are handled by the Council. Since 1918 the women have taken joint responsibility with the men in the publication of "The Varsity," "Torontonensis" and the "Handbook," and in all other matters in which the interests of both men and women students are involved. These affairs are all administered by the Joint Executive of the Students' Administrative Councils.

University College Literary and Athletic Society

SINCE 1927 marks the hundredth anniversary of University College, it seems fitting to outline briefly the history of its student governing body, the University College Literary and Athletic Society. This society is the oldest student organization on the campus to-day, having been formed on February 22nd, 1854. On that date, a few undergraduates, as well as some interested members of the faculty, gathered in a small chamber of the old Parliament Buildings on Front St., then occupied by Dr. Daniel Wilson. There they organized the University College Literary and Scientific Society, with this high purpose, "of preparing University men to play their part as leaders of thought and action in the building up of their country." The scheme owed its origin entirely to undergraduates, and was vigorously supported by Messrs. A. Crooks, the first president, W. W. Baldwin, C. E. English, T. Hodgins, E. Crombie, and A. McNabb. For a time the members were forced to meet in the Normal School Buildings for lack of a regular meeting place; but later, they secured accommodation in Professor Croft's lecture room, which was situated in the old Toronto Medical School. Meetings were held on Friday evenings, and ordinary members were fined 3d. and officers 6d. for non-attendance. In spite of this fact, there were only a few members who attended regularly. The first social function of the Society was the Annual University Dinner, which was revived in June of the same year. Ten years later, on March 31st, a new venture was undertaken, when the first Annual Conversazione was held. Before the days of co-education, these evenings were the rare occasions, when young ladies were admitted to the university buildings.

Such social functions have been outstanding events in the student life of the University, and those of 1884 and 1890 have been particularly memorable. At the former, there were 1600-2000 in attendance, when the guests of honour included two of the best-known writers of the time, Matthew Arnold and Goldwin Smith. Six years later, on February 14th, 1890, while decorating the building for one of these functions, a lighted lamp was dropped on the east stairway. The building took fire, and in a few moments, University College was in flames. The building, destroyed by the conflagration, was shortly rebuilt, and within five years, the conversazione was revived, on which occasion, dancing was first introduced as an important part of the evening's entertainment. From this time forward, the conversazione was held annually, and from it has developed the Arts Ball of University College.

The "Lit" first became identified with athletics on March 10th, 1891, when the University of Toronto Athletic Association was organized to control university athletics. The Association, which was responsible to the Literary Society, was controlled by a committee composed of five members from this society, and representatives from various athletic organizations in the University. However, this connection was severed later, when the Athletic Society of University College was formed. These two organizations worked together, until 1921, when, on March 8th, the University College Literary and Scientific Society held its last meeting, organizing in its place, the U.C. Literary and Athletic Society. The new organization took under its control every branch of student activity in the College, and from that date onward, the literary, social, and athletic life of the male undergraduate body has been governed by the present society.

The present session has been one of the most successful in the history of the new society. The regular meetings, held every three weeks, are well attended, and interest in the society is ever-increasing. A new bond with the past has been created in the form of gold-leaf lettering on the walls of the Junior Common Room. During the past summer, there have been placed on the panels of this room the names of all the executives of the society since its inception in 1854. The list, including as it does the names of many, prominent in the ranks of the Church, the State, and the Bar, is an added incentive to the undergraduates of to-day, to achieve the heights to which our founders aspired. These men have realized their ambitions, and we will strive some day to fill their places.

Debating has had a prominent place this year. We have advanced far into the I.C.D.U. series, and have an excellent chance to win the premier honours. A debating society has been organized for those interested in public speaking. It is their plan to hold weekly meetings and in this way to develop further the excellent material in U.C., so that we may fare even better in the future than we have in the past.

In University competition, our athletes are second to none. We have a large representation on all Varsity teams, and yet, it is still possible for us to star in interfaculty competition. Our swimming title was successfully defended this year, but in the water polo semi-finals we were defeated, after a desperate struggle. Our track team had one of its most successful seasons, losing the title by a scant four-point margin. Two strong teams have been entered in rugby, hockey, basketball, and baseball, as well as a strong representation in soccer, rowing, and the junior and senior 'assaults'. The regularity with which these teams are winning, augurs well for our chances in these sports. Plans are being made for our annual Athletic Dinner, at which our interfaculty champions are guests of honour. This dinner is held on election night, and is one of the outstanding events of the year.

Our first social event was the 'Freshman' reception. Because of the ban placed on initiations by the Board of Governors of the University, a reception was tendered the incoming year in October. This was followed by the 'Soph-Frosh' banquet a few weeks later. The annual college 'stunt night,' the U.C. Follies, was held late in November. Although a limit was placed on the number of tickets issued, the fun and merrymaking was unlimited. Extensive plans are being laid for a college dance, early in the spring, as well as the premier social event of the season, the Arts Ball of University College. There is little doubt that the latter will equal, if not surpass, all previous events of this kind in the University.

The Women Undergraduates' Association of University College

THE Women Undergraduates' Association is the officially representative and administrative body of the Women Students. It is the one organization to which all the women of the College belong, and as such, it seeks to unify the interests of the women. The W.U.A. gave out information and handbooks to the freshies on enrollment day in order to welcome and help them become familiar with the College. One innovation, which was considered a great improvement upon last year, was the party given to the freshies by the W.U.A. at which the first year entertained their upper classmen. This event was a combination of the yearly party for the freshies formerly given by the sophomores and the W.U.A. party at which the women of the first year were officially welcomed into the College and took the oath of initiation.

In October the President of the W.U.A. welcomed the freshies, the wives of the faculty, and the graduates, at the Autumn Tea.

The Christmas party was one of the most delightful events of the year. Thanks to the kind assistance of Mrs. Malcolm Wallace, Mrs. Moore, Mrs. Dowe, Miss Nina Gale, and Monsieur de Champ, a French Nativity play was put on by the students in place of the usual Christmas entertainment. The enthusiasm of the large group of spectators gave clear proof of their enjoyment, while those who took part in the play felt that it was a real privilege to be allowed to have such tutelage.

Early in January a campaign which has become annual, was conducted to promote a more academic atmosphere amongst the women. A gown week was proclaimed and much enthusiasm was aroused within the years.

An oratorical contest was held early in February under the auspices of the W.U.A. at which those interested in public speaking were given an opportunity to take part.

Victoria College Students' Parliament

ARE you interested in the Victoria College Students' Parliament? No? Even so there is much that must be said. For have we not reserved this space in which to put before you the many duties and accomplishments of this great society? But before setting forth on this very congenial task it must be remarked that there is much that must remain unsaid. Much that is of the greatest importance unfortunately will be forever lost to posterity.

Time and space decree that we cannot tell you of the history of this parliament since the first half of the last century, of its many changing, improving constitutions, of its present live debates and wise discussions, of its interest and participation in oratorical, literary, musical and social activities, of its thoughtful and considerate conduct of the many and complex affairs of student life. All this and much more else, can not be written here.

Undoubtedly this lack of space is a great hindrance. Nevertheless to hurry on. The executive of this body includes the senior members of the major societies of the College. Here is a unifying centre. And a large amount of organizing and executive work is carried on with a balanced and well informed co-operation otherwise impossible. The parliament consists of the male members of the College. Discussion at the meetings is open to all.

Victoria Women Undergraduates' Association

THE Women Undergraduates' Association is the one "society" from which there is no escape for any Vic. girl. Its membership parallels the electorate of the province; every woman's name is on the list whether she chooses to vote or not. The executive is composed of representatives from each year, with the presidents of societies. Thus it is a thoroughly representative group, capable of voicing the opinion of all the women students. From this executive representatives are sent to the Women's Administrative Council, and the president is a member of the Joint Executive of the S.A.C. In this way Victoria women have their share in the student government of the University.

The W.U.A. began as the Women Students' Council, organized in 1913 and composed of seven members, representing the years. That executive organized Red Cross work during the war, and in 1914 began the fall house party and the appointment of seniors to sponsor the freshies. With the organization of the Union in 1917, the name Women Students' Council was changed to Executive of Women Undergraduates' Association.

New responsibilities have been added. The Women's Literary Society transferred its share of the sponsoring of Acta to the W.U.A. When the Social Caput was formed last year, the president of the W.U.A., with a junior representative appointed by that executive, was understood to be capable of voicing the opinion of the women undergraduates. Another responsibility for the W.U.A. is the Residence Extension Campaign in the College. This originated in the need for a Union and increased residence accommodation. The gift of Wymilwood should inspire us, as the desperate overcrowding of our residences drives us, to do our part to realize the Dean's hopes for a new residence just north of Annesley next fall.

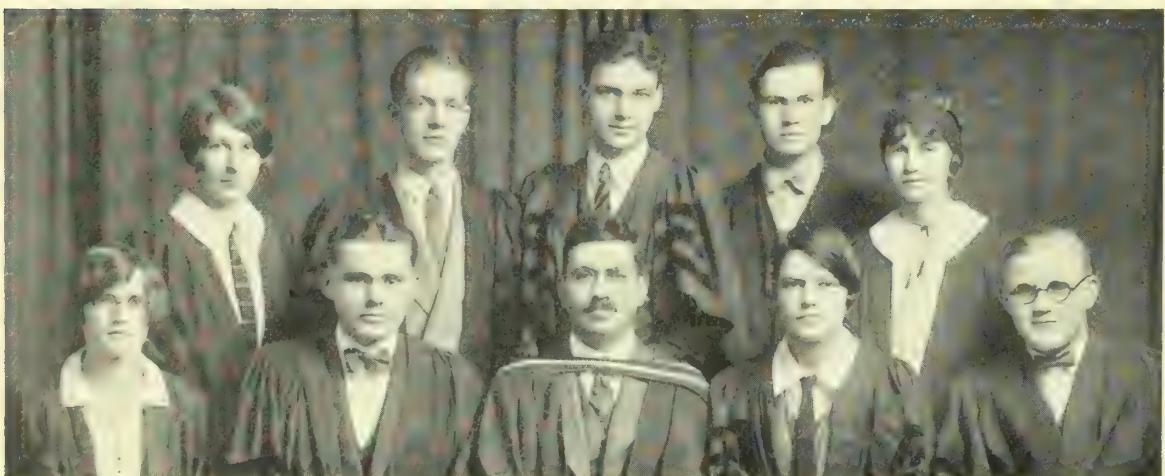

W.U.A. is the password, if you have a bright new idea or a genius for reform. W.U.A. forms a central administration for college activities among the women, and gives coherence to all their classes and groups.

2T8 Victoria

OOT-TOOT! 7 o'clock in the morning Saturday, a mad rush down to the dock and 2T8 Vic. were away for an excursion to Niagara, and a reunion of all the Juniors. Did we have fun? Did we see anything? Ask the Park Superintendent. All we missed was the return boat, almost, and once on, under the ægis of our local talent, Stan St. John, even that was forgotten.

Though habitual procrastination seems to be the Juniors' ear-mark we seem to get there just the same—don't know how it is. Especially did we find this true when we came to review our scholastic records. A share of scholarships came to our members and were thankfully received. The survivors feel quite proud that only 17 per cent. have left the year since freshman days, but oh, how we do miss the others!

Originality is our year's slogan and our second class event, the first dance ever held in the sacred precincts of Annesley Hall and a theatre party combined, continued the tradition. The original Father Christmas appeared in his genial self to present favors and prizes and even demonstrated a novel game called musical chairs.

Athletics get their full quota from our year especially in the women's events. Sr. Vic. basketball team, interfaculty winners, is almost a year affair and more than half the positions on tennis, basketball and hockey teams are filled by our year members. The men almost equal the co-eds' record; the personnel of track, rugby, basketball, hockey and baseball teams including Juniors and our inter-year supremacy is still unchallenged.

The new executive is a strong one and the predictions are that Vic. will be kept on the move and the rest of the world in a perpetual state of wonder for the last year and a half of 2T8's college career.

History of Class 2T9 Victoria

"O such a year it was, my friends! Its like for beauty, charm, and grace has ne'er been seen before."

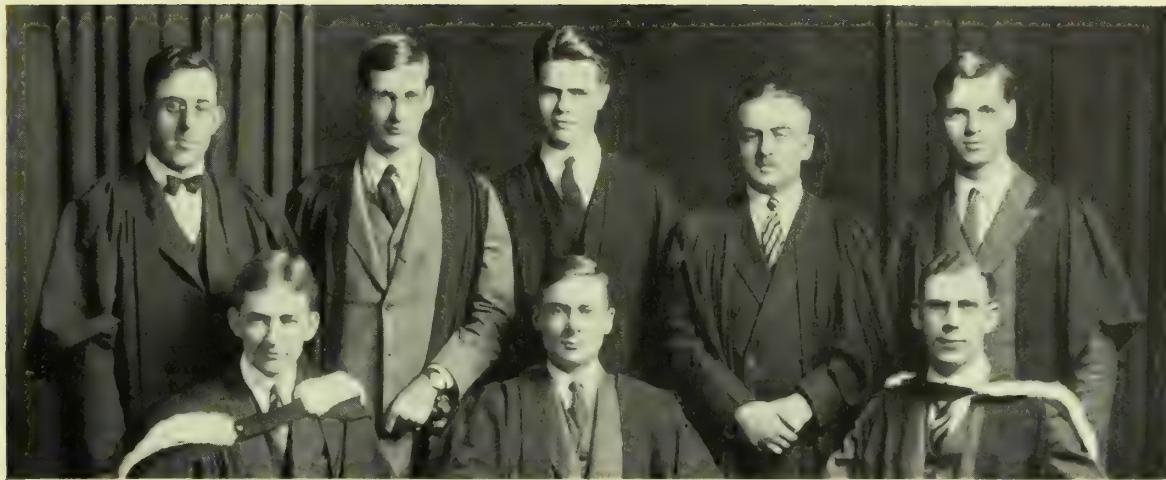

AT an enthusiastic reunion last fall of this year's Sophomore class, someone remarked that the class seemed bigger than ever. Paradoxical though it may seem, the class is stronger now, both numerically and otherwise, than ever before. The fame of 2T9 has spread far and wide, no doubt, for many Fresh-Sophs augmented the veterans of last term. The abolition of initiations this term created a precedent that was quite disliked by most sophomores. Last year's Freshmen comforted themselves with the thought that "Next year we'll be Sophomores, and then—." This year our freshmen were spared the pangs of initiation. Nevertheless some of them wore their pretty yellow ties bobbed—signs of the ever-vigilant Sophomore.

Then came the "Bob." Without doubt it was an outstanding success. In originality of thought and variety of costume it was unique and will long be remembered by all who saw it.

The class hike followed in close succession. This was a perfect day in more senses than one. The treasure-hunt, the eats, the games, the camp-fire and sing-song will continue to linger in our memories.

In athletics 2T9 is second to none. The inter-year championship in rugby is already ours. Inter-year hockey and basketball championships promise to remain with last year's victors—2T9, water-polo, tennis and basketball boast a galaxy of 2T9 stars. The girls are on par with the masculine element. In the women's basketball, hockey, baseball and swimming teams 2T9 girls are outstanding.

The extraordinary success that has attended the social life of 2T9 is due to the spirit of friendship prevalent among all the members. Two class parties at Wymilwood and a skating party at Little Vic rink were very successful. Such spirit augurs well for the future.

The Trinity College Literary Institute

THE Trinity College Literary Institute is not merely the oldest society in the College, but it can claim the unique distinction of being some ten years older than the College itself. This is accounted for by the fact that it first came into existence as the Debating Society of the Diocesan Theological College at Cobourg. As an institution in Trinity, however, it may be said to date from 1854.

The purpose of the "Lit." may best be learned from its motto "Feros Cultuo Voce Formare," or, as it is expressed in the native tongue of the Constitution, "the objects of this Institute shall be the encouragment of public speaking and the fostering of literary studies by a system of Readings, Essays and Debates" It has been as the training-ground for debaters that the "Lit." has been chiefly conspicuous, and the usual method has been the Party Debate.

The meetings of the Institute are held on Friday nights throughout the term, and are directed according to a Constitution based upon the rules of parliamentary procedure. Its officers consist of a Speaker, and a Council consisting of President, Secretary, Treasurer, two Vice-Presidents, Debating Secretary, Curator, keeper of the Mace, and First Year Councillor. The Council controls the finances of the Institute, and has charge of the College Common Room. Originally it also managed the annual Conversazione; but in 1926 this duty was assigned to an independent Committee. With the exception of the Treasurer, who has become a permanent official, the Council depends upon the vicissitudes of party warfare for its position: two successive defeats in debate compel its resignation. The Opposition, which has gradually become a recognized body and is formally elected, then takes office.

In many respects, the Literary Institute is the most characteristic of the many Trinity institutions. It has consistently retained its parliamentary form, and has aimed rather to cultivate fluency and confidence in its members, and to train them to think quickly in the heat of argument, than to produce heavy and learned orators. Whatever the merits or demerits of this system, it is in harmony with the style of debating now most popular in the University, and has amply justified the respect with which this old and healthy society has always been regarded within its own College, if not beyond it.

J. G. Hanley (Vice-President),

St. Michael's Students' Administrative Council

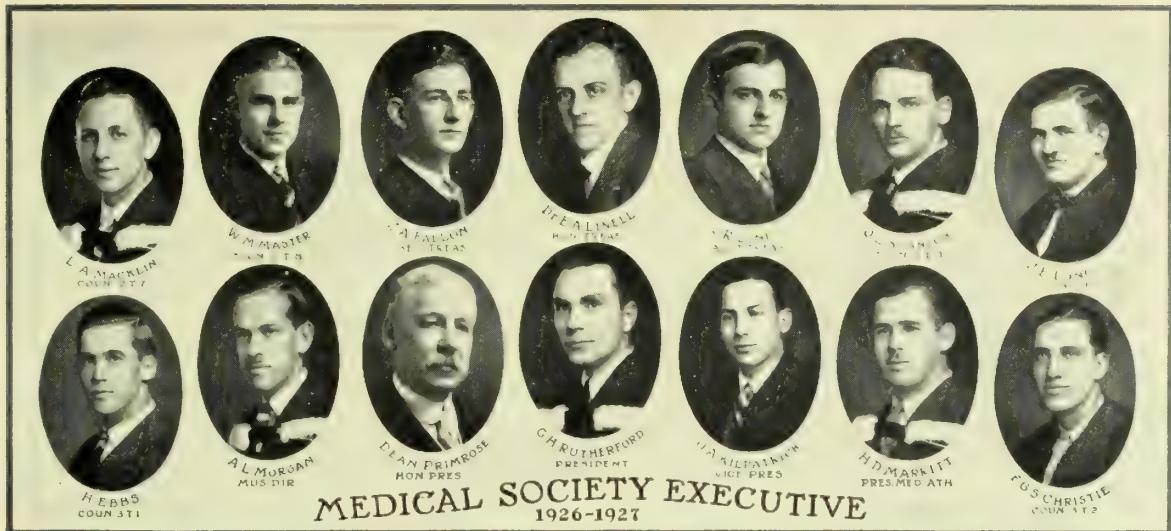

THIS executive comprised of the respective presidents of the four years and the vice-president of fourth year is the governing body of student activities in the College. The president of fourth year is ex-officio president of the council and its representative on the Students' Administrative Council of the University. The revenue necessary to the successful operation of the council is derived by the ingenuity of the various year presidents from the students, who contribute an annual fee of one dollar.

The function of the council is to supervise and arrange Inter-college and intramural debates, to conduct the annual Arts' Banquet and the smokers and to regulate the now somewhat innocuous initiations and the traditional freshmen ensignia. In addition to these major duties there is a considerable number of minor routine matters that come under the jurisdiction of the Council. The various clubs and organizations with which St. Michael's is well served are entirely independent of the council which endeavours only to sponsor and encourage these healthy activities.

Beginning the Michaelmas term the first duty of the council was to conduct the initiation and election in first year. In November a debate was arranged on the parliamentary style which met with the general approval of the students. The Arts' Banquet which came near the end of the term was noteworthy for the excellence of the fare and the quality of the speeches.

During the Easter term the Oratorical contest, smokers and a continuation of the debates will occupy the attention of the council.

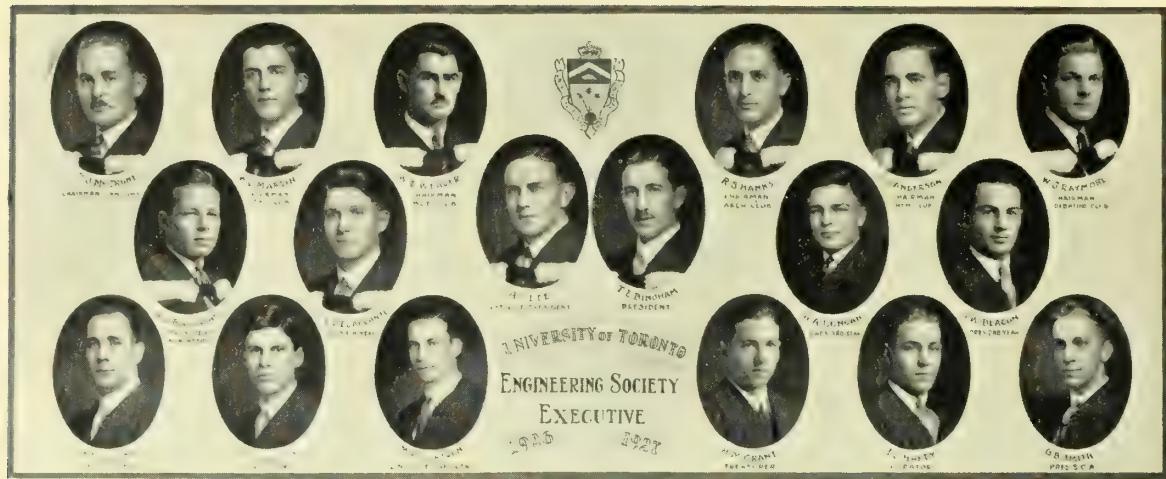

This year the council is very favourably situated in every respect. The five members are without exception men experienced in executive work, and keenly interested in the student affairs of the college.

The Medical Society

FOR thirty-two years undergraduates of the faculty of Medicine have had their organization in the Medical Society. As year by year conditions shift and change so has the society, since its humble inception in 1895, altered and extended its scope little by little to better serve the needs of the transient student body. The executive is elected annually in February and upon its shoulders rests the responsibility of administering an ever increasing volume of social, academic and business matters such as may engage the interest of the undergraduates as a whole throughout the session.

Primarily it is incumbent upon the executive to promote close co-operation between the staff and students and to provide educational meetings that may serve to draw the various years together from time to time in common extra-mural interests. Secondarily come the traditional considerations of the At-Home, Faculty Dinner and Daffydl as well as the responsibility of the Medical Sick Benefit Fund and the appointment of the staff of the University Medical Journal. Besides these institutions there is a miscellany of other duties involving close association with the Medical Athletic Society, partial responsibility for the students' library in the Medical Building, provision of a phone for the students and a piano for the ladies' common room and a due regard for the freshman, that he may be well and truly started in his course.

The Engineering Society

THE Engineering Society is the medium through which the undergraduates of "School" are represented in social, athletic and technical activities of the University and Engineering profession. Forty-two years ago the Society was organized and since then it has functioned as the representative of the undergraduates. Its constitution has been amended from time to time in order to cope with the ever-changing characteristics of University life. The Executive is chosen by ballot at the end of each University year, all the officers being undergraduates who are chosen with regard to their respective ability to cater to the demands of their fellow-students, their faculty, and their University. Every undergraduate is a member and pays an annual compulsory fee of two dollars.

The Executive is composed of the President, first and second Vice-Presidents, Secretary, Treasurer and Curator, together with the chairman of each of the eight "federated and affiliated" clubs, and the President of each year.

The President is directly responsible for all of the Society's activities and is the Faculty's senior representative on the Students' Administrative Council of the University. He is responsible for the arrangement of fortnightly general meetings of the Society at which outstanding men of the Engineering profession address the students on professional problems.

The first Vice-President is directly responsible for the social activities of the Society and is the President's right hand man in all other activities.

The second Vice-President manages a supply department as a paying proposition which supplies all the daily demands of academic life except text-books.

The year presidents are responsible for their respective year social activities and assist in Society events such as "Stunt Night" which is directed by a chosen man who is not a member of the Society Executive.

The undergraduate technical activities are controlled by the chairman of the respective technical clubs who arrange smokers, dinners, etc., at which technical addresses are given.

The President of the Athletic Association is in charge of all "School" athletics and purchases the supplies for the various teams from funds acquired by a fee of two dollars per student.

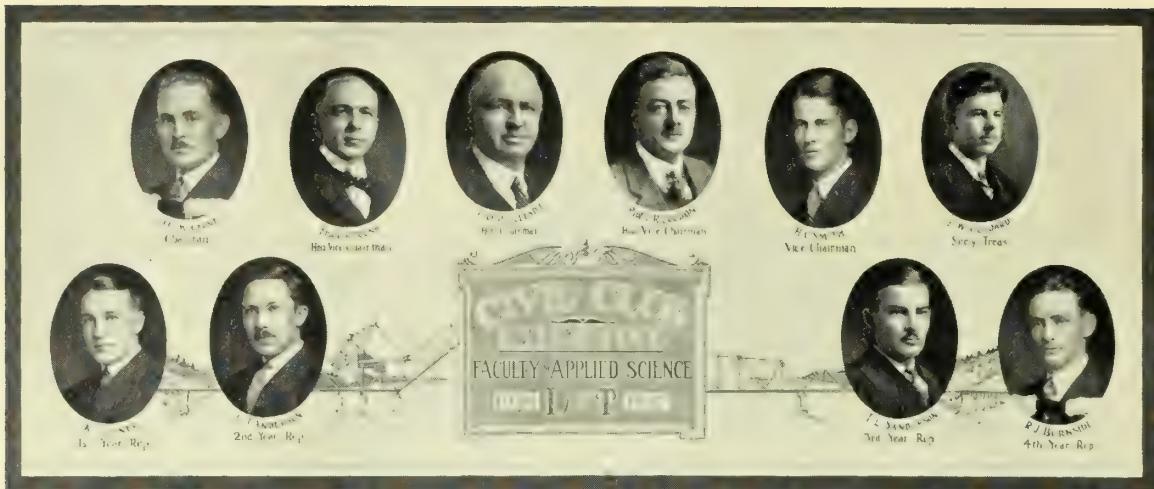

Debating is encouraged in "School" by a club, the chairman of which arranges debates, inter-year and interfaculty, which promote discussion on interesting subjects.

The Students' Christian Association of School this year became affiliated with the Society, its president is responsible for the arrangement of discussion groups to which every student is invited to bring his questions.

There are two Society publications, a combined Transactions and Year Book published at the end of each University year, and Toike Oike published "every now and then" for freshmen instructions, news, gossip, and humour. The editors of these publications are appointed by the Society Executive and the funds are provided for in the Society budget.

As a unit the Engineering Society functions in matters of interest to the University as a whole.

The Civil Club

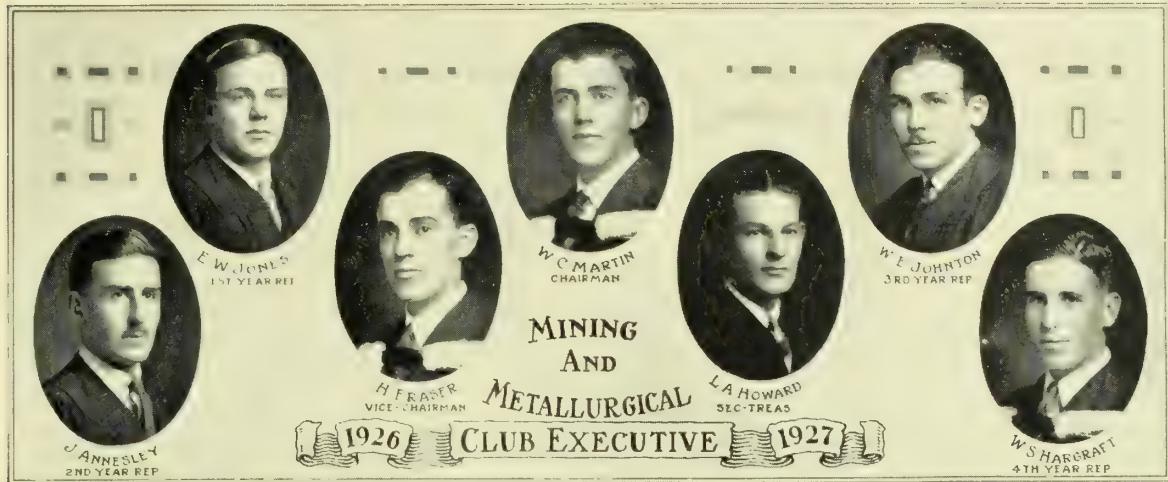

OUR profession is but a survey. We enter through the gates of Varsity at the foot of a gradual ascent, with four steppes, each preceded by a short bank. Up these our carefully guided party takes its levels on a well beaten track. On the third steppe we must take a "Turning Point," the road branches, and each follows the road he desires. On the top of the grade we meet again at a "Bench Mark," the last of the stations in the precise survey. The fourth steppe lies before us. What it holds we know not, for it is densely wooded. But even now we discern many boulders and pitfalls hidden far and near among the trees. Here our party must be disbanded and each break his own trail, but may we ever look back with pleasure on the charted fields we have just traversed.

As we step into the forest we feel we owe a solemn debt of gratitude to: President Falconer and the University of Toronto, for its educational facilities provided.

Dean Mitchell, Professors Gillespie, Young and Loudon, the honorary officers of our club, and all other members of our faculty, for knowledge imparted and their interest and support of our undergraduate activities.

The Massey Foundation for the gift of Hart House, and its officers for their interest in our social and cultural welfare.

We will always be Schoolmen, come what may. That is our inheritance. But our sincere hope is that, in our sojourn here we have made ourselves worthy of the name, by word and deed, in upholding the traditions of Varsity and "School Spirit." May we continue to do so and be a credit to ourselves, our School, our University and our Dominion.

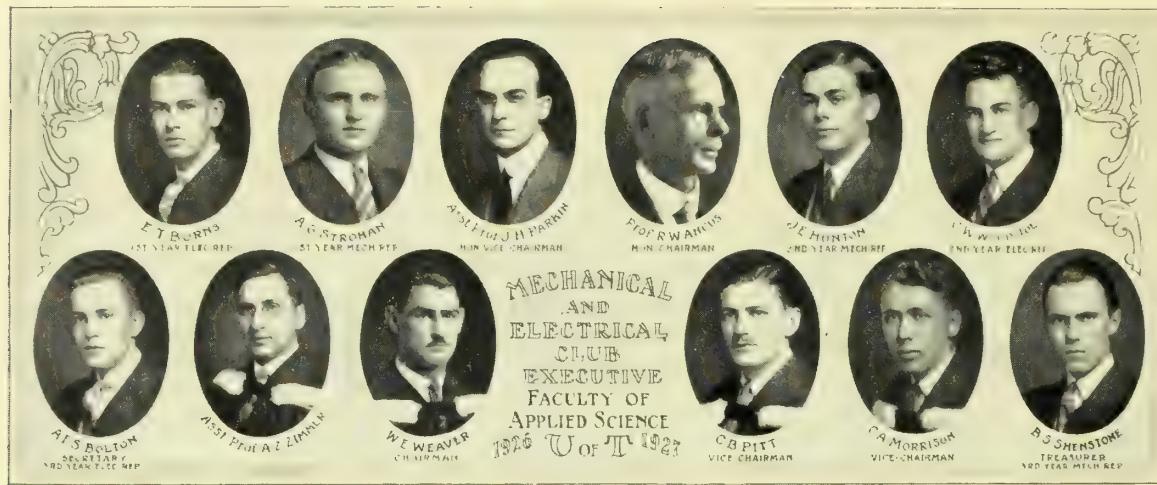

The Mining and Metallurgical Club

THE Mining and Metallurgical Club has the honour of being almost as old as the Engineering Society itself. It was one of the Federated Clubs. The Club to-day with its meetings, which may be of a social or technical character, establishes a personal contact between its members. Men of extended experience in positions of technical responsibility connected with Mining and Metallurgy address the Club from time to time through the School sessions. Meetings of this type are thrown open to discussion, and in this manner, practical knowledge is assimilated and digested.

The executive of the Club consists of a chairman, who is elected at the annual elections and automatically becomes a member of the Engineering Society executive, a vice-chairman, secretary, treasurer and year representatives. The latter officers are elected at the first general meeting of the Club during the fall term.

The Club is affiliated both with the Canadian Institute of Mining and Metallurgy and the American Institute of Mining and Metallurgical Engineers. Many of the privileges enjoyed by full members of these institutes are extended to the members of the Club.

The Mechanical and Electrical Club

AS time rolls on and another April vanishes it can mean but two things—to the Mechanical and Electrical Club it means that one more successful year may be put to its credit—to some of its members it means good-bye School, while to others it means the starting or continuance of the best years in their lives. The M. and E. Club, as one of the federated clubs embodied in the Engineering Society, is the official organization representing the Undergraduates of the Departments of Mechanical and Electrical Engineering. The Club's total enrolment is nearly half that of the whole faculty.

The objects of the Club are to promote 'trips' both in and without the city, to discuss technical papers, and through smokers and dinners to foster the personal contact and social activities of the students.

However the 'trips' without the city are by far the more popular, probably due to the fact that 'far fields look greenest.' The Club's first activity was the traditional trip to Queenston where the mysteries and 'inside dope' on the development of water-power was lucidly explained by competent guides. Who will forget the odd trolley which wound itself and us around hair-pin turns and eventually came to a halt outside the Refectory? Arriving there the car was abandoned in record time, dinner in all probability being the cause. From the Chippawa intake we were carried across the Border where some saw the power plant of The Niagara Company, while the rest procured a copious supply of narcotics.

At the time of writing, the executive is contemplating a trip to Hamilton and probably a dinner or a smoker.

The success of these activities is entirely due to the whole-hearted support given the Club by our honourary and vice-honourary chairmen. We convey to them our thanks and appreciation.

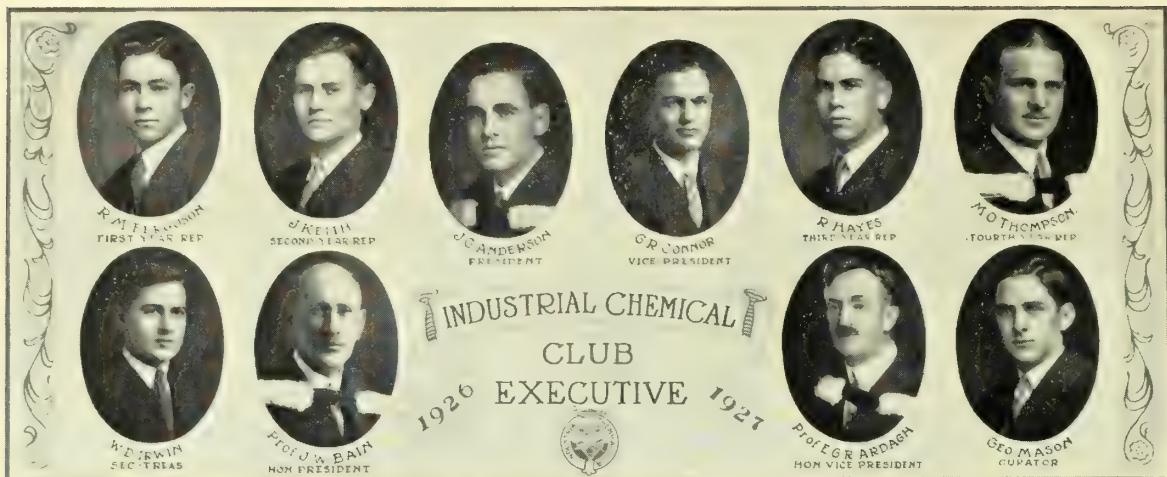

Architectural Club

TO start the term 1926-27 the new Architectural Club Executive had the good fortune to obtain Mr. J. A. Pearson, F.R.I.B.A., President Ontario Association Architects, for the office of Honorary Chairman. Mr. Pearson has for many years occupied a foremost position in Canadian Architecture and we feel his presence on the Executive is of great benefit to the Club, as he has always been keenly interested in our work. The outdoor sketching classes which we have always accepted as an important part of our curriculum have not been much in evidence this year, unfavourable weather proved a barrier to most of the trips planned, amongst which were those to Pickering and the Forks of the Credit.

Acting on tradition the first social event of the session took the form of a dinner. The Honorary President was unable to attend due to illness, so we missed the usual talk by that member. Prof. C. H. C. Wright gave one of his always illuminating and interesting addresses, following which the freshmen were initiated into the Club with all the mystic and solemn rites in keeping with the importance of the event.

Special attention is drawn to the honour and distinction which has been brought to this department through three of her recent graduates. At the American summer school of Architecture at Fontainebleau, France, Messrs. E. C. Horwood, W. H. Steele and J. Ryrie won first, second and third prizes in design respectively in competition with representatives from many other colleges on this continent. Needless to say, we feel proud of the attainments of our recent graduates and we extend to them our heartiest congratulations.

The Industrial Chemical Club

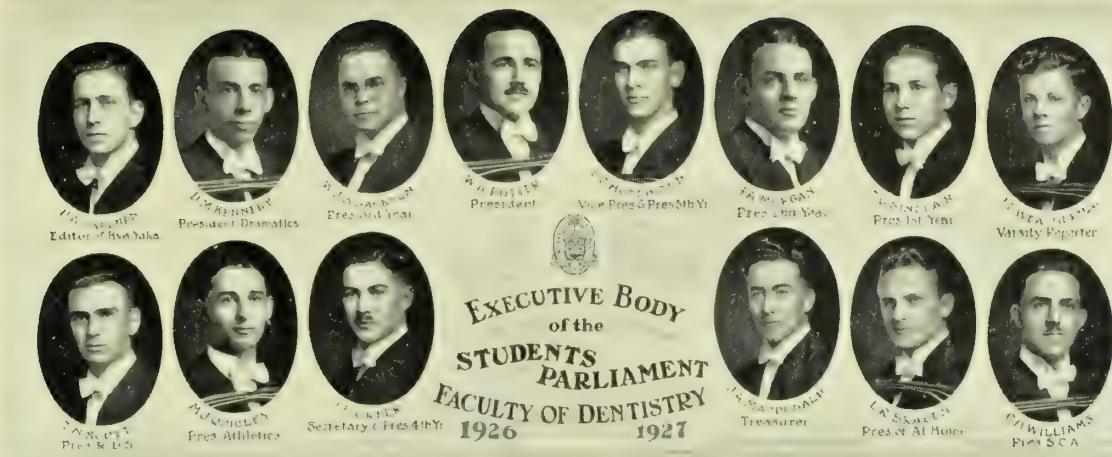

IHE Industrial Chemical Club is one of the federated and affiliated clubs which make up the Engineering Society, and, as such, represents the students registered in the course of Chemical Engineering at the Faculty of Applied Science and Engineering. The Club was started in the School year 1908-1909 for the purpose of organizing the students of Applied Chemistry and Chemical Engineering (now only the latter, since the former course has been discontinued) in order to promote sociability, to possess a means of getting in touch with the staff of the Faculty in a united way, and to facilitate the visiting of manufacturing plants throughout the city and elsewhere.

Meetings take the form of Smokers and Dinners, where papers are read by graduates, men prominent in various industries, or the students themselves. In this manner the students become better acquainted with each other and their professors. They learn much from the experience of graduates who address them, gain a greater conception of the scope of the field which they are entering, and some idea of the opportunities which it affords. Also they have the opportunity of developing self confidence by giving papers themselves before the Club.

The inspection trips to various industries, as mentioned above, are not confined to this city, and often visits are made to industries many miles away. These serve to give a practical conception of the application of chemistry to industry, and to obtain first hand knowledge of the machinery used, methods of handling production, which is otherwise difficult to obtain. Such trips also contain a social side. To really know people, travelling with them is perhaps the next best thing to living with them. All who have been on an extended trip with the Club agree that for a real good time such a trip is hard to beat.

Another year has passed since the last time this page was written, and another class graduates. May those of 2T7 enjoy their full share of success.

"Men may come and men may go,
But the Club goes on forever."

Students' Parliament of the Faculty of Dentistry

THIS organization holds as its primary object the affording of a recognized means of communication between the staff of the Faculty of Dentistry, the Governing Bodies in the University of Toronto, and the students of the Faculty. The Parliament acts as a unifying force in college life, and, as the representative body of the students, acts under powers vested in it by a Constitution approved by the Faculty.

The Cabinet, the executive body of the Parliament, has been for the past year under the leadership of W. A. Potter, and has guided the affairs and activities of the student body to excellent advantage.

Class History of 2T7 Dentistry

HN the Autumn of '22, fifty-six timid freshmen arrived at the R.C.D.S. The customary expenditures followed, much to our sorrow. Officially welcomed at Hampton Park by the glorified Sophs, who proceeded to wipe up the muddy field for the last real initiation. For a short period we were overshadowed by the great "whizz-bang" class, but after gaining a Freshman foothold we came into full bloom, winning Inter-year basketball, which we retained throughout our five years.

Our destinies were ably guided through the Freshman year by W. A. Potter.

In our second year, under the capable leadership of A. R. Montgomery, we proceeded to win the Dramatic shield and Debating shield.

In track meets '27 made the larger years stop and take notice, by winning Inter-year competition in our third year. J. M. McCaffery held the reins in a masterly manner.

Once again the Dramatic shield and "Noctem Cuckoo" Cup were won, through the combined efforts of a small but ambitious class, President of our Junior year being E. M. Fisher.

Not content with knowledge seeking, '27 have made themselves athletically known throughout the University, having five "T" holders and eighteen "D" holders. Brain grinds and teeth grinds went hand in hand during our final year, stirring up strange emotions, which will prove the ability of our members.

We are justly proud of the standard maintained by the class academically, athletically and socially. President of Fifth year G. O. Hutchison.

To the members of the Faculty we desire to acknowledge a great debt of gratitude for their untiring efforts in our behalf.

Wycliffe College Literary Society

THE history of the Wycliffe Literary Society runs parallel with that of the College itself. The first meeting of which there is any record was held in 1877 in the School House of St. James' Cathedral. The names of the late Archbishop Du Vernet, Archdeacon Dobbs, Canon Marsh, and Canon Daniel, stand out prominently in the records of this period of the Society's life. When the College was transferred six years later to the present site of the Mining Building, Bishop Hamilton of Japan and Archdeacon Armitage took an active part in the Society's meetings. In 1891 the Lit held its initial function in the newly opened College on Hoskin Avenue, and here its meetings are still held in the historic Common Room. It fires the imagination to think that in this very spot, Bishop Stringer (Yukon), Canon Cody, Canon Gould (Palestine), and Archdeacon Renison have debated, and here the late Rev. Septimus Jones acted as critic for several years.

The Lit is the official representative organization of the undergraduates and transacts their business, and consequently governs most of the non-athletic activities of the student body. Its aims are those of all Literary Societies, and the annual programme, though varying somewhat from year to year, provides for literary and musical evenings, inter-year and Cambridge debates, open meetings with popular speakers and an oratorical contest. The social life of the Society finds its outlet in autumn hikes and bus rides, winter sleighing parties and skating, while occasionally the general committee sponsors an afternoon tea.

The President of the Lit. is Ex-officio senior student and chairman of the Students' Supervisory Committee. This year the presidential chair has been very admirably filled by the Rev. L. M. Pepperdene, whose previous executive experience and genial personality have stimulated interest in all the Society's affairs and made this one of the best years of the Society's existence.

Foresters' Club

HE Faculty of Forestry celebrates its twentieth, as the University celebrates its one hundredth anniversary. The Faculty was established in 1907 and work began, with five students in attendance, in rooms in the west wing of University College. A registration of twenty-seven the following year demanded more accommodation, so the Faculty was moved to 11 Queen's Park, where it remained until 1925.

The increased registration and accommodation made it possible to organize the Foresters' Club, which held its first meeting in January, 1909. The aims of the Club were twofold, to promote good-feeling and more especially to get instruction by representative men on particular subjects not to be found on the regular curriculum. Professor J. H. White and Professor T. W. Dwight, both of whom are on the present teaching staff of the school, held the positions of president and vice-president respectively on the first executive. The ambition and vigor of the founders is shown by their first programme, which included addresses by leaders in Forestry throughout the Dominion. This precedent has been followed and the Club still endeavors to keep the members abreast of the times by inviting prominent men to address the meetings.

Among the many other interests and activities of the Club, apart from the fortnightly meetings, may be mentioned: The Annual Dance, the Annual Banquet, Stunt Night—an institution that originated with the foresters—and, in order to keep in touch with graduates, the News Letter, to which grads are asked to contribute.

Forestry sports are governed by the Athletic Association. The Executive for 1926-27:

Knox College Undergraduates' Association

THE Knox College Undergraduates' Association is the body governing all student activities in Knox College. The origin of this association may be traced to various earlier societies. The Knox College Metaphysical and Literary Society was formed by the union of "The Metaphysical and Ethical" and "The Literary and Scientific" societies. The "Metaphysical and Ethical Society" was established at a meeting in Victoria Terrace, Dec. 24th, 1856. The "Literary and Scientific Society" was established Dec. 24th, 1864, at a meeting held in Knox College. The two societies were united January 30th, 1867, under the name of "The Metaphysical and Literary Society." On November 3rd, 1891, the name was changed to "The Literary and Theological Society" and on October 28th, 1902, it was changed to "Theological and Literary Society." On October 8th, 1919, the "Knox College Students' Missionary Society" was organized. The Knox College Undergraduates' Association was formed by the union of the "Theological and Literary" and the "Knox College Students' Missionary" Societies at a meeting held in Knox College, October 7, 1920. On October 14th, 1925, the system of parliamentary procedure in the conduct of the society's business was adopted and it has proved orderly and efficient.

University College Classical Association

“τοῦ καλοῦ κατεχετε”

THE University College Classical Association, which came into existence in the dim, dark ages of the past, and which therefore possesses a certain quality of age and maturity which, we are led to believe, a society devoted to appreciation of the Classics should possess, still stands to the fore as one of the most popular, and at the same time one of the most profitable organizations in the University. Let the doubter but consider the diversity of academic courses pursued by the members to be convinced; let him but consider the natural mental characteristics of the members. For not only those whose eyes have been dimmed by eager pursuit of some elusive point of philosophy through pages lined with Greek mystery, not only those who burn the midnight oil in the sheer joy of didactic poetry attend the Association, but also those who have been known to drowse and dream during the excitement of a siege of Pyle in the seminar, those who have laboriously struggled through the slough of a Latin sentence to find that after all the sting really is in the tail. The erstwhile stern professors are seen in their true light, and in association with their more youthful admirers doubtless find as great a mead of enjoyment as do the students themselves. Many a gallant battle of words has been waged over a student-written treatise as some of the learned pedagogues have prepared to combat the thesis, some to defend it; but afterwards, perhaps due to the softening influence of the tea-cups, the conversation strays far away from combated essay and classical topics. The Association has been fortunate and honoured in having the wives of our esteemed professors in turn act as hostesses for the regular meetings. Thus stiff formality disappears, and under the smile of a gracious hostess the Association changes from an organization with inviolable rules and by-laws into more or less of a social gathering, where dry-as-dust topics are forgotten, and the Classics seen in their true and interesting light

The French Society of University College

BECAUSE of the forming of the German Club and the Italian-Spanish Club, and also because of the fact that its interests were becoming more and more centered in the French language and literature, it was decided at the end of last year to change the name of the Modern Language Club to the French Society at which French was to be spoken exclusively. The play chosen for the annual presentation was "La Poudre aux Yeux" by Labiche and Martin. It was played before an audience which taxed to capacity the small but only available auditorium of the Women's Union. The leading roles were very ably taken by Misses Abbott, Balthazard and Boake, and Messrs. Crozier, Benson, Shaw and Durand.

We are indebted to several very interesting speakers for the excellence and helpfulness of the programs. Among those who have addressed the Society are Professors de Champ, Will and Green and Mr. H. Steinhauer. A special feature of the meeting this year has been the reading of a short comedy or farce by the members of each of the different years. This has proved highly diverting and entertaining and provides an opportunity for those who are beginners in the language of hearing it spoken, while at the same time enjoying themselves.

Too much cannot be said of the splendid work of the President, Mr. J. K. Crozier, who has striven ceaselessly to promote the interests and welfare of the Society.

University of Toronto German Club

INCE its formation three years ago, the University of Toronto German Club has grown steadily. For the past two years its membership has been representative of all the Arts Colleges, and this year it is larger than ever before. Six monthly meetings of the Club are held during the year in Wymilwood, and at these meetings, it is the custom for the programme to be in charge of the members of one year. There have been three meetings this year, at the first two of which the programmes were in charge of fourth and third years, and papers on German poets were given in German. At the December meeting a play, "Die Meisterschaft" was presented by Mr. Surerus of Victoria College.

At the first meeting of the Easter term the programme is to be given by the staff in German and it is hoped that all the professors will take part.

Besides these monthly meetings, where of necessity only a few can participate in the programme, the Club is divided into two groups—Music and Literary, which meet weekly. The Music group is extremely fortunate in having as its director Professor Holt, Honorary President of the Club, and the Literary group is doing some very interesting work under the leadership of Professor Fairley.

Among its members this year, the Club has Miss Heller from Austria, who has taken a keen interest in its activities, and has done much to make the study of German seem more natural.

For many of us, who spend long hours gathering a knowledge of German from books, the friendly atmosphere of the Club, where the language is spoken, read and sung, is a true revelation, and we return to the books, more determined than ever to master the language which has been re-created for us by the German Club.

Italian-Spanish Club 1926-27

THE spirit of mystery and romance is not dead, for there is a land of romance for those who are weary of this prosaic life, a world filled with the spirit of Spain and of Italy which opens its doors once a month. Here there is no caste. Once inside professors and undergraduates mingle in an atmosphere of geniality and friendliness, made more vivid by the presence of Spanish and Italian fellow-citizens. Not only graduates and undergraduates of the College are welcome but all who are interested in the language and customs of Spain and of Italy. For students of either language there is always something of interest. Sometimes it is Signor Carboni and his pupils who delight them with their music, sometimes a member of the consulate or one of their professors who tells of the history, art, manners or student life of his country. Occasionally another feature of the programme is the participation in national games, but perhaps the most enjoyable part of all is the social hour when laughter and talk, even though the latter is often broken Spanish or Italian, mingle with the aroma from the coffee cups. Absolute informality is the key-note of these gatherings and even the most timid soon find themselves quite at home.

Those who are interested in dramatics also find scope here for their talents, as every year the Club presents a play in Spanish. This year there were two short ones—Los Pantelones by Mariano Barranco and La Muela del Juicio by Miguel Ramos Carrión.

Varied are the interests and benefits and only by being a member can one fully appreciate the Italian-Spanish Club.

The Victoria College Classical Association

HE old saying that good wine needs no bush is out of date. Only evil is self-propagating. Even virtue stands in need of pulpits, preachers, and prophets. The best things of life need advertising to make them known to the people. The Classics are in this class. They do not seem to be so useful as they really are and for this reason their value must be told continually. Classical Associations exist for this purpose. Their members grow in wisdom. They are not deceived by appearances. They know that Latin and Greek are dry studies but can easily be moistened with a little humor, which is Latin for "humidity." They admit that Latin and Greek are dead languages, but what does this matter so long as the students are alive? It is better to be a live student of a dead language than a dead student of a living one. Again, it is said that Latin and Greek are useless, but this is only true if a whetstone is useless, which sharpens the knife though it cuts nothing itself. It is the classics that give edge to the intellect and keenness to the judgment. Therefore Vivant linguae mortuae et floreat Sodalitas Classica Victoriana.

Mathematical and Physical Society

THE Mathematical and Physical Society was formed in the early period of the University of Toronto's history. The fact that it has been decidedly successful in its function to further interest in Mathematics and Physics and to provide its members with certain social advantages, is vouched for by its steadily increasing membership and popularity with graduates and undergraduates of the interested courses.

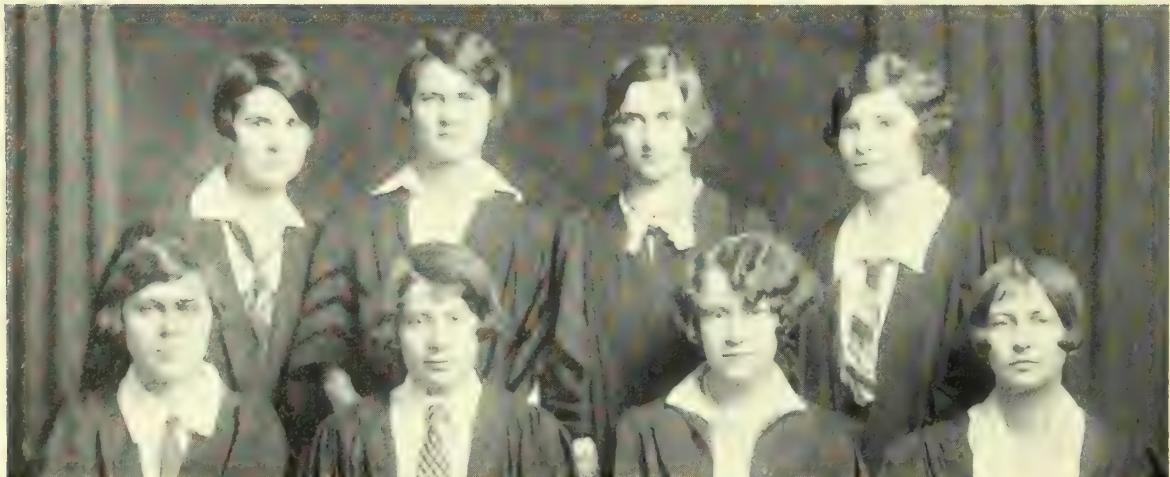

The regular meetings are held fortnightly on Thursday afternoons in the Physics Building. Following refreshments, it is the custom to have some outstanding man address the members on a subject of general interest to them. This year the executive has been especially fortunate in securing for this purpose several leading members of the Faculty as well as a number of graduates and undergraduates who gave interesting talks.

The very keen interest taken in the social activities of the society by the members has had the inevitable effect of making every event from the "Hike" to the open meeting an unqualified success. In the first week of the Michaelmas term the members of the three upper years turned out in full force at the annual Hike to welcome the incoming first year. On account of the increased membership the established custom of holding the At-Home in the Physics Building had to be broken this year. Wymilwood was chosen as the scene of the happy affair. Those present were unanimous in voting it the premier autumn event of its kind in University circles. The skating party held in the Easter term was over all too soon, while the annual meeting at the end term served as a final reunion of members and Faculty before the May "endurance and elimination contests."

The Trinity College Science Club

THE Trinity College Science Club was founded by Mr. David A. Keyes, Mr. F. M. Turner and Prof. Simpson, who realised the deep interest taken in Science by the students of the College, an interest which is reflected in the fact that many of these students have since made a name for themselves in the scientific as well as the industrial world by their inventions and improvements. Among these may be mentioned the names of L. V. Redman, discoverer of Redmanol; G. H. Tomlinson, who developed a process for the manufacture of carbide, and Mr. Bertram Collip, Ph. D., D. Sc., present head of the Department of Biochemistry in the University of Alberta, who was associated with Professor MacLeod, Dr. Banting and Mr. Best in the development of Insulin.

The Great War interrupted the continuity of the Club during the period 1916-19, but in the latter year it was re-established at the instance of Mr. Percival Warren and since that time has been very fortunate in the interest taken by Canon Rollo. The constitution was reformed and printed in 1926.

The Science Club has an Honorary President, who is Canon Rollo, and three Honorary Vice-Presidents who are Professor H. C. Simpson, M.A., Professor M. A. Mackenzie, M.A., and Mr. L. M. Ives. The retiring President, Dr. Collip, was also made Honorary Life-President.

The Club meets once a fortnight in College during the College term, usually in a student's room. The members in this way take their turn in extending hospitality to the Club. Papers from all branches of Science are read and the ensuing discussions always prove very interesting. Refreshments are served during the discussion to complete the evening's programme. The interest is well sustained and good-fellowship characterizes all proceedings.

Royal Dental Society

SOCIETY representative of the student body, for the purpose of furthering an active interest in University and public affairs. Here every student may find scope for his oratorical ambitions. Each month a meeting of students is held in the College, where the problems of the students, College and nation are discussed. Debating was introduced some years ago, and is now firmly established. The Willmott Shield is open to inter-year competition. This stimulates interest in the inter-year debates, besides training debaters for intercollegiate debates and preparing young men to take their rightful place in their community on graduation. The Shield is now the property of the graduating year.

Besides the debate at each meeting, it is customary to have another speaker, usually a member of the Staff. It is with pleasure we recall such interesting speakers as Dean Seccombe, Dr. Webster, Dr. Amy, Dr. Cowling and Dr. Clarkson.

Each student is privileged to invite his friends to these meetings, where they hear not only debaters and prominent speakers, but a good musical program as well, and after that enjoy an hour's dancing to the strains of the College orchestra.

Newman Club

NEWMAN CLUB, a club for Catholic students in attendance at the University and the other institutions of higher learning in the city, was founded by His Grace Archbishop McNeill, D.D., in 1913. The idea back of the Newman Club, to provide for the spiritual, intellectual and social needs of Catholic students, both men and women, had proved its value in several American Universities some years before its inception in Toronto.

Beginning with a small membership and a modest club house, the idea immediately showed its value by filling a great need. No better demonstration of its worth could be found than the rapid expansion which necessitated a move into a larger house. Here in Toronto we have a building of which we are justifiably proud. It is probably unexcelled by any institution of its kind. The Gothic chapel now approaching completion will be one of the architectural beauties of the locality. The chapel represents the culmination of years of work by successive executives, the unflagging enthusiasm of the Paulist chaplains, and the generous interest of many prominent Catholics in the city.

The spiritual life of the student is well directed by the resident chaplain through the frequent religious exercises which are conducted during the academic year. The intellectual interests are fostered by debates, public speaking contests, dramatics, and addresses from members of the University staff. The social life of the Club is one of its most pleasing features. Dances, teas, smokers and other soirées take place with agreeable frequency, giving the members an opportunity for congenial associations which they would not otherwise obtain.

This year the Club has enjoyed one of its best years. An energetic and capable executive has worked with an enthusiastic membership to ensure the success of every undertaking.

University of Toronto Menorah Society

THE University of Toronto Menorah Society was founded in the year 1916, practically absorbing the Toronto Hebrew Students' Association, which had been organized some years previous. It is the local chapter of the Intercollegiate Menorah Association, founded, as the Menorah crest indicates, "For the study and advancement of Jewish culture and ideals," and except for a few social functions all efforts of Menorah are bent in this direction.

The Menorah Society furthers its purpose through study circles which meet under capable leaders, through lectures on relevant subjects by authoritative lecturers, through debates, both local and intercollegiate, and through "The Menorah Mentor," a magazine published locally by the members of the society. It endeavours to promote open-minded discussion of Jewish life and thought, past, present and future, that its members may arrive at intelligent opinions and convictions, and may be prepared for intelligent participation in the solution of Jewish problems, although no particular point of view, whatever, is imposed. It maintains a splendid section at the University Library and makes available to its members the Menorah Journal, a cultural magazine of the highest type. And through its efforts, the Menorah Prize, the gift of B. M. Greene, Esq., is offered for competition to all undergraduates.

The literary programme, this session, following the form adopted last year, has consisted of alternating "open" and "closed" meetings, at fortnightly intervals. The open meetings, open to all undergraduates, graduates, and the public in general, have been occupied with lecturers of sufficient merit. The closed meetings, available to undergraduates and graduates only, have taken the form of debates, Hart House style, upon subjects of Jewish interest. In addition the members are staging a play, which will be accompanied by a lecture on Jewish drama. Then there is the annual debate with McGill, the victors being awarded the "Bennett Cup," won last year by Toronto. Of course, there is sufficient social activity, the smoker, teas, soirée and dance, being annual events.

U. C. Women's Literary Society

HE modern novel evidently has a strong appeal to the Women Undergraduates of University College, for the meetings of 1926-27 have been most enthusiastically attended. In addition to the fact that many new members have been enrolled, it has been edifying to those who were instrumental in drawing up the program, to see interested representatives from other Literary Societies attending the Tuesday evening meetings.

The program for the year comprised papers on the works of eminent modern novelists, essayists and playwrights. The Literary Society has not included debating among its activities since the Debating Society was formed last year, and for the first time, this year did not produce a play. It was felt that the Players Guild provided adequately for the dramatic side of College activities.

During the fall term papers were read by members of the Society on Galsworthy, D. H. Laurence, Edna Ferber and James Branch Cabell. Theodore Dreiser also came in for a fair share of discussion. On the last evening of the term Professor Brett delighted the members with a comprehensive paper on Samuel Butler's "Way of All Flesh."

A slightly broader field of modern literature was explored during the spring term. The works of Joseph Conrad, Rolland, Eugene O'Neill, St. John Ervine, Maurice Hewlett and John Erskine, proved very fascinating. At the final meeting, Mrs. Kirkwood in her resumé of the year's activity, deftly brought out the points in the program worth refreshing and remembering.

The meetings this year were characterized by unusually active interest among the members, as evidenced by the lively discussions which followed every paper. There was no one who did not greet the end of the term with regret.

Victoria Women's Literary Society

THE Women's Literary Society of Victoria College started a new policy in 1926 which combined the discussion groups of last year with the open meetings of former years. The meetings were under the management of the several vice-presidents, and were devoted to literature, art, music, current events and debating. The aim was to secure competent speakers and to arrange attractive programmes so that each meeting might be well worth attending.

The discussion groups were under the direction of most capable leaders, and were for the purpose of gaining a more intimate knowledge of contemporary literature, current events, art, music appreciation, folk-lore, house-furnishing, social problems and debating. This catalogue shows an astonishing variety of subjects for a Literary Society, but it was designed to be sufficiently varied in scope so that it might comprise the interests of every woman in the College.

The Literary Society of Loretto College

ACH term finds the Literary Society enthusiastically adding to the vitality of its traditions and to its reputation for cultural and attractive entertainments. This year indeed, we feel that it has achieved its aims to the fullest extent, the records now attained forming worthy precedents. Throughout the year the Society's members devoted themselves more particularly to the study of modern English poetry.

Mr. Henry Lappin, of D'Youville University, introduced us into the realm of modern poetry in general, while Miss Barry gave most enlightening information regarding the extensive interest in that art throughout the country. The merits of Canadian poetry in particular were then reviewed, when Mr. Wilson McDonald addressed the society and read from his own delightful works.

College oratory continues to develop through the debates organized by the "Lit," while dramatics, receiving their full share of attention, show great promise for the future.

St. Theresa's Literary Society

N every College there are many students who are more gifted along literary lines than are many of the others, and so a Literary Society helps all to attain a wider knowledge of our English authors. The Catholic co-eds of University College, Loretto Abbey and St. Joseph's formed in 1910 the Society which held its meetings at St. Joseph's College. Papers were read on Newman, Thompson, Tennyson, Kilmer—the time devoted to them depending on their importance. Newman and the Oxford Movement were discussed at length.

When Newman Club was organized the Literary Society at Newman Club supplanted that of St. Joseph's and so the meetings were held at the Club instead of at the College. However, three years ago it was decided to renew the Society at St. Joseph's. The Society, with Miss Blanche Larochelle, as President, was placed under the auspices of St. Theresa and called St. Theresa's Literary Society. The meetings of this first year were devoted to the study of the Modern Poets. At each meeting two of the girls read papers on a modern poet.

The next year the Society made a study of the Modern Novel and although it is more difficult to quote from a prose author, these meetings were interesting and enlightening.

This year we are making a study of the Modern Drama and find the subject highly engrossing, though extensive. Meetings are held every three weeks, music is furnished and refreshments served. At the first meeting, the Dean of the College outlined the early stages of the drama, thus preparing us for a further study. So far we have discussed Milne, Tchekov, Synge, and have had a very interesting paper on The Little Theatre Movement.

With the interest which has been shown in our Society this year we feel sure it will be a great benefit to each student of the College.

International Students' Association

THE purpose of the I.S.A. is as follows: (i). To promote friendly relationship among students of other countries in the University of Toronto and to create mutual understanding between Canadian Students and those of other countries. (ii.) To study Canada from the standpoint of her political, social, economic and industrial institutions and to compare these institutions with those of other countries represented in the Association.

This Association was organized during the Session 1918-19, under the name "Foreign Students' Association," to promote a close bond of friendship among students from other countries at the U. of T.

In 1921 it was reorganized, taking on wider significance as the International Students' Association.

Any student attending the U. of T. who is interested in international affairs and good-will is eligible for membership.

The members of the Association are enrolled in three divisions, viz:

- (a) Active members.—Students in attendance at the U. of T.
- (b) Honorary members.—Persons interested in the purpose of the Association but not necessarily in attendance at the U. of T.
- (c) Corresponding members.—Those active members who are no longer in attendance at the U. of T.

The Student Christian Association University of Toronto

THE Student Christian Association of the University of Toronto is a fellowship of students of all colleges and faculties in the University who are drawn together by a common desire not only to maintain and develop their religious life during their undergraduate career, but also to investigate and discuss the intellectual and practical problems of Christianity. It is, accordingly, open to any undergraduate who is at all interested in religion or in questions related to it. No confession of faith is asked for; not the least part of the value of the Association being the opportunity it affords to individuals of searching for Truth in company with others engaged in the same task. To this end, one of the main activities of the Association is the arrangement of Study and Discussion Groups in all faculties under competent leadership, and covering a wide range of subjects.

Another important element in the programme of the S.C.A. is the series of addresses by prominent speakers that is arranged for each term, and the occasional noon-hour talks by outstanding visitors to the city. In addition, services are held in Hart House Chapel, and from time to time in one or other of the College chapels, for both men and women.

As a unit in the Student Christian Movement of Canada, the S.C.A. is now about six years old. Formerly, the Y.M.C.A. was the only organization of a religious character in the University; but when, soon after the Great War, the Student Christian Movement was founded in Canada, the S.C.A. took the place of the Y.M.C.A. as a unit in the national body. The Rev. F. J. Moore, B.A., B.D., was appointed Director in April, 1926.

The Federal Cabinet is comprised of the President of the local units of each faculty and college together with an executive committee.

Victoria College Student Christian Movement

ONE strong group which came out of the National Student Christian Association formed at Guelph in 1920 was the Victoria College group, a circle of men and women influenced by the ferment of post-war dissatisfaction with existing conditions. Under the close co-operation of men and women, the movement, characterized by intense religious activity, grew larger and more powerful, until finally all the energies of the college were centred in the S.C.M. Larger budgets were raised without difficulty, other college organizations giving generous donations. The movement derived strong inspiration from the staff, especially from Professor Hooke. But in 1924 a change was noticeable. The spirit of criticism and restlessness slowly disappeared, as the proportion of returned men became less. This year, 1927, in the college there is practically none of the unrest that pervaded it in the days immediately after the war, yet the movement rather vainly depends on the spiritual dynamic that was effective six years ago. After a period of two years without a full-time secretary, Rev. F. J. Moore was appointed as the new director for Toronto, an appointment whose influence is noticeable in Victoria College. The movement this year has confined its activity mainly to study-groups.

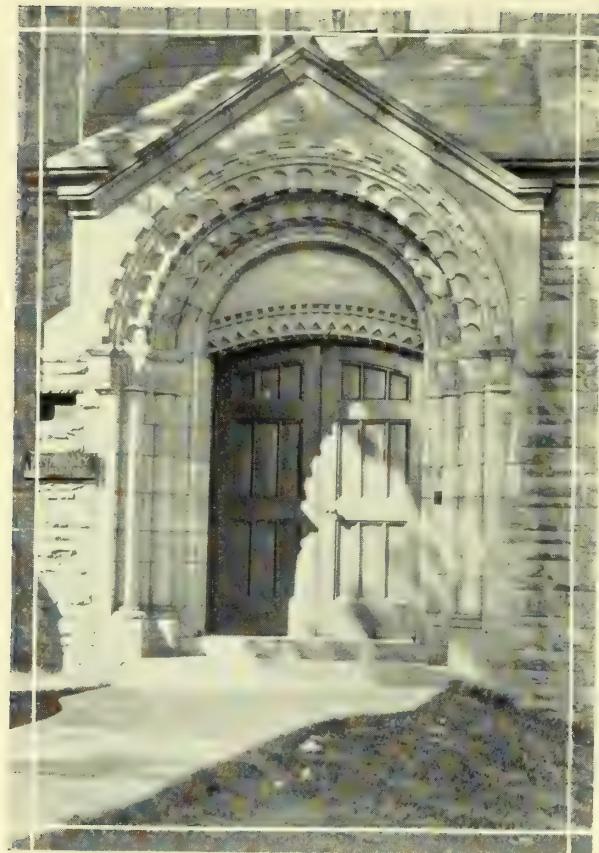

The movement among the women is carried on largely through groups, with the result that 250 are in study-circles with broadly varying subjects. They have social work in addition, for those that are interested in that form of work. The fact that a member of the faculty in residence, Miss Addison, is a permanent influence in favour of the S.C.M. is of great importance. The movement has lost none of the vigour and vitality which characterized it last year.

Wycliffe College Students' Mission Society

AS the years pass, and Executives come and go, the work of the Mission Society continues with unfailing vigour and unflagging enthusiasm. The incentive to work is greater than ever, and in this the Jubilee year of Wycliffe College, and the Centenary of the University of Toronto, the Society seeks more earnestly to advance the cause of Christ, and maintain the Missionary principles for which Wycliffe stands. Christianity is a missionary religion and the Wycliffe College Students' Mission Society strives first and foremost to show that it, at least, will not be content until "the Kingdoms of this world have become the Kingdoms of Our Lord and of His Christ, and He shall reign for ever and ever." This year's Executive follows upon a great past —may it look forward to a yet greater future.

“The Varsity”

To mould opinions of the mouldy earth
Remains our task in misery and in mirth.

HE first issue of “The Varsity” appeared on October 7th, 1880. The publication was in those early days “a weekly review of Education, University Politics, and Events.” It was controlled by a joint stock company of undergraduates. This state of affairs came to an end in 1890, when the magazine was taken over by the Literary and Scientific Society owing to the fact that all the stock had fallen into the hands of graduates—a result of lack of interest among the students. In 1897 a rival journal, “College Topics,” was started, and continued publication for some years, until both magazines were taken over by the Undergraduates’ Union in 1905, and amalgamated under the older name. In 1907 headlines and something approaching newspaper “make-up” were adopted, and in 1908 “The Varsity” for the first time termed itself a newspaper. In 1911 a further step was made in the same direction, for in that year the paper became tri-weekly. In 1915 it was decided by the Students’ Administrative Council that subscription to “The Varsity” should be made compulsory for all undergraduates on the basis of an annual rate of one dollar, to be collected by the Bursar as part of the Council fee. Eventually, in the fall of 1923, “The Varsity” became a daily, published five times a week. Under these conditions it appears at the present time.

As the Undergraduate Newspaper, the paper must of necessity devote its energies first and foremost to doing its utmost to serve as a faithful and accurate chronicle of events. For a staff that is entirely composed of amateurs the adequate fulfilment of this mission is not easy, and, naturally enough, “The Varsity,” like all undergraduate papers, must sustain considerable criticism. The most serious pitfalls, perhaps, are provided by the mechanical side of the production of the paper; for two over-worked non-professional officials, such as are each night entrusted with the destinies of the next day's "Varsity," find it difficult to detect all the typographical errors and the evidence of the other evils that the newspaper business is heir to. This year a determined effort has been made to raise the standard of mechanical perfection, and perhaps something has been achieved in this respect; but the readers of the paper may not admit this!

While "The Varsity's" first aim is that of being a good newspaper, it strives to cater, by the limited means in its power, to the more strictly literary side of student life. The "Student Verse" column, the Art, Music, and Drama column, and such special ventures as the Christmas Number, are among its efforts in this direction. An innovation this year, moreover, is the "Literary Issue"—a regular edition of the paper given over to student contributions, as a substitute for a Literary Supplement, which was declared a financial impossibility. The appointment of an Art Editor is another new departure.

The session of 1926-1927 has been remarkable for unusual activity in the paper's Correspondence Column, in which spirited discussions have taken place on matters ranging from the value of organized rooting at Rugby games to the decline of chivalry in modern times. Several correspondents took violent issue with certain aspects of our editorial policy. The causes of the large deficit in the finances of the Students' Council; the Student's Handbook and its aphoristic proclivities; Initiations; the Ontario Temperance Act in relation to the student; the right of out-of-town students to vote in the Provincial Election; respect for War Memorials; Golf as a University sport; the responsibilities of the Rooters' Club; the desirability of earlier closing for the Christmas vacation; methods of celebrating the Centenary of the University—these are a few of the matters that have been aired in "Varsity" editorials or correspondence this year. In its editorial policy "The Varsity" has attempted to escape at least the lower and less interesting forms of lunacy.

The publication of a special Sporting Extra on the occasion of the game against McGill on October 30th was for "The Varsity" an essay in a new field. The issue was printed on full-sized newsprint and was sold to the public at five cents a copy. Unfortunately rainy weather on the day of the game reduced sales considerably.

Torontonensis

DEAD men rise up never," said Swinburne; yet in the years to come, when you open your copy of Torontonensis and peruse the pages devoted to your fellow graduates, or to the athletes who fought on field, floor and ice, the memory of days long dead will come back to you so forcibly that you will bless the men who first conceived the idea of Torontonensis; even though you spent part of your time as an undergraduate maligning their followers, the editors of this book.

In the year 1898 a number of men in University College decided that there ought to be some record of the class of '98 which could be carried away by the members, and used to recall the days spent in preparation for life. They decided that a book containing a short sketch of the history of each man, a number of pictures of the familiar and the lesser known spots around the College, and resumés of the activities of the various clubs would fill the need as nothing else could. They finally produced Torontonensis '98, the first of a series of which the present volume is number 29. That there are only twenty-nine volumes in thirty years is due to the inability of the class of '99 to produce a book.

From the first, Torontonensis was devoted mainly to the graduating year. Therefore a large part of the book was given up to biographies. What at first was a splendid idea soon degenerated into the curse of the publication. Volume after volume appeared with no new material, outside of the graduation pictures, and with no attempt being made to make the book of interest, outside of that created by these oft-repeated pictures, and the biographies. For 26 years the book appeared. Gradually a feeling arose amongst the undergraduates that all was not as it should be. In the fall of 1924 this feeling took definite form through the columns of "The Varsity." Letters appeared criticising the publication, and asking if something could not be done to improve it. If not, it was felt that it should be quietly put out of existence. The Editor at that time, W. A. Higgins, with the help of the Editor of the Varsity, C. G. Ashworth, and several others, formulated ideas for the rejuvenating of Torontonensis. Meeting with much opposition and scepticism, the Editor made drastic changes in the appearance of the book. The dimensions were changed to permit a better lay-out of the pages, and the inclusion of real Art Work. The cover design was scrapped, and a new one obtained. The traditional idea of binding the book in black was thrown overboard, and, after much thought and careful selection, a blue and gold color scheme decided upon. In order to enliven the interior of the book, the first sixteen pages were printed in two colors, and a great deal of Art Work inserted. Finally the volume appeared. Student opinion pronounced it a decided success. But in the minds of the editors and those who realized more fully what was being striven for, the book was considered as merely the first step.

In 1926 the book was taken over by a third year man, who had worked with Higgins. He realized that its present layout was not well suited to the inclusion of Art Work under any definite plan, and undertook to group the various clubs under appropriate classes. This proved to be no small task, as it left him very little except his imagination to draw from. Now, for the first time the editor had a Board of Editors to look after smaller details. The previous year an attempt had been made to sell the book to the undergraduates, and this was continued. A sales campaign was put on, but it was a dismal failure. The extension of the two-color scheme all through the book added considerably to its appearance, and many faults, otherwise obvious, were thus toned down.

In the summer of 1926 the Students' Councils found themselves forced to curtail their expenditures to a great degree. A budget was drawn up for the coming year, and a loan arranged from the Board of Governors. When the editor returned he found he had to turn out a book for a little better than half the money used the previous year. He resigned at once, for having failed one year over the book, he did not see that he should risk another trying to turn out a good book with little money. A new editor was appointed, and also an Advisory Editor. Working jointly, they have found it much easier to accomplish the same amount of work.

In looking for ways to save money, only one change seemed possible, which would not completely ruin the appearance of the volume. This was to revise the biography section. In doing so, large amounts were cut from the printing and engraving bills, permitting the editors to save the Art Work, and other pleasing features, with the exception of the Campus Life section, which was ordered out by the powers that be.

So, in the last three years the demands of the Students for a better book have been answered so thoroughly that in name alone does Torontonensis 1927, the Centenary Year Volume, resemble those books which incurred the wrath of the class of 1925.

Acta Victoriana

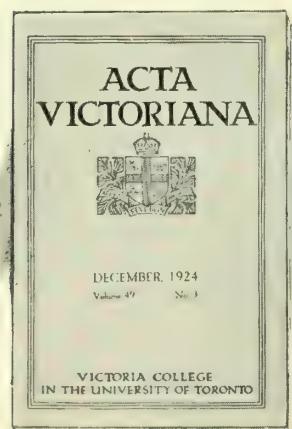

ACTA VICTORIANA is the fifty-one year old undergraduate magazine of Victoria College. During the first twenty years of its existence Acta remained, as its founders had intended, a strictly college paper composed mainly of departments with such headings as Alumni Notes, Literary, Scientific, Personals and Locals; in that way it maintained a bond among all who were attending, or who had attended, the College.

In 1892 the College, and consequently the magazine, changed domicile. The magazine increased in size from a ten page issue to a fifty-six page one. The heads of the articles began occasionally to be such as: "Gold Mining in Eastern Ontario," relieved by fiction, as, for instance, a play: "The Beginning of the Scandal." And, it is noted for what it may be worth, sport began to assume a more important place in the pages of Acta.

For a decade the College Notes departments of the magazine shrank visibly; the Literary department increased. By 1899 one finds an issue which contains an article by Sir John Bourinot: "The United Empire Loyalists of Canada.;" a poem, "A Song of Winter," by Duncan Campbell Scott; a short story, "According to Orders," by W. A. Fraser; poem, "The Pageantry of Death," by W. Wilfred Campbell; another poem, "The Old Homestead," by Jean Blewett; and an article, "Tolstoi as a Religious Teacher," by Professor James Mavor.

So for a few years Acta was not only readable, but in literary excellence it was second to none. About 1909 however, for divers reasons, the magazine went into a decline. After the war (alas that histories cannot escape this phrase) Acta began slowly to revive. To-day it is attempting to achieve something new in its history by having as its writers almost exclusively members of Victoria College and at the same time being entertaining and informative.

The St. Michael's College Year Book

FROM its inauguration in 1910, the history of the Year Book has been marked by a steady progress and development, and the staff of '27 have endeavoured to make the Jubilee Number worthy of the part it takes in the commemoration of the Seventy-fifth Anniversary of the founding of the College. Embodying as it does, a complete chronicle of the activities of the students in the realms of Academic, Athletic and Social pursuits, the Year Book has gradually risen to a place amongst the foremost of the Campus Publications. The production of the book is entirely under student management, though literary contributions from outstanding men of letters outside the College form part of the contents.

As in past years the Year Book has to a certain extent reflected the ideas and originality of the editors, so the present staff have endeavoured to present to their readers a slight variation from the Books of previous years, and to this end the sections have taken an entirely new arrangement, certain features which past experience has shown to be lacking in general interest have been deleted and new ones added. In this way the editors have striven to produce a publication which would prove of supreme interest both to members of St. Michael's College and to the members of the affiliated Colleges of St. Joseph's and Loretto.

Not the least interesting feature of the book is the profusion of pictorial and photographic plates which form a fairly complete record of the outstanding events and organizations of the year. The Year Book is the only medium through which such a record may conveniently be kept, and it is largely through this factor that the Book receives its enduring value.

University of Toronto Medical Journal

THIS journal is published seven times a year, November to May, by the Medical Society of the University of Toronto to serve as a medium for undergraduate expression and to bring to the student recent articles of scientific interest. The Journal was founded in December, 1923, by Doctors E. P. Scarlett, D. M. Meekison and R. P. Stone, at the time when Dr. B. I. Johnstone was President of the Medical Society. It is now in the middle of Volume IV. The founders of the journal are to be congratulated on their wisdom, foresight and courage in launching this most useful publication. Destructive criticism has never been conspicuous by its absence but in spite of this the circulation has steadily increased and at the present time is not far short of one thousand. The Journal has many loyal friends and we are indebted to them for their timely advice and help.

Many recent graduates throughout Canada are on the circulation list, as well as most of the staff and students of the Toronto School of Medicine.

We hope that the Journal will continue to increase in value to its subscribers. Constructive criticism of any kind is invited. By consideration of such criticism the Journal will best be able to serve its readers.

Transactions and Year Book

THIS year's issue of the "Transactions and Year Book" of the Engineering Society is the fortieth since the inception of a yearly "School" publication, and the seventh since the transformation of the old "Applied Science" into its present, more ambitious form. "Transactions" is of interest not only to the undergraduates in Applied Science, but also, and especially to the alumni whose interest in, and connections with the "School" might be waning, and it thereby fulfills a double purpose.

An attempt is being made this year to provide additional technical information by publishing articles, specially written for "Transactions," by graduates whose work has brought them in contact with new and interesting processes and industrial ventures. And, although the events of undergraduate social and sporting life will continue to constitute the larger half of the publication, these articles should not fail to interest "Transactions" readers, who will sooner or later play their own parts in the affairs of industry.

The "Year Book" part is a review of all the activities in which "School" men have been engaged; and, as such, it constitutes the only permanent record of undergraduate life.

The Toike Oike

DURING the first and second years at School, most of the departments brave together the storm of lectures, hours of drafting and lab, and alike, must accustom themselves to new methods of learning. Their interests are mutual and thus are given whole hearted support; the circles of friendship can assume an admirable magnitude. But in the Senior years, the segregation of departments becomes more marked, and quite naturally there is a tendency toward self-centredness, with a zealousness for recognition, a slipping from the homogeneous whole. The Toike Oike steps into this breach, and with timely publications, keeps the integral parts in touch with one another, and reinforces the whole by relating recent interesting activities, by fostering events and organizations of prime importance to every School man. As a mouthpiece of the Engineering Society it reaches more members of the faculty than could any other means of approach.

With traditional punctiliousness, it welcomed the Froshs to School and guided their wandering footsteps in the ways of righteousness. At Christmas, every engineer was sent home with felicitous words of caution and encouragement.

On Stunt night, it functioned as Ariadne's cord to guide and otherwise keep in the narrow path, the wild, rough men and their gentler "four-fifths." And recently in the field of politics, what other paper could possibly take part in such a hectic campaign with so few indications of party favoritism?

Lastly, it appeared as a grand finale in April, replete with incidents and personalities, of a nature that would be given no space in the University Year Book.

Hya Yaka

HN the year 1903, due to the efforts of Dr. W. E. Willmott, the first editorial board of Hya Yaka was organized. Dr. Leslie Oliver had the honour of being first editor of this official publication of the undergraduate body of the then Royal College of Dental Surgeons. Now it appears as the official publication of the student body of the Faculty of Dentistry, University of Toronto.

The year 1927 marks the twenty-fifth anniversary for Hya Yaka.

University Women's Press Club

IN order to provide a medium of expression for those interested in any phase of journalism, the Women's Press Club was organized in 1919. Since then, although its membership has been small, it has never lacked either enthusiasm or loyalty. Indeed, few University organizations can boast of greater faithfulness or a more genuine interest on the part of its members. Those who are not definitely interested in writing are not attracted by the Press Club, and to this may be due the fact that this Association carries less "dead wood" than others.

One of the primary requisites for admission to the Press Club has always been original contributions. Half the meetings are devoted to the reading and criticizing of these contributions, and a competent critic is invited to be present. This critic is usually a journalist, and such prominent writers as J. Vernon McKenzie, Napier Moore, and Mary Lowry Ross have acted in this capacity.

At the other meetings short-story writing, advertising, feature articles, and general reporting have all had their exponents in the persons of Archie McKishnie, Gregory Clark, Lucy Doyle, and others.

Until the past year, the membership was restricted to those actively engaged in some branch of college journalism. However, it was found that this excluded women who, while interested in this field, were unable to devote any time to student publications. As a result, all those interested in journalism are now admitted, even although they are not on the staff of any publication.

One of the most obvious advantages of this society is that women from all colleges are eligible for membership. Opportunities for inter-college communication are all too infrequent in large institutions such as the University of Toronto, and the Press Club affords its members the privilege of meeting women from other colleges who have one bond in common—a love of writing.

The Cambridge Debate

ANNO DOMINI 1923—and a new element enters University of Toronto debating. An Oxford team brings the humour and brilliance of the Old Land to the Toronto campus. Comes 1927, and the novel has become the expected. Bates College, of Lewiston, Maine, initiated the international debate both in Canada and England. Cambridge followed Oxford, and last year's Imperial team brought still other universities into the field: Birmingham, Edinburgh, and London.

Cambridge continued the practice this year. Perhaps it was the lack now of the element of novelty, or the conflicting interests of early Autumn. At any rate, the forensic display failed to attract the usual capacity attendance to Convocation Hall.

The Literary and Debates Committee, with Matthew T. Newby of Wycliffe College as chairman, working on another explanation, has been agitating during the past season for an absolute change from the judge system of debate to the open-house style as practised in Hart House. And there is, in fact, every indication that the one method is losing popularity as rapidly as the other is gaining it.

But, revenons a nos montons. "That this House regrets the large part played by advertising in modern life," was the resolution calculated to settle the supremacy of Toronto or Cambridge, and at the same time afford the audience a maximum of interest and entertainment. It was no miscalculation. The retrospective pen need not tarry to describe the pitting of wit against wit, the parrying of taunt with jibe, the flow of quip, and pom, and alliteration, and exceeding much learning.

It was Trinity, who of all the Toronto Colleges comes closest to the English University atmosphere; Trinity, who knows already the value of the open-house debate and holds one every week; Trinity, who argues about anything and everything; Trinity, strengthened by Meds who triumphed by the decision of judge and house alike. Picture the calibre of the debate when the audience vote was 259 to 248 for the negative—the University of Toronto.

The committee were particularly fortunate in their choice of judges: Prof. N. A. Mackenzie, Sir William Hearst, and Mr. W. H. Moore.

Inter-University Debating

OUT of a veritable sheaf of invitations and challenges from universities in the United States, Minnesota was chosen to further test the steel of Toronto orators. A party of five, the visitors arrived on November the third : Frederick Renand, Arnold Karlins, Harold Stassen, coach Wayne, L. Morse, and a companion. That evening in Hart House they took opposing sides with Toronto speakers on the resolution "That the influence of the United States on Canada has increased, is increasing, and ought to be diminished.

The greater popularity of the open-house debate was further demonstrated by the presence of a proportionately larger attendance in Hart House than on the following evening when the Minnesota speakers took the negative of the resolution, "That it is in the public interest that the war debts of the Allied Powers to each other should be cancelled," W. A. Donahue, St. Michael's College; H. S. Dodgson, University College, and T. H. Taylor, Trinity College, carried the affirmative by the decision of the judge and critic, Professor R. M. MacIver, although the audience vote favoured the Minnesota speakers.

A return debate is being arranged for next year with an itinerary to include a number of other American Universities.

In the Inter-University Debating Union, Toronto visited McGill, and Queens journeyed to Toronto to debate the resolution, "that the dictatorship of Mussolini is detrimental to the best interests of Italy."

To refer again to the growing disfavour of the contest style of debate, there is a feeling that Toronto should definitely drop out of the I.U.D.U. and invite Queens and McGill to attend and take part in the Hart House debates during the year. McGill and Queens are both interested in the Toronto move although the smaller colleges in the Union feel that they lack the size and talent successfully to adopt the change. The view is expressed that there is greater interest in a smaller university if there is something tangible at stake.

The presence of the Queens I.U.D.U. speakers as visitors at the Hart House debate on the evening previous to their scheduled debate with the University of Toronto team may have a deciding influence on the matter.

Inter-College Debating Union

AS the name implies, this society exists chiefly to promote interest in debating among the various colleges and faculties. In the course of the year it conducts debating contests between all the members, the losers being eliminated in successive rounds until finally one college remains as champion. To this college is awarded the Kerr Shield, which has for some years past been held by McMaster.

During the present season, eight colleges have been represented in the series. The debates have ranged from such a delightfully general question as whether or not we should pity our grandchildren, to the discussion of practical university problems. The character of the debates has been unusually high, the attendance somewhat better than last season.

During recent years, an attempt has been made to increase student interest in public questions, in order to counteract that unfortunate apathy toward public questions which has been all too common in educated circles. The frequent Hart House and Inter-University debates are examples of this movement. Only those, however, who have already shown their calibre in inter-year or inter-college debates can hope to compete in these more important ones. The Union thus serves as a valuable stepping-stone to able debaters, as well as encouraging the interest of Faculties who might otherwise neglect such an important phase of university life.

The Women's Inter-College Debating Union

AN innovation which was started last spring in Women's Intercollege Debates has been successfully continued this year. The Parliamentary style of Debating was substituted for the old Intercollege Competitive Debates. The subjects of these debates have been very popular. The first one held in Victoria College on November 1st, was "Should Women Come to College?" Of added interest to the second Open House Debate held on the eve of the Ontario election was the fact that the men debated the same subject, "This House would welcome the continuance of the present provincial government in Office," at the same time in Hart House.

The many excellent speeches from the floor and the interest shown by all the faculties certainly justifies the change in the method of carrying on the inter-college debates.

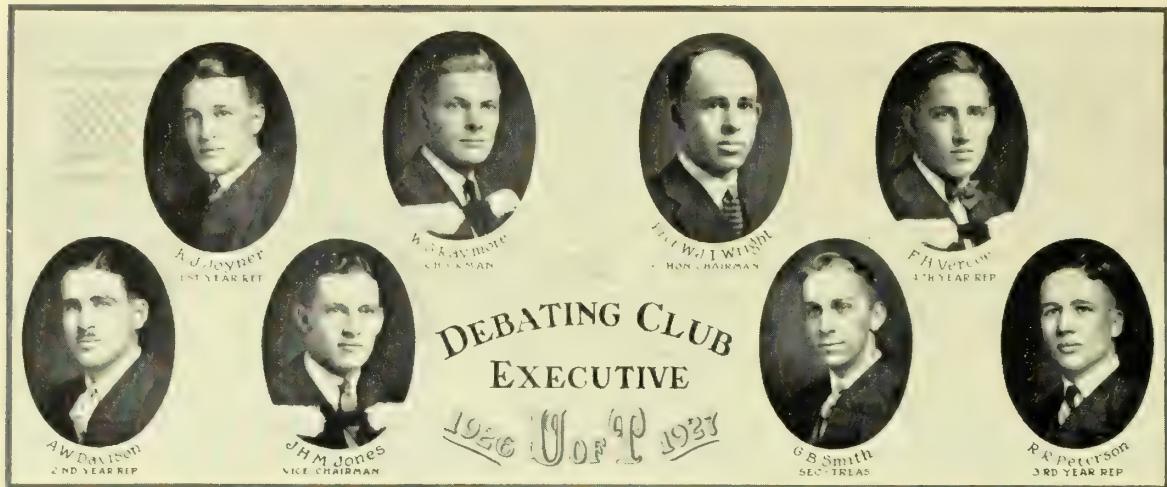

The committee which is composed of two representatives from McMaster University and from each of the four Colleges arranges the Intercollegiate series with McGill and Queens as well as the Open House Debates.

The three Intercollegiate Debates take place simultaneously at Montreal, Kingston and Toronto, on February 5th. The subject, "Resolved that the commercial spirit existing in the United States and Canada to-day is unfavourable to the development of the arts," has already provoked a great deal of discussion.

Miss Eleanor Clark and Dorothy Comber will uphold the affirmative against McGill in Toronto, while Miss Rohama Siegel and Miss Josephene Brophy will maintain the negative in Kingston.

The committee has accepted a challenge from Bates College, United States, to debate with them in Toronto.

Enthusiasm for debating has been greatly revived this year, largely owing to the Open House Debates which give the women practice in public speaking. The popular subjects chosen tend to keep the students awake to outside interests as well as vital College problems.

The S. P. S. Debating Club

THE frequency with which the assertion is encountered that all walks of present-day life are beset by the evils of specialization naturally leads the youthful engineer to enquire into the truth of the statement, with particular reference to his own academic career in the Faculty of Applied Science and Engineering. In such a highly-specialized study as that of Applied Science the cultural ideal of University life may easily be lost through the constant drilling in technical matters.

The Debating Club of the Faculty of Science has been conceived by its institutors as an instrument whereby the engineering student may develop latent talents in debating and public speaking, in conjunction with an appreciation of those spheres of intellectual activity which lie beyond the range of his own profession. This is accomplished by means of open meetings wherein the member may air his opinion on some topic of either a non-technical or engineering nature which has been introduced briefly by a well-informed speaker. Inter-year debates for the Segsworth Trophy offer a battleground for those of an argumentative nature and when this arena grows too small for the amateur pleader, he may enter the lists against his fellow-students from the sister faculties in the Intercollege Debating Union.

The annual Oratorical Contest has never failed to assemble a goodly number of men to vie with each other in exposition of a variety of impromptu subjects. The spirit of these ranges from light comedy and sparkling epigram to ponderous diatribes and satirical outbursts against the established order.

The existence of the Debating Club in S.P.S., supported by the students of all departments, is ample proof that the Engineers do not neglect those amenities so dear to the heart of culture.

The Academy Debating Society

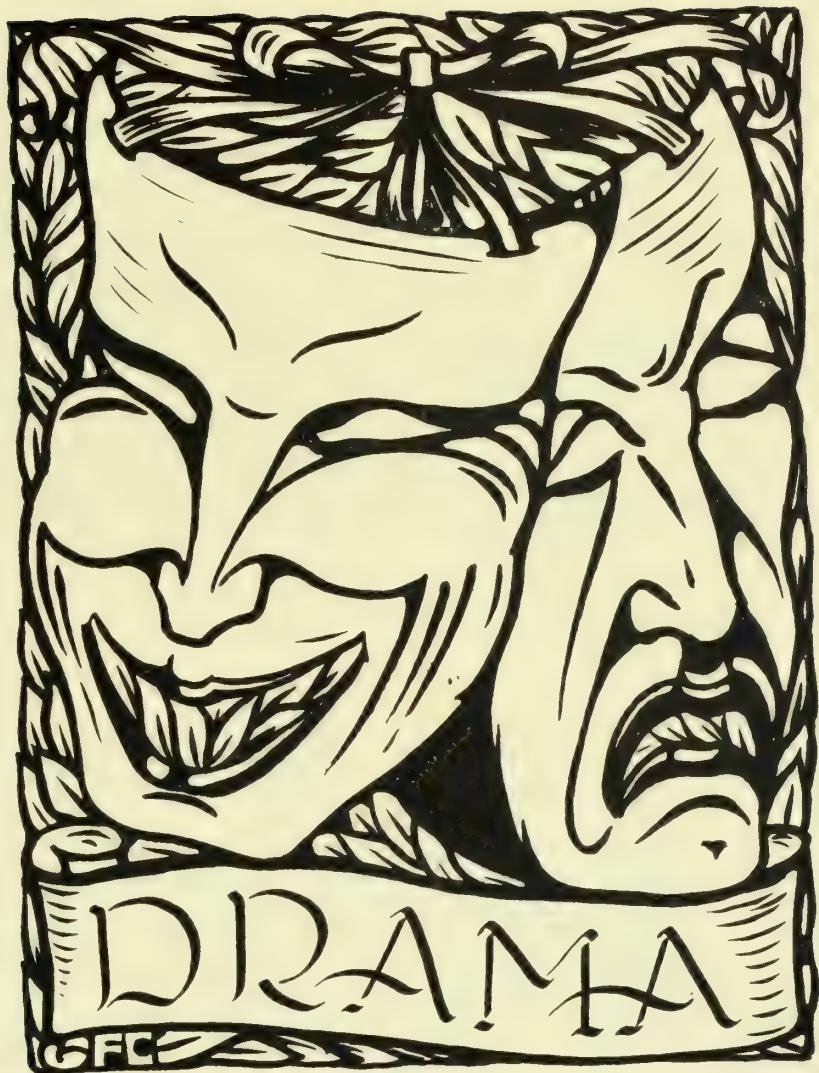

"No people ever reached a high development among whom the voice was not heard."

TN 1925, a small group of undergraduates from several faculties, knowing that the Golden Ages of the world were the ages of oratory and eloquence, organized the Academy Debating Society for the purpose of developing the forensic powers of its members. To facilitate this, the membership was restricted to a certain number. Thanks are due to the honorary president, Mr. L. M. Singer, himself one of the most prominent debaters in the city twenty years ago, for his encouragement and advice during the past two years.

Meetings are held weekly and members aim not only to become proficient in expressing their ideas but also in interchanging them. Topics for discussion, informal and formal debates, constitute the programs. Each member is required to act as chairman of at least one meeting.

Last year a number of debates were held with other organizations, one of these being held under the auspices of the B'Nai B'Rith of Toronto at the King Edward Hotel on the subject: "Resolved that there be established in Canada a Separate School System for the Jews," the Academy Debating Society upholding the affirmative of the resolution, while the negative was upheld by the University of Toronto Menorah Society. Other debates of note were also held, and a similar program has been arranged for the year 1926-27.

The Players' Guild of University College

THE Players' Guild, which was formed in 1922-23, is an organization devoted to the active study of the drama. The Guild's policy is to hold weekly afternoon meetings in the auditorium of the Women's Union, when plays of various types are presented and discussed by the members. The widest range of choice is exercised by the producers. In addition to the afternoon work a more ambitious evening performance takes place each term.

This year the Guild has been fortunate, as previously, in enjoying the assistance of Professor E. A. Dale as Honorary President and of Mr. Raymond Card as Director. Both these gentlemen have taken deep interest in the activities of the society and have contributed in large measure to their success.

A new departure this year has been the presentation of such plays as the Chester Mystery of "Noah's Deluge" and the "Electra" of Sophocles, with a view to illustrating the history and development of the dramatic art. This series has been arranged by Mr. Card. The fact that other afternoon productions were plays by authors ranging from Tagore, Tchekov, and Maeterlinck to Merrill Denison and A. A. Milne is evidence of the Guild's catholicity of selection. The choice of evening plays has been no less ambitious, James Elroy Flecker's "Don Juan" being presented in the fall, and Ibsen's "A Doll's House" in the spring, with graduate members of the Guild playing in the latter production and Professor Dale directing it.

It is the desire of the Guild to present plays of genuine literary value, and since it is supported by the fees of its members and the performances are private it is hampered neither by the necessity of choosing plays that are sure of commercial success, nor by that of paying royalties on modern work. In general, the executive aims at giving the members an opportunity of seeing such plays as, for one reason or another, are not generally acted on the commercial stage.

Victoria College Dramatic Society

THE Victoria College Dramatic Society has for its object the encouragement of amateur theatricals in general, and is one of the recognized dramatic organizations within the University endeavouring to do serious work. Since 1924, there have been no limitations as to its membership. That a widespread interest in the art of the theatre has been developed in the student body, is evinced by the fact that the society has more than a hundred members to enable it to carry out the programme outlined for the year. Mrs. F. J. Moore, Professor Greaves, Mr. Jacob of the "Mail and Empire," and other prominent speakers have been secured for the monthly meetings and teas, and as an added feature a one-act play is frequently presented.

Each year the society has undertaken one major production. A. A. Milne's "The Romantic Age," Bernard Shaw's "Penelope," "Fanny's First Play," and Huxley's transcription of Mrs. Sheridan's "The Discovery," are included among its past presentations. This year, J. H. Turner's "The Lilies of the Field," was produced in Hart House Theatre under the able direction of Mrs. F. J. Moore. No small part of its success was due to the technical staff. Mr. Garstang, who worked on the sets for the original presentation in London, designed and executed the scenery as replicas of those used in the production there. In January, an evening programme of three one-act plays was presented in Burwash Hall under the direction of the members of the caste of "The Lilies of the Field."

Victoria College Bob

EVERY faculty in the University of Toronto may be said to hold its own peculiar gala night once a year. Witness Daffy-dil night for the Medicales, Noctem Cuckoo for the Dents, and the Bob night for Victoria. To the average undergraduate these are all similar occasions, but to those who are enrolled in Victoria the "Bob" has a deeper meaning.

Fifty-four years ago in the town of Cobourg where the old College originally was situated, the first "Bob" was celebrated. The inspiration which set the present tradition going was on this wise. Robert Beare, then janitor of the College, made it his happy practise to welcome all freshmen with genuine cordiality. Under his tutelage they learned something of the ideals of the College, and developed a class unity. Those gathered around him appreciated his kindness to such an extent that in his honour the "Bob" was instituted. Constitution and by-laws were drawn up, and the "Bob" still flourishes from year to year, satirizing the Freshmen and professors, as it ever has, and affording the college a merry evening. Until the day of his death it was the custom to present Mr. Beare with some token of affection at these annual celebrations. Now however, reference is seldom made to him, and we, the Bob Committee of 1926, take the occasion to refresh the minds of all of us as to the true meaning of Victoria's "Bob."

Daffydl 1927

LITTLE did those few medical students who, twenty-nine years ago decided to caricature their teachers by enacting a "Punch and Judy" show, dream that this effort of theirs would so fertilize the ovum of dramatic ability in the student body that it would give birth to 'Daffydl.' In the meantime Daffydl has grown in wisdom, stature and favour with staff and students. Now a mature adult he ably "held a mirror before nature" at the performances held in Convocation Hall on February the tenth and eleventh.

Judging from Daffydl's performances on-stage the subtle humour of his ripening prime will continue to amuse his clientele until his age is Methuselian. Although forced to conform to the times in the presence of his elders we could safely assure his progenitors that he is allowed to give vent to his exuberant spirits off-stage. All in all, though born 1898, he is still going strong.

His annual epistaxis was very severe this year, being about doubled in size and assisted materially in making the performances a colorful affair.

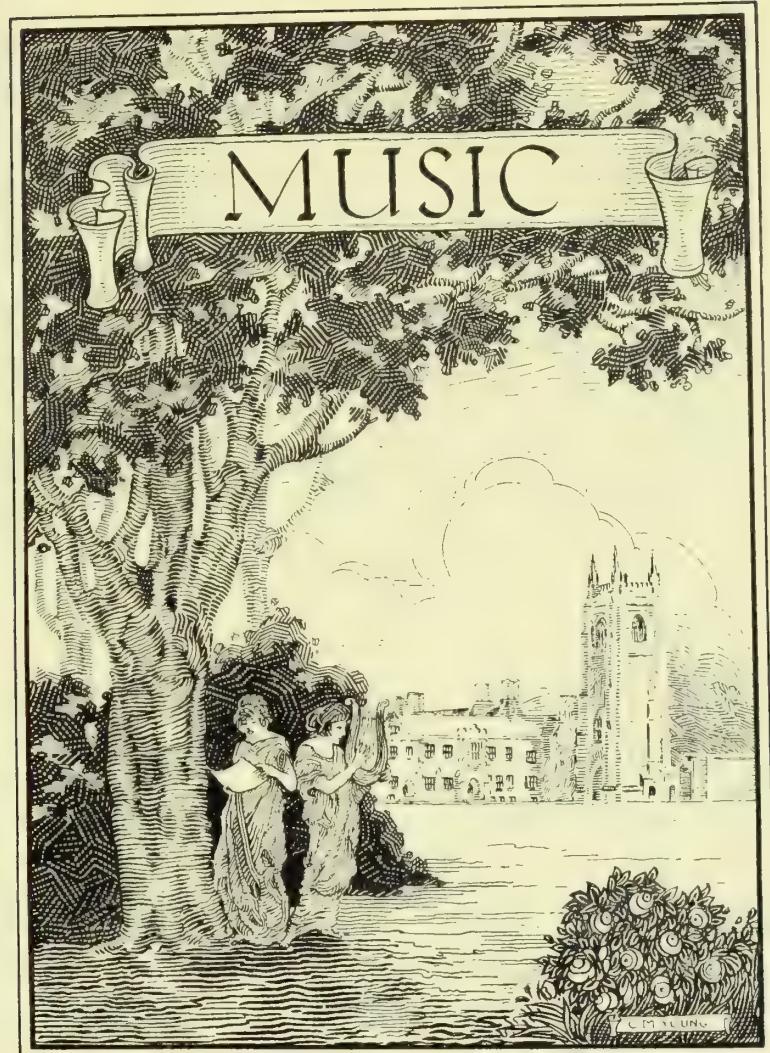

According to tradition on the evening following the last performance Daffydl acted the most excellent host to his censors and disciples. This revel will long be remembered by his followers, and the renewed vigor with which they awoke on Monday morn did much to hasten that renaissance of mirth which is Daffydl's goal.

Dental Dramatic Club

THE Dramatics Committee of the Faculty of Dentistry has under its charge two important duties during the school term, namely, the management of "Noctem Cuckoo," the annual stunt night at Hart House, and also of "Dentantics," the amateur dramatics night. These two events, through the loyal co-operation of the members of the Committee, have come to play a prominent part in student activities and are eagerly looked forward to each year. At present, the graduating year, which has a worthy representative in K. M. Phillips, has set a high mark in originality and ability, and will leave a worthy record behind it in College dramatic circles.

Stringed Instrument Club

THE Stringed Instrument Club of the University of Toronto was first organized in the fall of 1922 by Messrs. Norman Samuel and Clarke Ashworth, who felt there was a great need for an organization through which the undergraduates could express their musical genius. Since then, the Club has grown and become one of the most successful organizations in the University.

For the purpose of bringing out the possibilities of each instrument the Club was divided into these groups: the Hawaiian Group, the Mandolin Group, and the Banjo Group. A Ukulele Group has since been formed and is now one of the most important in the Club. As leader of this group, we have been most fortunate in obtaining Mr. Norman Samuel, one of the founders of the Club. Although no longer a member of the University, he still takes an active part in the activities of the Club.

While the Club originally contained men only, it was soon felt that there was much musical talent among the women students, and accordingly the co-eds were formed into a separate group, which has since played an important part in the Club's activities.

There have also been from time to time, several duets, trios, quartets and quintets as well as soloists upon whom the executive could always call to fulfil short notice engagements. The Stringed Instrument Club Dance is probably one of the main functions of the Club. This has been put on from year to year and proven a most successful event.

Victoria College Orchestra

HIS season of 1926-27 is the eighth in the history of the Victoria College Orchestra. The Orchestra was organized in October 1919, under the direction of the late and much lamented Dr. Vogt, to whom it is particularly grateful for securing for it the services of Mr. Frank Blachford as conductor.

The traditional schedule of the Orchestra's season is a series of two hour practices held one evening each week from the beginning of October until the end of January, when a concert is given. Each year the programme includes a variety of numbers from such composers as Mozart, Beethoven, Wagner, MacDowell, Liszt, Dvorak, Massenet, Saint-Saens and Shubert. Among the assisting artists have been Mr. Frank Oldfield, Mr. Campbell McInnes, Mr. Arthur Blight and Mr. Lawrence Lugsden.

This organization affords an excellent opportunity for anyone in the University of Toronto who plays an orchestral instrument. Although Miss Addison, Dean of Women of Victoria College has been its Honorary President and constant friend from the beginning, and it is also under the patronage of friends of Victoria College, membership and executive positions in the orchestra are open to students of all colleges and faculties in the University.

There are splendid possibilities in the future of the Orchestra, both because of the excellent leadership of Mr. Blachford, and because it is the only orchestra in the University which is doing serious symphonic work.

Victoria College Music Club

HE Club has considered it advisable to change its name since the activities of immediately preceding years have made "The Victoria College Glee and Choral Club" a somewhat misleading and inapplicable title. From glee and choral concerts the Club has progressed through a rather chequered history to full-fledged operatics under the particularly able leadership of Mr. George Stewart.

This departure commenced in 1925 with "The Wishing Cap"—a delightful little fantasia by Edward Miller. Upon its favourable reception the Club wisely decided to follow operatics in the future. Gilbert and Sullivan's "The Mikado" provided even more adventurous opportunities both in musical and dramatic lines, and the distinct success with which this performance was received in the season of 1926 has given the Club a unique musical position in the University.

In February of this year a second Gilbert and Sullivan operetta was presented in the theatre of U.T.S. with an excellent orchestra assisted by Mr. J. Stanley St. John. Altogether, "Patience" is a spectacular musical performance—a bright and amusing satire on exaggerated aestheticism, enjoyed equally by the club members and the audiences of four successive evenings.

The Club wishes to express appreciation for the continued patronage of the University and musical organizations throughout the city. Entering a new year confidently, it anticipates even greater musical success for the future.

The Varsity Band

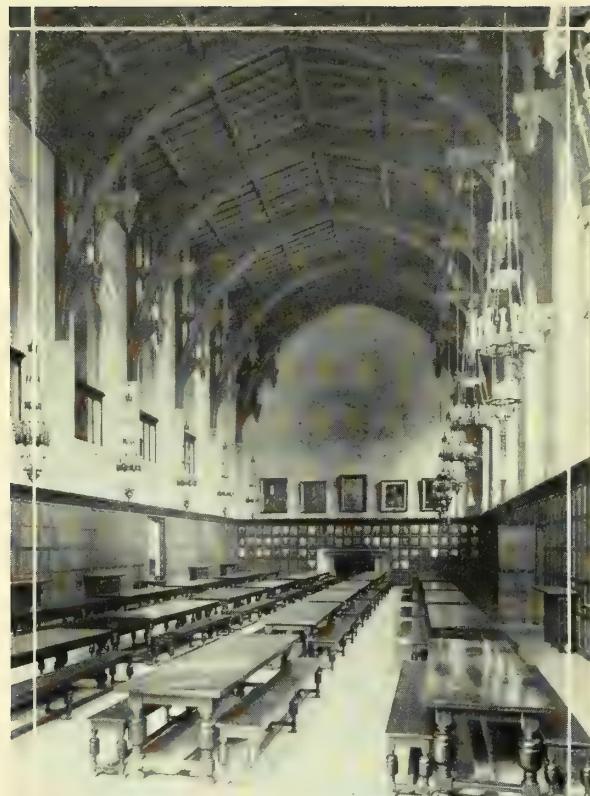

IN the autumn of 1926, owing to the efforts of Col. R. Smythe, 2T6, S.P.S., Col. Loudon, G. F. Bannerman, Sec.-Treas. of the S.A.C., Sergt. Wilcox and others, the reorganized C.O.T.C. band made its first appearance as the "Varsity Band," in smart blue and white uniforms and capes. Originating after the war, the band has, under the instruction of Capt. John Slatter of the 48th Highlanders, attained its present excellence, and its appearance at the rugby games was well received. Besides its instructor, it has had various student leaders, Messrs Rundle, Kenney, McLaughlin, Moon, Wilson and Wilcox, the two latter being now in charge.

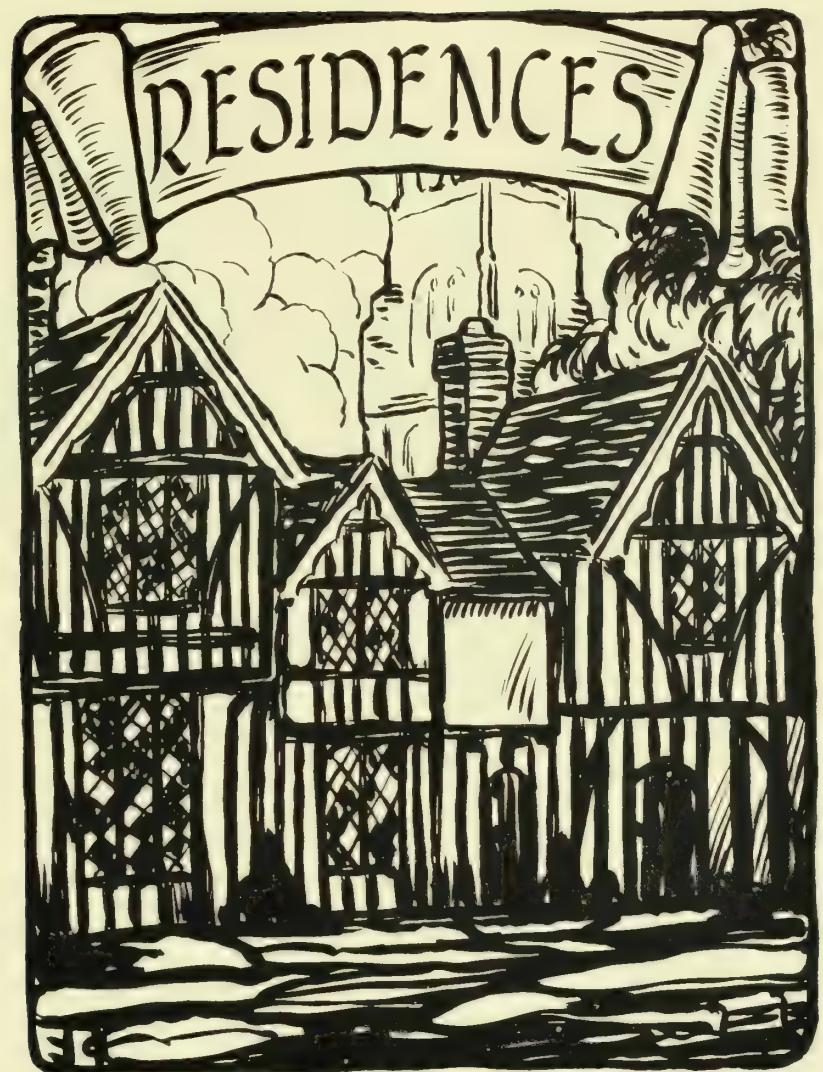

Thanks to the efforts of the co-eds who superintended a tag-day, the band was able to attend the game in Kingston and made a most favorable showing. After the rugby season was over, it took up the hockey games and carried on the good work there.

Aside from athletic affairs the band functioned as a military unit at the monthly parades, officiated at the Armistice Day ceremonial and formed part of the guard of honour for Lord Willingdon's convocation.

Last, but not least, the band has shown itself a concert organization as well as a parade and rooters' band. Every spring it is the custom for the band to give a recital in Convocation Hall, and this year it rendered a concert at the Grange on the occasion of the inspection of a group of war pictures by the members of the C.O.T.C. and their friends.

So much for the activities of the Varsity Band for the term 1926-27. It has made a name for itself and for Varsity. The University now has its own musical organization wearing its own colours, and it is to be hoped that it will receive such support that it will grow and gain additional renown.

North House

Ntold by a graduate of '27—any number of years from now: "North House Days—what a time it was!—good days—happy days! Perhaps, when we were there, it seemed a long time, that we had to make our way noisily along those creaking corridors; but now that they are gone, and only the memory of those days remains, we realize that the time was all too short.

Some few of us came in as freshmen, back in the days when a freshman was considered the lawful prey of everyone and the logical butt of every joke. But as we grew older (and fewer) conditions changed—and, almost before we knew it, we found ourselves in the final year. Can we ever forget those last few months of North House life?—the great flood of new faces that met us as we came back, early in October—how, later, those same new men helped us carry on the traditions of North House in the playing field, the ball-room, and even, at times in the lecture hall. And in the years since, as graduates, in many businesses and professions those same traditions have not been forgotten.

We won the harriers that year, easily, and gave up the Rugby championship to South House only after a bitterly fought play-off. In the social season, the Residence dance was a real high light and so it went—some work, a lot of play, and much good fellowship thrown in. Yes—they were good days, happy days—they come so vividly to mind as we think of them now, it seems hardly possible that they are gone forever."

East House

"Flung roses, roses riotously with the throng."

AFTER the repeated refusal of East House to supply the required information, we have been compelled to resort to "Who's Who" 1926, as the most authoritative source. To quote in entirety the articles in this work would demand too much space, so we are forced to offer a resumé. The men of this house, it would seem, are noted for a culture, a gentleness, a good-heartedness, a devotion to the creed of good living and high thinking, that are only too rarely met with in these later and degenerate days. At times even the staid "Who's Who" becomes positively lyrical. The mind unconsciously travels back to those heroes of old who sacked Troy, built Rome, slew the Saracens, and suggested Rabelais' best characters. One can scarcely believe that such mortals exist. One scarcely can.

South House

 N attempting to give a resum   of South House activities for the session, we are sure that our predecessors wished, as we do now, that the gifts of being accurately prophetic and originally truthful were more widespread than we find them to be. It must suffice to say that we hope and believe that we are living up to our traditions. Our new House-master, Dr. Hoskin, has won the place in our esteem that his genuine kindness merits so thoroughly. He has entered into our spirit of things and by his personality has added a generous contribution to the common share of good work, good fun and good fellowship that has pervaded the House. We feel that in the future the bonds of our comradeship, as undergraduate and graduate members of the old House, will be knit even more closely under his thoughtful guidance.

Last year we again won the Inter-residence Athletic Shield, our fourth victory in as many opportunities. This year we are, at the time of writing, enjoying a comfortable lead having won the Rugby and Track, although we bowed to North House in the Harriers. Everything points to our fifth successive championship.

The year has already had several salient features. We waged a momentous war with North House, the monetary results of which would have been disastrous but for the fun we had. Some individual, evidently deciding to be original at all costs, put his foot through the Housemaster's ceiling. The Residence Dance was as usual a wonderful party. The House meeting entertainments have been better than ever.

Graduation will remove fourteen men from the House, including our President Evan Shute and most of the House Committee. But "the old order changeth." We feel confident that those who carry on will continue to hold high the torch we throw them.

U.C. Men's Residence

FTER the lapse of about thirty years, University College is once more provided with a residence for men. To the undergraduate of the last century, the College was not merely the shrine of Minerva, worshipped but hardly loved, but a place in which they lived and moved and had their being. There still survive in the College vague memories of those glorious days, memories which the older graduates delight to revive for the moral and spiritual edification of their degenerate successors, and which constitute the chief stock-in-trade of speakers at banquets of the Alumni Association. With the growth of the University and the consequent demand for space, the old residence in the west wing was finally closed, although the dining hall (now the Junior Common Room) survived as a common University dining hall until the opening of Hart House. University administration offices, which were still housed in the College building, absorbed so much of the available space that professors and classes were driven to the attics and basements, and the situation would soon have become intolerable, had not a beneficent providence removed them to their present quarters in Simcoe Hall. Last summer, the same providence, as a further demonstration of its beneficence, purchased the large house on St. George Street immediately west of the College, equipped it with all things necessary, and handed it over to the College as the first unit of a revived men's residence.

It is appropriate that this house should become a part of the College property, devoted to its new purpose. Fifty years ago it was the residence of Sir Daniel Wilson, whose connection with the College is a matter of history. Subsequent owners enlarged it so that it now contains common rooms and quarters for over thirty men which are the envy of all. The present inhabitants (whose physiognomies are herewith portrayed) are fortunate, not merely in enjoying unique accommodation, but the being the first academic generation to live in the new residence, and thus to make for it traditions destined to be not less glorious than those of the old.

Hutton House

HUTTON HOUSE—where is that? You should know by this time, for it has been a whole year since we were given a name and since we discarded our number, though a few still refer to our House as 94 St. George Street. The new term opened with varied prospects, many of which have been materialized and proven cause for a certain pride among all the members of Hutton House. Returning members, with the confidence of experience found a host of new girls, eighteen of them with their characteristic freshie ways, to be introduced to Residence life. The formality of initiations being disposed of, old girls and new entered upon the interesting and somewhat chaotic life of college: the mad rush to "nine o'clock," the effort to observe "quiet hour," the gossipy teas in the afternoon or at the confidential hour of ten, the gala days of party, dance or masquerade, all intermingled with essays, lab books and Latin prose. Indeed Hutton House is represented in every activity of both the College and the University from Inter-Collegiate sports to the classics, having members on teams, executive committees and in organizations of every kind. So this year makes a memorable page in the annals of Hutton House.

Queen's Hall

HE scene remains the same throughout.

Act I Scene 1: First day of term, Fall of '23.

A room in Queen's Hall, windows sans curtains, bed sans cushions, desk sans books. Enter a freshie with bright expectant face; surveys room critically and seems rather disappointed.

Scene 2: Two days later.

The room is transformed. Pretty chintz curtains, a steamer rug, cushions, pennants, pictures, a tea-set, bright red books, all add touches of colour to the now attractive room. Half a dozen care-free girls sit about the room, perched on the desk and other pieces of furniture; all are munching at food of some sort.

Act II: Fall of '24.

The sophomore is busily engaged in putting up last year's curtains. Two more sophomores literally burst in. All embrace each other wildly. 1st Soph: My dear, did you hear about my trip this summer? It was just simply too marvellous! Perfectly heavenly! 2nd Soph: Oh but, my dear . . . etc. etc.

Act III: An evening in January, '26.

A group of juniors, armed with scissors, pencils, paints and paste are seen labouring industriously with cardboard and crepe paper. A spirit of 'cameraderie' and mystery prevails. Anyone acquainted with the Hall would know that they are preparing for the annual Seniors' Dinner.

Act IV: The last night of term, May, 1927.

A number of seniors are sitting in the midst of the confusion of packing. Plans for the future are the predominating subject—O.C.E.? business? matrimony? stay at home? or what? The underlying feeling of depression is subdued by the cheering thought, "Well, there's convocation still!"

Bare glimpses indeed are these of residence life. Graduation will erase the inconveniences of rules and regulations and leave only happy memories of little events which helped to fill four never-to-be-forgotten years.

The Dean has always filled an important place in the life of the Hall. This year Miss Charlotte Valentine is carrying on the traditions left by Miss Livingstone, whose death in May, 1926, is deeply regretted by all.

Argyll House

ARGYLL HOUSE, at the extreme North of Queen's Park, is one whose name will ever conjure up pleasant memories to those girls whose home it has been during their college career. Situated in a spacious lawn, that is dotted with huge old trees, and austere in outward appearance, it houses thirty students, who live in congenial companionship and exhibit a spirit of loyalty to Argyll and to each other. Much of the happiness and contentment is due to the kindly influence of Mrs. Howard, the head of the House, whom the girls hold in affectionate admiration and respect.

More faculties than one are represented in Argyll House—Arts, Meds, Household Science—which means a variety of interests for the students, who are aptly described in one line in the house yell as,

“Thirty good heads and thirty good hearts.”

Annesley Student Government Association

THE Annesley Student Government Association was formed in the autumn of 1906, upon the petition of the students to the Senate. Inspired by and founded somewhat upon the lines laid down in the Wellesley College constitution, it has been in continuous operation ever since. It is founded on an agreement between the authorities of Victoria College and the students in Residence whereby the powers and scope of student government are clearly defined. Many other institutions have made its organization and rules the basis for their own.

Unusual cases of discipline are referred to a joint committee, composed of members from the Faculty, student body and committee of management, and the Dean.

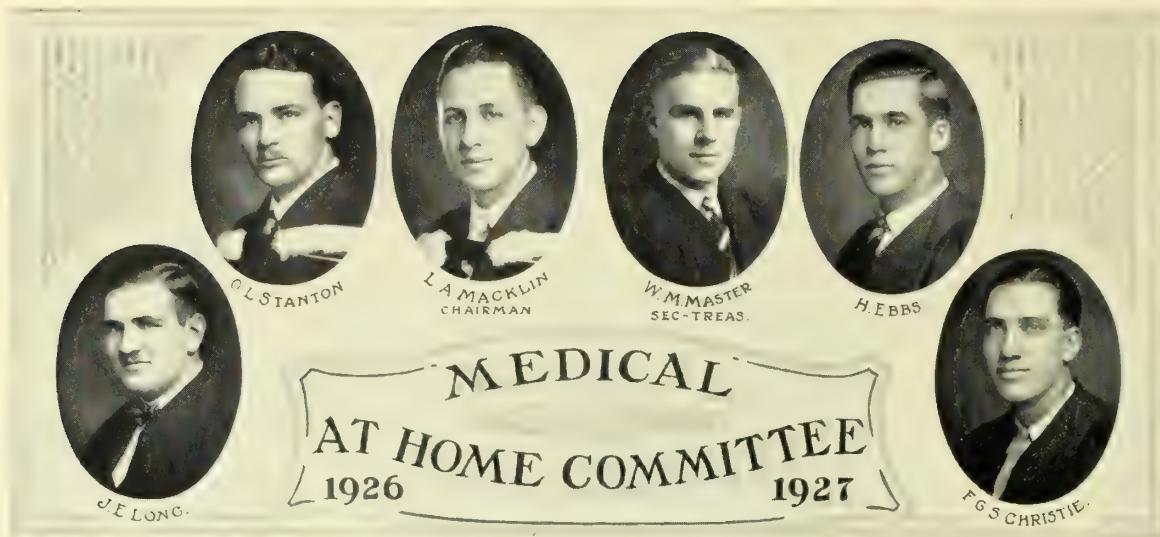

This committee reports to the Senate of the College which is the ultimate authority. It is the pride of Student government that this joint committee has never been called by either Dean or students.

After twenty-one years of experience it is the belief of all concerned that student government makes for honour in the student body, develops just judgment and dealing, independence of thought and action, corporate spirit and loyalty to College and University. It has been recognized that true government consists in co-operation among those governed and that one of the essentials of education is to learn to live in harmony with one's neighbours. A.S.G.A. unites these two functions in itself even while it serves as a natural training for women, for in A.S.G.A. they face problems of government similar to those they will later meet in the outside world.

Annesley Hall is the first Women's Residence in Canada to adopt Student Government and to continue it without a break, a record which the Student Government feels is largely due to the understanding and co-operation of the Dean, Miss M. E. T. Addison, B.A.

Medical At-Home

SOUNDS of revelry by night! The long awaited night has arrived when the wearied medical doffs his eye shade, closes his book, shakes off that harrowed look increased by long hours in the class room absorbing abusive tuition, dons his raiment of black and white to join his classmates and faculty brothers, at that Mecca of all medicals—the Senior Medical At-Home.

On with the dance! The King Edward Hotel, the Crystal Ball Room (that criterion of all ball rooms) resounds with the heart rending, foot disturbing, soul appeasing, body swaying syncopations so skilfully emanating from Luigi Romanelli's 18 piece orchestra.

On with the dance! Let joy be unconfined. How little did the poet realize how appropriate his words would be for this Medical At-Home. And how little does the fair lady realize the deep portent of the rendezvous letters under whose awesome shadow she tarries between the dances.

Then to supper. The thrill of dropping seventeen stories to the Pompeian Room, so gorgeously laid out. The looks of apprehension at the gruesome skeletons swaying hideously. The gurgle of delight over the favors for which the At-Home is noted. The screams which denote success in hitting the person at whom she aimed (so she claimed) with the novel streamers.

Then the novelty dance when the giant's skull dominates the ball-room and his spirit dances before the awed multitude.

But now it is a dream—a memory. Long days of diligence and fact assimilating hours now occupy the Med. But haunting thoughts of pleasures past spur minds to greater things. And so the curtain falls until another year.

The Annual "School" Dinner

ON Tuesday, December 7th, the Carls-Rite Hotel was the scene of one of the most successful banquets ever held by the Engineering Society. Students and Professors alike sat down to a hearty repast, featured by "chicken a la Wilkie," "Spiked Thompson's Celery," "Tommy Bingham's Ice Cream Creations," "Coffee by Gad," and last but not least, "Government Controlled Ginger Ale."

At the end of the meal, "President" Bingham called on Aub Sievert to propose a toast to the University, which was very adeptly answered by Sir Robert Falconer.

With the next toast, that to the Faculty, (and may we remind Monty that the Faculty is composed of Professors, not buildings) Monty surely excelled himself. The speech, with the exception of the main one of the evening, which was of entirely different character, was "super-par-excellent", and Monty deserves all due credit for his wit and humour. The toast was appropriately answered by the Dean, who may always be counted upon to give us something to think about.

We were fortunate in having representatives from McGill, Queen's, and R.M.C. with us. The President (Tommy himself) proposed the next toast, to our Sister Societies, after which the various representatives were introduced.

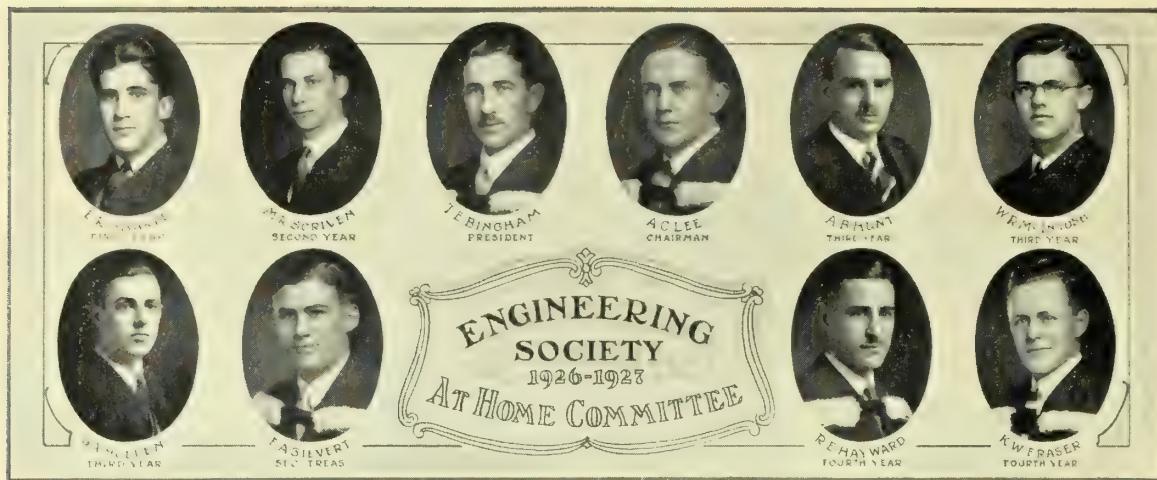

Fred Emney who needs no introduction to School men was asked to "render" us a few selections, and after hearing his English-Negro version of "I Ain't Going Back to Nowhere, Cause I Ain't Got Nowhere to Go" it was more or less unanimous that Mr. Emney should continue for awhile.

The feature event of the evening took place in the speech by Principal R. Bruce Taylor of Queen's. It was certainly the best after-dinner speech that we have listened to, and one to even parallel it would be hard to find. Principal Taylor is fluent with that Scotch wit, which marked his speech, and we know that he can readily assure himself that his talk was thoroughly appreciated.

School was very fortunate in being able to have Sir William Mulock present his own cup to the Junior School Rugby Team and his few words concerning sport were certainly appreciated.

The Dean made the presentation of the trophies to the Rowing Crew and then Fred Emney favoured the guests again with songs.

May our future banquets be just as great a success, for they could not be more.

School At-Home

T was in that lull when the fury of Christmas examinations was half forgotten and those of spring scarce thought of, that the School At-Home came and went! All care and worry were set aside as that glorious event drew near. "It won't be long now" was an expression frequently heard in the Halls of the "Old Red School."

On February 10th the old King Edward resounded with the merry voices of the revellers—assisted as they were by a wonderful orchestra and the little black man who seemed to be all mouth.

Grads and youth alike abandoned themselves to the spirit of hilarity—which ended all too soon despite the extra hour allowed by the indulgent Caput.

Buck Row: R. T. Stewart (2nd year Representative), S. Twible (1st year Representative)
Front Row: A. B. Morrow (3rd year Representative), S. R. Braden (President), Dr. W. Seccombe (Honorary President), M. G. Bond (5th year Representative).

Dental At-Home

THE At Home Committee is composed of Hon. President along with six members of the student body. The president of the committee is a member of the cabinet and is elected for office at the parliamentary elections which take place at the close of the preceding year. As chairman of the committee, he is assisted by five other members who are elected by the respective years.

The duty of the committee is the conducting of the social functions throughout the year.

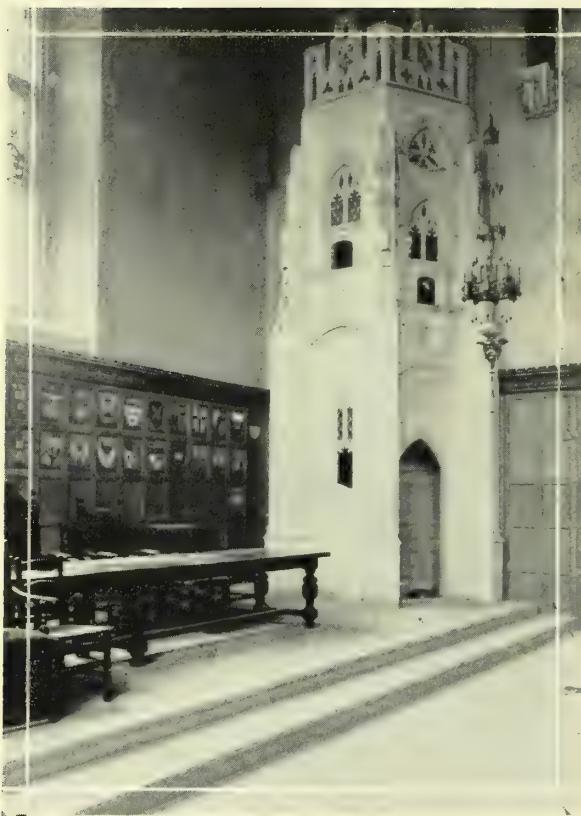

The committee of 1926-27 have met with marked success, commencing on October 22, with their opening dance at the Sunnyside pavilion. The hall was beautifully decorated with the College colours, good music, good eats—all combined to make this event a huge success.

The Pompeian Room of the King Edward Hotel was the scene of much revelry by the grads, would-be grads and their friends on Wednesday, Feb. 9th, 1927. With Romanelli's orchestra in attendance the At-Home was quite in keeping with the Dents' social fame.

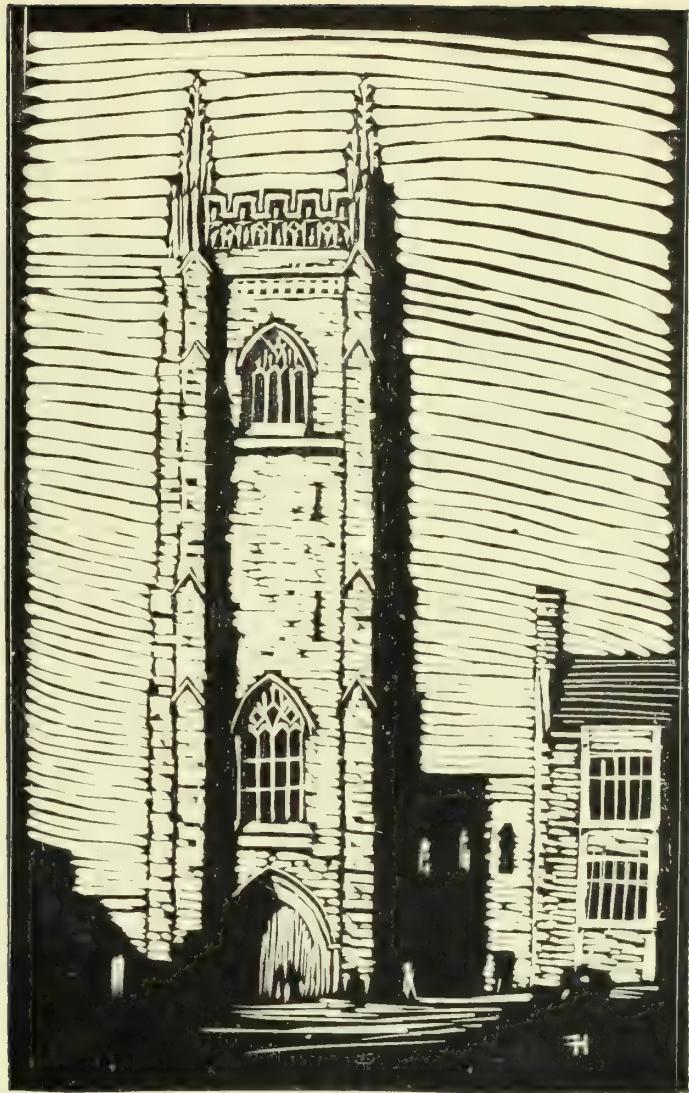

At time of going to press preparations are being made for the last big event of the year the, Graduation Dance.

The co-operation of Dean Seccombe, the Honorary President has been invaluable, always ready to assist in every way.

The Social History of 1927 will live as a precedent.

HART HOUSE

The Founders' Prayer

THE prayer of the Founders is that Hart House, under the guidance of its Warden, may serve in the generations to come the highest interests of this University by drawing into a common fellowship the members of the several Colleges and Faculties, and by gathering into a true society the teacher and the student, the graduate and the undergraduate; further that the members of Hart House may discover within its walls the true education that is to be found in good fellowship, in friendly disputation and debate, in the conversation of wise and earnest men, in music, pictures and the play, in the casual book, in sports and games and the mastery of the body; and lastly, that just as in the days of war this House was devoted to the training in arms of the young soldier, so in time of peace its walls may be dedicated to the task of arming youth with strength and suppleness of limb, with clarity of mind and depth of understanding, and with a spirit of true religion and high endeavour."

HART HOUSE FROM THE PARK

Hart House

HART HOUSE is so called in memory of the late Hart Massey. Begun in 1911, it was completed in 1919 and presented, fully equipped, to the University of Toronto by the trustees of the Massey Foundation. To Vincent Massey, Vice-Chairman of the Massey Foundation, is due the idea of Hart House as well as the form it assumed under his personal supervision.

From the autumn of 1914 until November, 1918, it was used for military purposes, and within its walls thousands of men were trained for service overseas. On the first anniversary of the Armistice—November 11th, 1919—Hart House was formally opened by His Excellency the Duke of Devonshire, who was at that time the Governor-General of Canada. Mr. Henry Sproatt and Mr. Ernest Rolph were the architects of the building, which comes as near to meeting the requirements of the ideal House for student activities as any on this continent or perhaps in the world.

In its widest interpretation, Hart House, which is for the use of men only and is non-residential, seeks to provide for all the activities of the undergraduate's life which lie outside the actual lecture rooms. Architecturally of great beauty and built round a quadrangle, Hart House is unique in that it houses under one roof a finely proportioned hall, called "The Great Hall," common rooms of every description, a library, a lecture room, a small chapel together with rooms for the use of the Student Christian Association, a studio for painting and sketching, photographic dark rooms, a billiard room, senior common rooms and dining rooms for both faculty and graduate members, an upper and lower gymnasium, both admirably equipped, separate rooms for boxing, wrestling and fencing, an indoor running track, a large swimming pool, racquet courts, an indoor rifle range, extensive locker rooms, offices for the Students' Administrative Council, also for the athletic and medical staff, a few bedrooms for guests, and the office and private rooms of the Warden. Below the quadrangle is a fully equipped theatre with foyer, green room, dressing rooms, wardrobe and the office of the director of the theatre. Every male undergraduate of the University is required to be a member of Hart House, towards the upkeep of which he pays an annual fee of eight dollars. The House has no endowment and these fees are its chief source of revenue.

The care of Hart House and its welfare has to a large extent been entrusted to the undergraduates themselves. There are six Standing Committees—House,

Hall, Library, Music, Billiard and Sketch. Each of these Committees consists of two Faculty members, one of whom is the Chairman, one graduate member, ten undergraduates and the Warden. Eight of the ten undergraduate members are elected annually by the whole undergraduate membership of Hart House, the other two being elected by their own number to serve on the same committee the following year. The personnel and duties of the Standing Committees subject to the authority of the Board of Stewards are as follows:

House Committee

The House Committee is the senior of the Standing Committees and has charge of the general management and social activities of Hart House. Under its supervision come all regulations governing the use of the House and all plans for the comfort and convenience of its members. The Barber Shop and Guest Rooms are under its care. The Committee is also responsible to the Board of Stewards for seeing that the House is kept in good repair both as regards its structure and equipment. The annual elections of the Committees of Hart House are also under the management of this Committee.

The direction of social affairs claims the attention of members of the Committee who in this connection are entirely responsible for the Hart House Masquerade which takes place in November and has now become the chief social event of the University Year.

Members of the House Committee have served on the special "Songster" Committee which has arranged Sunday Evening Songsters in the Music Room and also midday Sing-Songs in the East Common Room.

Above all it is the object of the House Committee to foster all activities which lead to the fullest possible use of Hart House by its members and to encourage the ideals so perfectly expressed in the Founders' Prayer.

The members of the House Committee for 1926-27 are: Professor J. H. Parkin, (Chairman), the Warden, Professor G. H. Duff, J. R. Gilley (Comptroller), A. G. Lang, (Graduate), C. R. Myers, (S.A.C.), A. R. Tilley, (Secretary), A. M. Doyle, E. J. Hartmann, W. H. M. Laughlin, J. M. McCaffrey, W. E. McCraw, C. G. Mitchell, K. E. Perfect, R. D. Ralfe, S. D. Thom.

Hall Committee

As in former years the duties of the Hall Committee have been to exercise a general supervision over the Great Hall, the Graduate Dining Room, the Kitchen Department of Hart House and the Tuck Shop. During the present year under the Chairmanship of Professor H. B. Speakman the work of the Hall Committee has been carried on with success. The quality of the meals served in the Great Hall under the direction of Mr. Campbell (the Superintendent) has continued to meet with the approval of the undergraduates who frequent the Hall in large numbers. Meals have been served at the same moderate price as in previous years. Large numbers of undergraduates have used the Great Hall and great care has been taken so to organize the service that at the busiest hours there is no line-up or unnecessary delay. The Comptroller of Hart House (Mr. J. R. Gilley) in co-operation with Mr. Campbell has given much time and thought to the management of this Department of Hart House which each year is becoming more firmly established.

The Committee has given particular attention to the financial statements presented to it each month, and the many problems inseparable from a large and complex organization such as the Great Hall, in which hundreds of meals are served daily, have received careful consideration.

The members of the Hall Committee for 1926-27 are: Professor H. B. Speakman, (Chairman), the Warden, Dr. H. A. Hoskin, J. R. Gilley, (Comptroller), A. H. McBride, (Graduate), Leo Smith, (Faculty Union), F. A. Wansbrough, (Secretary), H. Branon, D. B. Dingle, C. R. Ferguson, R. M. Fowler, H. Hetherington, W. L. Knowlton, M. M. Putnam, R. P. Quance, A. A. Somerville.

Library Committee

The Library in Hart House is recognized as one of the most beautiful rooms in the whole building.

In accordance with the idea of the Founders, the Library Committee has for the past eight years been engaged in the building up of a collection of books such as might be found in a good private library and as a result of their work the room has now become a popular resort of all those who like to spend their leisure hours reading the casual book.

At present there are 2800 volumes on the shelves about half of which are fiction, while the rest are composed chiefly of biography, history, languages and general literature. Additions to the Library are made at regular intervals and the activities of the Committee are chiefly centered around the selection of new books for purchase. Gifts also are received from time to time and in the last year Hart House has been particularly fortunate in this respect.

The Library Committee is further responsible for the selection of periodicals for use in the Reading Room and the Graduate Common Room and in these departments of the House a wide range of weekly and monthly journals may be found.

The Curator, an undergraduate member, is responsible for the care and checking of books but no other supervision over the Library is exercised. From the first the policy of the Library Committee has been to keep the shelves open at all times and to encourage the feeling that the contents of the Library are the common property of members of Hart House. It is by this means that the unique character of the Library has been preserved.

The members of the Library Committee for 1926-27 are: Professor R. S. Knox, (Chairman), the Warden, Professor L. Allen, H. O. E. Asman, (Graduate), T. D. Noble, (Secretary), J. P. E. Brown, (Curator of Library), J. L. Davenport, J. W. Graham, G. M. Kirkpatrick, N. L. Murray, D. M. Parker, G. W. Ralfe, F. H. C. Reinke, E. V. Shute, R. H. Soward.

Music Committee

The Music Committee directs and generally supervises the various musical activities of the House. Its major function is to arrange a number of concerts and recitals and thus to encourage and stimulate an appreciation for good music among the undergraduate members of the House. Pursuing the policy of former years the Committee has, during the present academic year, arranged eight Sunday Evening Concerts, and a series of Friday Afternoon Recitals. The Sunday Evening Concerts, the most popular musical institution of the University, are held in the Great Hall of the House at 9 p.m. on Sunday evenings at intervals of three weeks during the term. Due to the kind generosity of the outstanding musicians of the city who give their services without remuneration on these occasions, the undergraduates are afforded the opportunity of hearing music of the highest order and it is evident from the very large audiences which regularly attend them how much these concerts are appreciated. Beginning in October and continuing till the end of March, the Friday Afternoon Recitals are held each Friday at 5 p.m. in the Music Room. These Recitals are less formal in nature than the Sunday Evening Concerts and have become exceedingly popular during the past year.

The members of the Music Committee for 1926-27 are: Dr. J. M. D. Olmsted, (Chairman), the Warden, Professor J. G. Andison, F. R. MacKelcan, (Graduate), Dr. Ernest MacMillan, J. L. Goldie, (Secretary), G. S. Adamson, V. J. Bourke, A. T. Christie, J. C. Dempster, E. H. Doney, J. W. Johnson, A. F. W. Plumptre, C. D. Stewart, W. M. Thompson.

Billiard Committee

The Billiard Room of Hart House is a recreation centre for a large number of undergraduate members. It is under the control of the Billiard Committee. The general idea of the Billiard Committee of past years has been to promote the English game of Billiards in preference to other games. With this object in view three tournaments, Open, Ladder and Handicap, are held each year in the fall and winter months. To each winner and runner-up in these tournaments is given a suitable prize, such as the Hart House cup for the Handicap Tournament. The policy of the Billiard Committee has been in the past to replace the smaller tables with English Billiard tables until the room now has six full size billiard tables, two small size, and one pool table.

The Billiard Room is a source of revenue to Hart House and financial statements are placed before the Committee, which is directly responsible, as all other Standing Committees, to the Board of Stewards.

The members of the Billiard Committee for 1926-27 are: Professor W. M. Treadgold, (Chairman), the Warden, Professor R. K. Young, T. L. Campbell, (Graduate), H. S. Dawson, (Secretary), H. M. Barrett, W. C. Caldwell, C. A. Farewell, W. E. Gimby, D. G. Hilliard, R. K. Magee, J. B. Moore, A. A. Rennick, S. E. Stacey.

Sketch Committee

The Sketch Committee is responsible to the Board of Stewards for the Art Activities of Hart House. These include control of the Sketch Room, the holding of exhibitions therein, the Winter Loan Exhibition, which is hung in the principal rooms of the House, management of sketching classes under an artist and the occasional purchase of pictures.

The exhibitions held during the year of 1926-27 have drawn large numbers of men to the Sketch Room and the growing interest displayed in this department of Hart House has been most encouraging. Several well-known artists have shown their work, and delivered lectures at the open meetings. The Exhibitions have changed regularly twice a month and there has never been a day in full term time when there have not been pictures on the walls of the Sketch Room.

Perhaps the exhibition of work actually done by members of Hart House proved the most popular of all, and the standard of the exhibits was excellent.

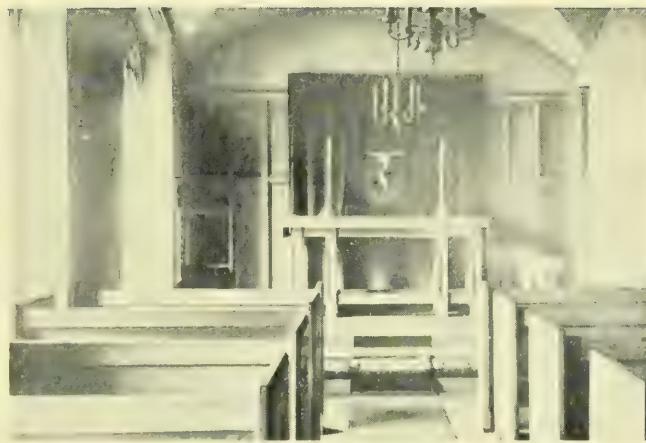

A very valuable piece of work was done by the Committee in establishing a definite policy with regard to the purchase of pictures for Hart House. It has now been decided, as far as funds permit, to buy pictures representative of the best in Canadian Art. To make this plan financially possible, the Print Fund was founded and promises to be very successful.

The sketching classes under Mr. F. S. Haines were well attended and, indeed, two extra classes were necessary.

The members of the Sketch Committee for 1926-27 are: Professor H. Wasteneys, (Chairman), the Warden, Professor W. S. Funnell, D. F. MacLaren, (Graduate), J. M. C. Lazier, (Secretary), S. V. Railton, (Keeper of the Prints), P. G. Anderson, C. N. Carscallen, M. T. dePencier, T. W. Kelly, F. B. Plewes, H. D. Sheppard, H. G. Soward, K. D. M. Spence.

Camera Committee

The Camera Committee, which is a special Committee of Hart House, is responsible to the Board of Stewards for the care of the photographic equipment of Hart House. The Camera Club operated a studio in connection with the Masquerade and took there about a hundred photographs. Later in the fall it held its annual exhibition of photographs by members of Hart House. During the Spring it placed on the walls of the Little Sketch Room an exhibition of photographs of Hart House.

THE CHAPEL

A number of Club's members, co-operating with the Editorial Board, provided the photographs from which some of the illustrations for Trentonensis are made.

Membership in the Camera Club is open to any member of Hart House; there are at present thirty-six members.

The Club's quarters, opposite the Billiard Room, are equipped with lockers for the use of members, separate rooms for developing negatives, apparatus for contact printing, enlarging camera, copying camera and other accessories.

The members of the Camera Committee for 1926-27 are: Professor A. F. Coventry, (Chairman), the Warden, J. F. Phillips, (Graduate), H. E. Davison, (Secretary), J. H. Fox, W. T. Grant, F. W. Robertson, K. F. Tupper.

Squash Racquet Committee

The Squash Racquets Committee which is a Special Committee of Hart House is responsible to the Board of Stewards for the general control of the Squash Courts. The game has steadily increased in popularity during the past few years. A most successful Interfaculty Tournament was held this year for the first time.

The members of the Squash Racquets Committee for 1926-27 are: A. B. Fennell, (Chairman), C. R. Mills, (Graduate), H. Vernon, (Secretary), F. M. Lyon, R. B. Robinson.

Debating Committee

On 31st January, 1924, the first debate ever held in Hart House took place under the management of an informal Committee appointed for that purpose. This debate was held on the open parliamentary system and special Rules of Procedure were drawn up by the Committee. The Lecture Room in Hart House was arranged as far as possible like the Provincial or Federal House; the Speaker's chair was placed in a central position, members for the motion being on his right, those against the motion on his left. After the four speakers "on the paper" had finished their speeches, the debate was open to any member, who having caught the Speaker's eye might then rise and address the House. At 10.30 p.m. the House divided on the motion. There were no judges and the whole procedure was a definite attempt to get away from the competitive type of debate, which is really an oratorical contest, by which a team of three men from one University or Faculty tries to win a victory over a team of three men from another University or Faculty.

The undoubted success of this first debate led the Committee to plan further debates of a similar character. During the present academic year they have been continued, and have now become an integral part of the life of Hart House and of the University.

The aim of debates held under the Hart House system is to encourage real debating in contrast to the delivery of speeches carefully prepared for weeks beforehand and also to give undergraduates an introduction into public life by discussing questions of general interest across the floor of the House with the Country's ablest men. Among visitors who have spoken "on the paper" or from the floor of the House are the Hon. W. E. Raney, K.C., the Hon. J. W. Nickle, K.C., Mr. Andrew McMaster, K.C., Mr. R. P. Sparks of the C.M.A., Mr. J. M. Godfrey, K.C., the Hon. E. C. Drury, and the Hon. Manning Doherty.

On the 4th February the Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King took part in a debate, speaking fifth on a resolution dealing with Imperial Relations, and on the 2nd March Mr. Guthrie, Leader of the Opposition, was Hon. Visitor at the last Hart House debate of the year.

The members of the Debating Committee for 1926-27 are: V. W. Bladen, (Chairman), The Warden, M. T. Newby, (Vice-Chairman), Professor N. A. MacKenzie, H. M. Cody, (Graduate), L. H. Clayton, (Secretary), C. G. Mitchell, (House Committee), J. M. McCaffrey, (House Committee), B. J. Thomson, (University College), J. P. Armstrong, (Medicine), W. G. Raymore, (S.P.S.), T. N. Scott, (Dentistry), H. G. Soward, (Victoria), E. M. Reid, (Trinity), H. J. Haffey, (St. Michael's), L. L. Connor, (Forestry), A. G. Channen, (Wycliffe).

Board of Stewards

The Board of Stewards is the governing body of Hart House and is so constituted as to include among its members the secretaries of the six Standing Committees and representatives of the chief organizations in Hart House. Subject to the superior authority of the Board of Governors of the University the direction, management and administration of Hart House, including matters of discipline, are entrusted to the Board of Stewards. The Board is assisted by a Finance Committee which makes recommendations with regard to financial matters. The general supervision of the whole House is entrusted to the Warden who is appointed by the Board of Governors of the University and is ex-officio chairman of the Board of Stewards. He is assisted by the Comptroller, Mr. J. R. Gilley, whose duties are chiefly administrative.

The Songsters have been continued on certain Sunday evenings in the Music Room and have again been directed by Mr. Campbell McInnes.

The members of the Board of Stewards for 1926-27 are: The Warden, (Chairman, ex-officio), Sir Robert Falconer, K.C.M.G., the Hon. Vincent Massey, (Appointed by the Board of Governors), Dr. V. E. Henderson, Professor C. N. Cochrane, (Appointed by the President), T. A. Reed, (Financial Secretary, Athletic Association), G. N. Kennedy, (Graduate), J. R. Gilley, (Secretary), F. A. Doxsee, (S.C.A.), J. L. Uren, (Athletic Directorate), G. H. Rutherford, (S.A.C.), Professor G. A. Cornish, (Faculty Union), A. R. Tilley, (House Committee), F. A. Wansborough, (Hall Committee), T. D. Noble, (Library Committee), J. L. Goldie, (Music Committee), H. S. Dawson, (Billiard Committee), J. M. C. Lazier, (Sketch Committee).

Fact and Phantasy

PERHAPS your fancy has visualized the composition of a Year Book as the reception and regulation of a mass of personal data, cuts and writeups of the great and near great of our petty world, a "Hey Presto" and there stands a work of art. Would that we could depict the mental stress and physical strain lavished upon the production of this, our Twenty-ninth Volume, that it might, while including some of the inherent characteristics of former books, possess a distinct individuality worthy of the approval of those whom it purports to immortalize.

Yet there are some virtues in this literary journalism. The editor is left, more or less unmolested, to practice the hallucinations of a disordered brain, until the finished product is placed in the hands of the subscribers. By that time he has prepared his coat of cynical armour, and, tilting his chair and resting his feet on the desk-top, lets the storm rage about his heedless ears.

There are several matters in the present production, however, for which we are duly grateful. We would register our sincerest appreciation of the work of Mr. Coates in preparing the titles for the various sections. The type of these sketches has enabled us to maintain, throughout, in a delightfully artistic manner, the spirit of the Centenary of our University and of the ages which this celebration calls to mind. We draw to the reader's attention the opening article of this volume by Mr. T. A. Reed, which we feel sure will be highly appreciated, and we thank Mr. Jefferys for his sketches representing old scenes at Varsity which are used to illustrate "In Retrospect."

To that mine of worldly wisdom and unearthly cynicism, our Advisor, we owe an inestimable debt for the successful production of this volume, and to 'all who in any way aided us in the lightening of our task goes our deepest gratitude.

Amongst the various innovations in this book the drastic change in the biography section is worthy of note. The most obliging goddess of Ill Fortune having enabled the staff through straitened financial circumstances to rehabilitate the morgue in the front section, we now present for your approval the improved composition and the artistic attractiveness of the new biography page which former editorial boards feared they would never be able to impose upon the student body.

Our final recommendation to your sufferance is the consummate skill with which our artistic advertising staff has succeeded in gracing the section to follow.

Horse Power ~

IT WAS a momentous day for mankind when brute-strength was first employed to do the work over which generations of men had toiled and perspired. First to be harnessed was the ox.

THEN, as civilization progressed, the horse was pressed into service and turned the wheels of the world's machinery by such crude devices as that pictured above.

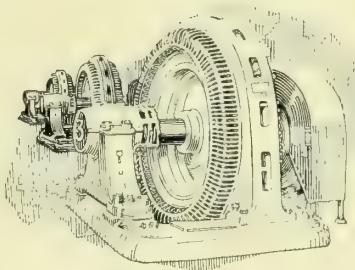

LATER came steam—but the term "horse-power" continued as the unit by which the work was measured.

Now electricity is giving up its secrets, furnishing mankind the cheapest, the cleanest and the most convenient source of "horse-power" ever known. Vast strides in manufacturing follow. Natural resources are being developed as never before. In almost every line of human endeavor, electricity works its miracles. In few other countries of the world has electricity been so widely developed as in Canada—for few other countries has electricity accomplished so much.

WITH almost unlimited water-power at her disposal, Canada has not hesitated to utilize electricity in practically every phase of her national and industrial life—and has made possible the establishment and the progress of great industries within her borders.

IN furthering this Canadian programme of electrical development by the design and construction of motors, generators and all other types of electrical equipment, C.G.E. has built up in Canada a great electrical organization.
